Ike, Khrush Arrange Talks

Soviet Chief Given Polite But Cool Welcome

Poker-Faced Crowds Line Parade Route

Arrival Is Like Dress Rehearsal In Empty Theater

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans in Washington watched in cool silence Tuesday as Nikita Khrushchev arrived for his historic visit to the United States.

People for the most part looked at him in curiosity, with apathy, or with blank, brooding expressions impossible to decipher.

There was a spatter of applause when he finished speaking at Andrews Air Force Base where President Eisenhower met him. Two signs, brought by three young men, bore words of welcome for Khrushchev.

Apart from this, there was no evidence that the crowds lining the streets felt any friendliness toward him, or found in his visit any hope of easing the anxieties of the world.

In a doorway, sitting in the shade, two workmen remained seated as Khrushchev, Eisenhower, Mrs. Khrushchev and an interpreter passed on the drive into the city.

Soviet Chief Steals Show

A cluster of Negro children stood in silence in a schoolyard on the outskirts. At other spots, though, there were loud greetings. On Pennsylvania Ave., the bands played and the guards marched. But on both sides of them, there was silence.

It was somehow like a dress rehearsal in an empty theater.

The story at the air base had been different. Khrushchev stepped down from the big Soviet transport wearing his familiar grin.

The performance by Khrushchev seemed to catch Eisenhower somewhat by surprise. But the President gave no outward sign that he was annoyed, presumably because much of Khrushchev's clowning came while Eisenhower was reading a formal welcoming speech before the microphones.

Hat Used As Sunshade

When it came time to swap welcoming speeches with Eisenhower, the two men mounted a 10x12-foot speakers platform.

While Eisenhower spoke Khrushchev began playing with his black homburg hat, gently waving it back and forth. Then he used it as a sunshade for his bald head. He held it a few inches above his head like an umbrella, raising it, then lowering it.

At one point while Eisenhower talked in English — a language Khrushchev doesn't understand—the Soviet Premier intently followed the flight of a butterfly that fluttered nearby.

Afterward as the two men rode side by side in an open limousine, Khrushchev repeatedly waved his homburg with a big flourish and grinned at the crowds. Eisenhower nodded and waved.

Little by little, the grin faded and the waving grew more mechanical. By the time he reached Blair House, he merely looked thoughtful and businesslike.

Camp David Conferences Sept. 25-27

Leaders Exchange Views; Red Boss Takes 'Copter Ride

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and President Eisenhower met Tuesday, exchanged assurances of a yearning for peace and agreed to attack the full range of cold war issues in three days of secluded conferences.

This effort at defrosting the cold war a bit will take place Sept. 25, 26 and 27 at Camp David, Eisenhower's hideaway in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, as the climax of the Russian leader's first visit to America.

The decision on this type of finale was reached at their first formal 1¾-hour session at the White House. It took place three hours after the world's top Communist flew in from Moscow, to a reception that wasn't exactly enthusiastic but did conform strictly to the diplomatic rule book and all it requires.

With the welcoming rites and the first official business session out of the way, Eisenhower marked up a small personal victory over the man who came here bragging that Russia has thrust a rocket to the moon.

He got his visitor into a helicopter out in the backyard of the White House and took him on a half-hour 40-mile circuit of Washington and its suburbs. Eisenhower had wanted to do just that, but the chopper ride wasn't on the program Khrushchev had approved.

Views Exchanged

The assurances and reassurances about peace and friendship began with arrival ceremonies at Andrews Air Force Base. Khrushchev also carried them into the White House conference in the late afternoon.

Out of the meeting, attended by a few other top officials on both the U. S. and Russian sides, came a brief communique saying the two chiefs of state had "reviewed the relationship between the two countries and exchanged views in general terms on international problems."

These weren't listed specifically. Probably they included such items as the East - West dispute over the future of Berlin and the unification of Germany, U.S.bases abroad, efforts of tiny Laos to avoid being gulped down by Reds, India's difficulties with Red China and prospects of agreeing on disarmament and a halt to nuclear weapons tests.

In any event, the discussions will continue at Camp David at the end of Khrushchev's swift swing around the country — to New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Pittsburgh.

"Friendly, Frank" Talks

The joint statement by Eisenhower and Khrushchev put the meeting in this setting:

"The atmosphere of the talks was friendly and frank with agreement that the discussions should continue in this spirit to seek ways to achieve a better understanding."

Khrushchev was up in the air for the second time during the day. He had spent most of the night and all morning winging in from his homeland.

At first chance to say something publicly, at the official welcome at the air field, he offered words of peace and friendship, plus gloating over Russia's moon missile.

Then the two most powerful figures in the world piled into Eisenhower's open-top auto and rode side by side from Andrews Air Force Base 15 miles into the heart of Washington.

They parted briefly, but soon got together again at the White House for the first of a series of conferences that may have a momentous bearing on the history of mankind.

Battle-Weary Congress Ends Long Session

By adjourning its eight-month session, Congress avoided a possibly embarrassing dilemma over whether to invite the Soviet leader to address it.

The end of this longest session in eight years came at 6:24 a.m. At that time, the Senate had been working for nearly 21½ hours and the House had been sitting off and on for almost 18½ hours.

1. Voted to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years beyond Nov. 8 and to provide $500,000 in funds to carry on its work for the rest of this fiscal year ending next June 30.

2. Appropriated $3,225,815,000 for foreign aid during this fiscal year—$704,182,000 less than President Eisenhower originally asked. In reaching a compromise, conferees cut 56 million dollars from the original Senate total and increased the House figure by 39 millions.

In the final hours, the Senate planted the seeds of what promises to be a searing battle over broad civil rights legislation at the next session starting Jan. 6.

Senators seeking such legislation won an understanding from Democratic and Republican party leaders that a showdown fight on the issue will be waged starting about mid-February.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said he now could see no way to sidestep the showdown, which could split the Democratic party in a year when it will be battling the Republicans for control of Congress and the White House.

Russell was a leader of the Dixie forces which made a hopeless last stand against continuing the Civil Rights Commission.

Vanguard Satellite Launching Postponed

Early Tuesday morning, the countdown reached zero on the last rocket in the Vanguard satellite series but nothing happened because of a faulty ignition system.

Car Explosives Report Proves Apparent Hoax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report that a car carrying explosives was seen along Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's route into Washington touched off a wide but fruitless search Tuesday.

Law enforcement officials later agreed the report was probably a hoax.

Maryland State Police, acting on a tip from an undisclosed source, broadcast an alarm to be on the lookout for the car a few minutes before Khrushchev's plane landed at Andrews Air Force Base.

Local police and the Secret Service joined the state troopers in a search of the area between the air base and downtown Washington.

Several hours later Michael Torina, chief inspector of the Secret Service, said, "from our inquiries, the report appears to have been groundless."

Plucky Girl, 19, Has Operation

The operation to which her parents once objected took nearly four hours and she emerged in satisfactory condition, the University of Kansas Medical Center reported. It said the tumor was benign.

The tumor had impaired her eyesight and endangered her life, doctors said. They reported her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butts of Oswego, Kan., finally were convinced of the seriousness of her condition and gave written permission Monday for the surgery.

Earlier in the case the girl petitioned a court to give her majority rights or to have a guardian appointed for her so she could go ahead with the surgery despite the parental objections.

Mrs. Khrushchev Poised, Smiling After Long Flight

Mrs. Khrushchev was poised and smiling as she walked with her husband from the giant Russian TU-114 plane which brought them to this country.

President Eisenhower greeted the Russian first lady with the words "I am delighted to meet you." But Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand to greet her.

No slight was intended. Mrs. Eisenhower was merely following her practice, observed even when Queen Elizabeth made her state visit two years ago, of first greeting foreign dignitaries at the White House.

The grandmotherly wife of Russia's premier broke into a wide smile when one of the Russian Embassy children, following the Russian custom, handed her a big bunch of red roses at the airport.

Mrs. Khrushchev sat to the President's left in the rear of an open limousine for the drive into town. She smiled and waved continually to the crowds.

Mrs. Khrushchev and her family apparently did not expect the Indian summer weather which greeted them on their first visit to this country. They were dressed in fall attire.

Mrs. Khrushchev was wearing a heavy blue - gray suit, sober black hat and black shoes.

Bomb Tossed In Schoolyard Kills 6 Persons

3 Children, Bomber Among Victims

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man tossed a suitcase of explosives on a school playground Tuesday and killed three children, himself and two other adults. One of the dead was the bomber's son.

The explosion sent at least 19 children and the school principal to hospitals.

Police Chief Carl Shuptrine said positive identification of Orgeron as the bomber was established through fingerprints taken from a hand found a block from the school.

The Poe Elementary School explosion rocked a three-acre area in a fashionable residential section near Rice Institute, a university.

The principal, Mrs. R. E. Doty, 64, said a man with a suitcase and a 7-year-old boy came to her office Tuesday morning.

The man sought to enroll the boy in the second grade.

"I told him he would have to register him first," the principal said. "He walked out and a few minutes later I got a report of a suspicious man on the school grounds."

In the meantime, the man registered the boy in the school as Dusty Orgeron.

The principal said she and school custodian James Montgomery, 56, talked with the man.

"There were three groups of children on the playground at the time, with their teachers," said Mrs. Doty. "I tried to tell him he would have to leave, but he told me: 'The police can't do anything to me.'"

The next moment, she said, the explosion erupted.

"All I could see was the children," she said. "They were crying."

The dead:

Dusty Orgeron, 7.

William S. Hawes Jr., 7.

John Cecil Fitch Jr., 8.

Mrs. Jennie Kolter, 54, a teacher.

Orgeron.

Police said Orgeron was convicted twice in Louisiana and once in Texas of burglary and theft.

Near the blast area investigators found a .351 rifle and a .32 pistol. Police presumed the bomber triggered the blast with the pistol.

Bits of wire and pieces of explosive detonators and wrappings were found over a 75-yard area.

A tattered sales ticket indicated 50 pounds of 60 per cent gelex had been purchased last year at Grant, N.M. The ticket did not carry the name of the purchaser. Explosives experts said gelex is more powerful than dynamite and is used in such commercial work as oil well perforations.

The all-white school has never had any integration troubles.

Found in the blast area was a penciled note addressed to Betty Jean Orgeron. The note threatened to "blow her and the children up."

Mrs. Orgeron said she and her husband had been separated about a year.

In a station wagon found near the school were six explosives detonators and a plastic sack that apparently once held explosives.

Another note scrawled in pencil on four pieces of paper also was found. Investigators theorized the note had been handed to Mrs. Doty seconds before the blast.

"Please do not get excited over this order I am giving you," the note said. "This suitcase you see in my hand is filled to the top with high explosives. This will make them do their job. Please do not make me push this button. That's all I have to do.

"I also have two more cases of dynamite set to go off at a certain time at three different places, so it will do more harm to kill me, so do as I say and no one will get hurt. I'd like to talk about God while I'm waiting for my wife."

Paintings Worth $650,000 Stolen

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — Art masterpieces valued at about $650,000 were stolen from the Toronto Art Gallery Monday night.

The stolen paintings included two Rembrandts, two Hals, a Renoir and a Rubens.

The thieves also damaged two paintings with a razor blade. They were the Harvest Wagon by Gainsborough and Daedalus Andicarius by Vandyke. Gallery officials said the paintings could be repaired.

Police said the burglars apparently were hiding in the gallery when it closed. They escaped by breaking two second floor windows, which tripped the burglar alarm.

Assistant Defense Secretary Resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday reluctantly accepted the resignation of Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil, the Pentagon's financial chief who has supervised the spending of billions upon billions in defense outlays over the past 12 years.

McNeil, 58, often characterized as a canny Scot who knows the value of a dollar, is quitting Nov. 1.

Long Won't Seek Reelection; Files For Lt. Governor

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long Tuesday abandoned his previous plans to run for re-election and instead qualified to run for lieutenant governor on the ticket of former Gov. James A. Noe.

Noe, 68, who was a legislative leader for the late Sen. Huey P. Long, was one of 12 to file with the Democratic State Central Committee as a candidate for governor in the Dec. 5 primary.

The 64-year-old Long, after weeks of keeping the state guessing, dropped his plans to run for another term and instead filed for lieutenant governor.

"Honestly and truly," Long said, "I'd rather be lieutenant governor with the right man than be governor."

U.N. Assembly Session Opens

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly opened its 14th session Tuesday, hopeful that East-West tensions may cease. But bitter debate loomed on such explosive issues as Communist aggression in Asia and nationalist demands for an independent Algeria.

Victor Andres Belaunde, veteran Peruvian diplomat known to U.N. delegates as "Mr. United Nations," was elected unanimously as president of the 82-nation Assembly.

Completely overshadowing the first day's proceedings was the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Washington for his visit with President Eisenhower. Many delegates came into the big modernistic blue-and-gold Assembly hall after watching the event on their TV sets.

Belaunde made no direct reference to the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks in his inauguration speech.

He called on the big powers, in cooperation with the United Nations, to start the world down the road to agreement on disarmament.

"Mr. K" Goes To State Dinner In Business Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made no concession to American standards of formal dress at turkey and more than the usual trimmings Tuesday night at a White House state dinner.

Although the affair was as formal as formal Washington can get, Khrushchev arrived wearing a black business suit and a gray silk four-in-hand tie.

He appeared to be wearing the same suit, shirt and tie that he had on earlier in the day. At least they looked alike.

The premier entered the White House at about 7:40 p.m., 20 minutes before the dinner was scheduled to begin. As is customary, he and Mrs. Khrushchev and other members of the family went upstairs to visit briefly with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower before joining the other guests.

After the chat upstairs, the Eisenhowers and the Khrushchevs took an elevator to the main floor to have their pictures made.

The Russian visitors mingled with a group of dinner guests as varied as the White House could make it—from the mayor of Des Moines, Iowa, to the president of the New York Stock Exchange.

The elaborate dinner on the White House gold service was followed by a musicale featuring more Americana for the Russian leader—a performance by Fred Waring and his "Pennsylvanians" singing old - time and familiar American songs.

United Nations Fact-Finders Arrive In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Four United Nations fact finders arrived in Laos Tuesday and began investigating the royal government's charges that it was the victim of Communist aggression from North Viet Nam.

The arrival touched off a spate of Communist charges that the commission was here illegally, that it was a tool of Western imperialism and that the United States and its allies were preparing a new war in Indochina.

Russia's Moscow radio and North Viet Nam's radio Hanoi denounced the mission and demanded the Laos problem be turned over to the East-West powers that worked out the agreement ending the Indochina War in Geneva in 1954.

Before the arrival of the U.N. team, Laos government officials said their forces appeared to have turned the tide against the Communists in the north.

Chief of Staff Gen. Ouane Sananikone said government troops were in a position to trap withdrawing Communist forces in two areas.

"Generally speaking the military situation is very good," he said.

Tripped By Teeth

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, England (AP)—Safeblower James Davidson's false teeth gave him away. They did not fit well and Davidson took them out while preparing to blast open an office. Davidson departed with the money, but forgot his teeth. They traced through dental records. He was given a five-year prison sentence.

U.S. Spurns Soviet Plan For Settling Laos Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States rejected as "disruptive and unnecessary" Tuesday a Soviet proposal for settling the Laos crisis without American participation.

In a move reported Monday the Russian news agency Tass, the Soviet government advocated that the Laos situation be considered by the nations which attended the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

This conference, in which the United States did not participate, brought an end to the fighting in Indo-China but left the Communists with a foothold in the area. The Reds now are trying to expand their power into Laos.

The State Department said that "since the United Nations has already taken action on the Laos issue, the proposal for a second Geneva conference would seem to be unnecessary and disruptive."

Moreoever, it added, the Soviet plan "would ignore the authority of the United States." The solution to the Laos problem "is not to be found in international conferences but in the cessation of intervention and subversion" in the tiny kingdom, it said.

Typhoon Hits Islands

No reports of damage to the islands were immediately available.

7,300 To Guard Khrush

NEW YORK (AP)—A total of 7,300 policemen—about a third of New York's force—has been assigned to guard Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev when he visits here.

New Governor-General Takes Over In Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada got a new governor-general Tuesday. He is Maj. Gen. George P. Vanier, the first French-speaking Canadian to hold the post. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker hailed his installation as a milestone in Canadian unity. Vanier, 71, a retired lawyer, scholar, soldier and diplomat, succeeds Vincent Massey as the personal representative of Queen Elizabeth II in Canada. Massey, 72, retired after 7½ years as the first Canadian in the largely ceremonial job.

Tammany Hall Leader Fights To Quell Revolt

The challenge to the 50-year-old De Sapio in his Greenwich Village district highlighted an otherwise drab state primary. Three contests for state legislative seats also were being decided.

De Sapio's leadership of the Manhattan Democratic organization rests on his control of his home district—the 1st Assembly District South—and his ability to win support of a majority of Manhattan leaders. A defeat in his own district also would probably end De Sapio's tenure as Democratic national committeeman from New York.

De Sapio's ouster after a decade as Tammany's chieftain was sought by a group led by former Sen. Herbert Lehman, former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

When the insurgents launched their anti-De Sapio drive last January, Lehman accused the Tammany leader of "boss rule." The former senator said this gave the Republicans a ready-made issue last year and led to Gov. Averell Harriman's defeat by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

De Sapio replied that he was a true liberal Democrat and that his critics were phony liberals, political housewreckers and were asking to be read out of the Democratic party.

Slain Widow's Estate Valued At $54,767

WASHINGTON (AP) — The estate of Mrs. Pearl Putney, part of whose skeleton was found in Sierra County, Calif., on Aug. 16, has been valued at $54,767.

Larry Lord Motherwell, a one-time Washington carpenter, is scheduled to be arraigned in Downieville, Calif., Wednesday on a charge that he murdered the Washington widow.

The petition lists Mrs. Putney's personal property at $54,767. About $50,000 of that amount is in securities which have been missing since Mrs. Putney left on a trip to California with Motherwell last summer.

Since no will has been found and none is believed to exist, the estate would go to Mrs. Putney's sole surviving heir, her half-brother, Castro M. Dabrohua, Chicago, attorneys said.

Camp David

an hour by headwinds, was lacking entirely in major incidents—no tossing of eggs, rocks or insults. A smattering of boos was heard. A few skull and crossbones flags and black armbands were on display.

For the most part, the thousands of people who turned out to see the first Soviet Communist chief of government ever to visit this country obviously did so more out of curiosity than tribute.

Yet many of them did wave and smile back when Khrushchev waved his black homburg hat and grinned jovially.

The chunky Premier was a scene-stealer right from the start, at the air base in nearby Maryland and on the drive to the President's guest house, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

He kept putting his hat on and taking it off, or holding it up to keep the sun from his eyes, all the time Eisenhower was delivering his brief speech of welcome at the airport.

During the motorcade trip into town, the Premier partly blocked the crowd's view of Eisenhower. He rode much of the way with his left arm on top of the back seat, almost around the President's shoulders. On the other side of Eisenhower was Mrs. Khrushchev and a huge spray of red roses.

Right from the start, too, there was a sparring and jockeying for position in the eyes of the world—the beginning of what may be a duel lasting through Khrushchev's entire 13-day stay in the United States.

There was an emphasis on friendship, peace and understanding. But there also was an underscoring of differences and points of abrasion.

It sounded a bit patronizing when Khrushchev predicted that U.S. scientists will get a rocket to the moon, too, as the Russians claim to have done over the weekend.

"The Soviet pennant, as an old resident of the moon," he said, "will welcome your pennant and they will live there together in peace and friendship as we both should live together on the earth in peace and friendship, as should live in peace and friendship all peoples who inhabit our common mother earth who so generously gives us her gifts."

Russians Hail Premier's Visit As Quest For Peace

There was little doubt that the people here felt this was a chance to end the cold war.

(In Washington, George V. Allen, director of the U. S. Information Agency (USIA), said that for the first time in 10 years broadcasts from the Voice of America reached behind the Iron Curtain free of Communist jamming. The Voice of America, an official agency of the USIA with a transmitter in Europe, beamed factual accounts into the Soviet Union of Khrushchev's arrival in Washington.

The radio and newspapers were filled with details of the flight and Radio Moscow reported on the "solemn reception ceremony" at which President Eisenhower formally received his guest.

The Russian newspapers linked the trip with the successful rocket moon shot and the launching of the atomic-powered icebreaker Lenin, which sailed into the Baltic Tuesday for sea trials.

The front page of Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, featured a drawing of a plane headed for Washington against a backdrop of the Dove of Peace, the Lunik rocket and the icebreaker.

The general attitude was that Russia had scored not only impressive scientific victories but also a major feat of diplomacy.

Two special correspondents for the government newspaper Izvestia reported that millions of Americans were "literally holding their breaths" in expectation of Khrushchev's visit.

One Injured In Crash Of Two Buses, Truck

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — A school bus, a truck and a Greyhound bus were involved in a collision near here Tuesday. Police said the only person injured was a passenger on the Greyhound bus.

The Prince Georges County school bus had just started after picking up some pupils and then halted again to pick up some latecomers.

Police said the bus pulled beside the school bus and then stopped. When it halted, the Greyhound was struck in the rear by a truck carrying 5½ tons of glass. The truck, police said, then bounced into the school bus. Some glass fell to the highway. Several windows in the school bus were broken.

The number of children on the bus at the time was not learned. They were en route to O. W. Phair Elementary and Laurel High School in Laurel.

Girl Must Stand Trial

Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 41, and Miss Tregoff are charged with slaying Barbara Jean Finch, 33, at the Finch home in West Covina last July 18.

HST Would Meet Khrush If Red Boss Asked Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said Tuesday that, while he won't see Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev if he can avoid it, he'd meet the Soviet leader if asked by Khrushchev.

"That would be the courteous thing to do," Truman explained.

Truman recalled that when he was president he invited the late Premier Joseph Stalin to visit this country "but he was afraid to come." Truman didn't amplify.

Casey Planned Wife's Slaying, State Charges

Asst. State's Atty. James W. Murphy made the statement in opening remarks in the murder trial of Casey, 34, charged with slaying his wife while AWOL from the Air Force last year.

Casey pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity. His attorney, Bernard M. Goldstein, told the jury of seven men and five women that Casey did not deny the act but that he was not legally responsible at the time.

"Sgt. Casey knew his wife was running around," the prosecutor told the jury, "and the evidence will show that she was. But the law makes no distinction as to the morals of the victim.

The state asked a first degree murder conviction, which could carry death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

Attorneys for both sides agreed that Casey gave police a written statement after the slaying on May 11, 1958 at the Casey home. However, the statement asserted that Casey "blacked out" and had no recollection of the fatal stabbing.

Milk Control Plan Urged For Greater Part Of State

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department Tuesday recommended establishment of a federal program to regulate basic milk prices in practically all of Maryland except the west.

Under this program, the department would set the minimum prices which handlers would be required to pay dairymen. It would not, however, set retail prices.

The program has been recommended by the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Assn., Inc., said to represent a majority of producers in the market.

The association said in Baltimore it had learned the order proposed setting a price of $5.55 per hundredweight of Class 1, drinking milk, for eight months of the year. From March through June the price would be $5.10.

The prices proposed are the same as those put into effect last July 1 for the Washington marketing area, it said.

The principal purpose of the program would be to stabilize prices and supplies of fluid milk in the market. Similar programs are operating in about 75 other urban marketing areas of the country.

The marketing area would include the City of Baltimore and surrounding portions of Maryland including the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford, Howard, Kent, Queen Annes, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester; the town of Laurel in Prince Georges County; and that portion of Calvert County not now included in a Washington milk marketing area.

Interested persons were given until Oct. 3 to file comments or exceptions to the proposed program.

Approval by two-thirds or more of the producers supplying the area is required before the order can be put into effect.

Warm Weather Delays Apple Crop Coloring

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Hot weather has delayed the coloring of the Hancock area apple crop, but the advent of cooler temperatures is expected to speed the process, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

In its weekly summary, the service said harvest of Grimes and Jonathans apples was progressing rapidly and some Delicious were expected to move to mark early this week and in Allegany County about Oct. 1.

Stayman, Rome Beauty and Yorks were expected to be ready in both areas around Oct. 1-5, the service said.

The weekly report noted that continued high temperatures and lack of rain last week rushed maturity of the corn crop. At the week's end, more than half of the crop was mature, compared with less than 25 per cent a year ago.

Soil moisture was generally adequate over most of north central Maryland and the Eastern Shore, but in Southern Maryland and some sections of Western Maryland it was dry. Early fall seedings of hay, pasture and cover crops needed rain.

About 95 per cent of the state's tobacco crop was harvested and in the barns.

The service said soybeans had suffered serious damage from corn earworms in parts of the lower Peninsula, but elsewhere prospects were considered generally excellent.

Friendship Airport Ready, Just In Case

But if something had happened to prevent the big Russian plane from landing there, Friendship Airport was ready in all respects to receive the Soviet aircraft.

Hundreds of specially trained troops from Ft. Meade arrived at Friendship Airport early Tuesday. Others were kept in a state of readiness on the base nearby if needed.

Lt. Col. William H. Weber and 75 state troopers were on hand to guard roads, bridges and all approach areas to the airport. Other troopers stood by to escort President Eisenhower to Friendship from Washington.

Take Coins, Miss Bills

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Thieves broke into the Town Tavern in Hagerstown Monday night and carried away a heavy load of small change — nickels, dimes and quarters — totaling about $2,000 but missed 500 $1 bills stacked nearby, police reported.

Three Deaths Boost State's '59 Traffic Toll To 361

By The Associated Press

Maryland added three more deaths to the list of those killed in highway accidents during 1959.

The worst accident occurred Tuesday when two were killed and four injured on Maryland 6 at its intersection with U.S. 301 at La Plata.

State Police said Mrs. Agnes Yvonne Proctor, 21, of Pisgah, Md., was killed when she drove through a red traffic light and hit another vehicle. A passenger in the other car, Mrs. Frances Rosen, 45, of Seaford, N.Y., died from her injuries.

Mrs. Rosen's husband, Benjamin, 46, who was driving, suffered a possible fractured pelvis and ribs. Their daughter Alice, 12, suffered chest injuries. Mrs. Nellie Bowman, 44, of Pisgah, and Helen Bowman, 17, of Pisgah, passengers in Mrs. Proctor's car, also were injured.

Early Tuesday, Eino Pehkonen, 24, a sailor on a Danish freighter taking on cargo in Baltimore, was killed when struck by a truck on U.S. 40 east of Baltimore while helping five sailor companions push a disabled automobile.

Police said the truck driven by William D. Brown of Baltimore and car, but Pehkonen apparently came over a slight rise in the road, swerved to avoid the men and car and was hit.

Gold Star Mothers To Meet

A discussion of National Gold Star Mothers Day will feature the first meeting of the fall season of the Tri-State Chapter, Gold Star Mothers, which will be held tonight at 7:30 in the American Legion home.

The national observance will be held September 27, with a ceremony at Arlington, and the annual dinner in Washington on the 26th.

Following the regular business session tonight a social hour will be held, games will be played and refreshments served.

Association Reports On Varicosities

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association reports that one of the most common afflictions of mankind is a condition known as "varicose" (swollen) veins. As a disorder related to the circulatory system, varicose veins has been a concern of the association and its medical specialists.

The true cause of varicose veins is unknown. However, an important aspect seems to be hereditary, since most of the women and men who suffer from the condition have parents or grandparents who were similarly disabled.

It has been observed that women suffer from varicose veins more often than men, and that they occur more frequently in people whose occupations keep them on their feet for long hours at a time. Waitresses, elevator operators, store clerks and like workers are apt to have them—and so are those who do very heavy lifting. Pregnant women are particularly susceptible to varicose veins.

Surface veins which carry blood from the ankle to the upper leg are the ones that balloon out into the varicosities (swellings) that make legs unsightly and give pain. They are connected by communicating veins to inner or deep veins, and are enveloped in muscle so are much less apt to swell. The muscles help support the heavy column of blood that flows the long distance from the ankle to the heart.

Attached to the inside walls of all main veins are valves—an irregularly spaced series of cup-like structures that open as blood flows upward toward the heart and close to prevent its dropping back toward the feet. Doctors have found that when the valves are weak or damaged, trouble begins.

Obedience Class Is Organized

A fall Obedience Class, sponsored by the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, was organized Sunday under the direction of Miss Laura Nickel. Several more dogs will be accepted if they are entered for the next lesson, which will be at 2 p. m. September 20 at the North End playground.

As obedience training has become an important phase of canine activities in the kennel club, graduation exercises were held recently, concluding the summer course. Mrs. Donald Prichard served as judge.

The highest score was awarded to Isolde O'Page's Hill, a Shetland sheepdog, owned and handled by Mrs. Earl Smith; second in the advanced class was the boxer Tammaro of Cumberland, owned and handled by Mrs. Frank Urbas.

In the beginner's class top honors were awarded to the toy poodle, Pompey's Lord Peter, owned and handled by William Wag'y; second to the pug, owned and handled by Carl Showers and third to the German shepherd, owned and handled by Dr. G. O. Himmelwright.

Enrolled in the fall class are two bassett hounds entered by Sally Stern and Mary Kuehn; three cocker spaniels entered by Mr. and Mrs. Homer Higgins and Karen Holbrook; two poodles, by Mrs. Roger Holbein and Mrs. Charles Nuzum; a Dalmatian entered by Karen Ort; a boxer by Stanley Klein; and a Pomeranian handled by Mrs. Floyd Myers. Four of the dogs entered will be given an advanced course and the others, the beginners course.

Each course will consist of 10 hour periods, with the final class being an examination. Information concerning the classes can be obtained by calling Miss Nickel, telephone PA 4-4608, or coming to the next session on Sunday.

County Gets Bids For Purchase Of Lots

Bids on a number of lots in Cumberland that are owned by the county were received at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

The lots had been advertised for sale and the bids were turned over to the county attorney for recommendation. The Cumberland Real Estate Corporation submitted bids of $75 for three lots in the Cumberland Park Addition, $300 for a lot in the Braddock Heights Addition and $100 for another lot in that section.

Thomas L. Popp offered the county $165 for each of three lots in Reed's Addition, while Charles R. Nuzum bid $40 for eight lots in the Ridgedale Addition.

The commissioners indicated they would attend a number of meetings during the next few weeks. The group plans to attend a Dutch treat dinner of the Chamber of Commerce for the Legislative Council next Thursday at the Cumberland Country Club.

The board will attend a meeting of the Council the following day at 10 a. m. during which possible legislation will be discussed. The meeting will be held in the City Hall. The group agreed to meet next Thursday morning, instead of Friday, so that all members can attend the meeting with the Legislative Council.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, asked the commissioners to attend a meeting in Mt. Savage Thursday at 2 p. m. when sanitation problems of the community will be discussed.

Dowling also invited the board to attend a meeting next Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Ellerslie when a water problem for that region will be discussed with a delegation of residents.

The board indicated it would attend a meeting of the Upper Potomac River Commission next Thursday and Friday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel when water quality in the North Branch will be discussed.

Writer Lumbers Through Sylvan Dells With Nudists

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

PALMERTON, Pa. (AP)—"Be sure to get here in time for the square dance," Zelda Suplee urged. "And please don't write all that tired old stuff about pot bellied men."

Square dance in a nudist camp?

I was willing to promise anything not in violation of the Geneva convention. As for that pot bellied men routine, one look at me and Zelda knew only the most penetrating autobiographical profile would dishonor my pledge.

She was seated at her desk in the office of Sunny Rest Lodge here in the Poconos when I arrived. The office was rather starkly decorated. So was Zelda. She wore a sunny disposition with imitation coral accessories: Necklace, earrings, sunglasses. And, oh yes, shoes.

I was going to spend a weekend at a nudist camp. Depth reporting, the journalism textbooks call it. Zelda's letter, signed "naturally yours," gained me admission to her camp, one of the largest in the East.

"You'll wear the uniform, of course?" She looked me straight in the eye, which was something of a feat since my eyes were busy counting pine knots in the floor boards.

"When in Rome..." I bandied bravely.

The uniform, I knew in advance, was no uniform at all. But I repaired to my cabin to get into uniform. On the way I passed the recreation hall. It was called "Bare Belly Inn."

I felt the least I should do, upon removing my clothes, was to go gamboling down the garden path. Somehow, I just couldn't. Being a newspaperman, I clutched a newspaper strategically and edged onto the sun lawn where a dozen people were luxuriating.

It was like a YMCA locker room moved outdoors and suddenly gone coed. My strategy was to be as unobtrusive as possible for as long as possible. But a monstrous bumble bee had other ideas. Jumping to my feet, I executed a neat valencia with the newspaper and waved away both the bee and my modesty.

"They won't hurt you," said a pretty young thing, laughing. "Mind if I look at the sports section" In my embarrassment I gave her the whole paper. My break with conventions was now complete. For the next three days I was a child of nature, a Botticelli angel flitting—well, lumbering—through the sylvan glades of eastern Pennsylvania.

I swam, I sunned, I burned, I played table tennis, shuffleboard and scrabble, but pleaded a fictitious war wound when it came to volley ball, the nudist national pastime.

The nudists turned out to be a friendly, informal crowd—not the weird health fadists I had expected. When introduced they shook hands, the only bodily contact allowed, and gave first names or "nudes de plume," as Zelda termed it.

No one dressed for dinner. Or for breakfast or any other meal.

The group included a Wall Street broker, a structural engineer, an insurance agent, a legal secretary and two small plane owners who had landed at the camp's private field with their wives. The camp admits single men and women over 21, whole families of all ages and married men if accompanied by their wives. Liquor and gambling are prohibited.

Contrary to popular belief, nudists seldom trot around nude. Most wore hats, sandals, jewelry, wristwatches, sunglasses and, as needed, wedding rings, cosmetics and dentures. When the sun went down, they got completely dressed, except for those using the pool.

As advertised, the square dance turned out to be the highlight of my visit. Everyone wore clothes. But not the bright shirts and blue jeans currently in vogue among the folk lore set. When nudists dress they go whole hog in the opposite direction: Jackets, ties, boutonnieres, high heels, cocktail dresses, perfume.

Mann Road Work Sought

A delegation of residents of Mann Road in the eastern end of the county yesterday filed a petition with the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County asking that the road be hard-surfaced.

Dale Mann, spokesman for the group, was informed that the road had recently been inspected by Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, and John J. Rowan, president of the board of commissioners.

Rowan said the improvement is to be included in next year's roads program and explained to the delegation that the only money used for such improvements comes from the county's share of the state gasoline tax.

Commissioner William A. Wilson also pointed out that the most heavily traveled highways get the preference for any road improvements. It was brought out that school buses and rural mail carriers have great difficulty in negotiating the road during winter months.

The petition stated that residents along the road had deeded rights of way for road improvement in 1936 and 11 families reside on the road which is heavily traveled by residents of nearby Pennsylvania.

Flintstone PTA Meets Tomorrow

The Flintstone Parent-Teacher Association will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to install officers and consider the budget.

Officers for the year are Mrs. Guy Thompson, president; Floyd Custer, vice president; Mrs. Richard Grubb, second vice president, and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, treasurer.

Mrs. William Mauzy and Mrs. Richard Grubb will report on the summer conference.

Committee chairmen for the year are Mrs. Floyd Custer, program committee; Lawrence Kyle, budget and finance; Mrs. Eston Heavner, refreshments; Mrs. Mauzy, hospitality; Mrs. Richard Grubb, publicity; Rev. and Mrs. Donald Bates, spiritual education; Eugene Harris, safety; Mrs. Lawrence Kyle, parents and family life education and parliamentarian; Mrs. Eugene Kinton, membership; Floyd Custer, playground; Mrs. Virgil Atkinson, library; Kenneth Malone, citizenship; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McLaughlin, health, and Mrs. Hazel Bottenfield, sunshine.

The PTA theme this year is "Educate The Whole Child."

An executive meeting at 7 p. m. will precede the regular meeting.

Board Airs Lonaconing School Safety

The matter of safety for school children was brought to the attention of the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County yesterday by Commissioner William A. Wilson.

The commissioner made a formal request for another investigation of a condition in Lonaconing where students attending Valley High School must walk along the roadway along the western approaches of town.

Wilson said he felt a pathway of some sort should be provided for the safety of students, and also stated a traffic light should be installed as a safety measure.

The board asked Wilson to head the investigation and report back on any possible recommendations.

The commissioners in a letter to Gov. J. Millard Tawes formally protested the transfer of the Cumberland racing program to Hagerstown and asked the governor to investigate the action of the State Racing Commission.

The letter stated Allegany County had suffered a severe economic blow as a result of the incident and requested Gov. Tawes to determine the reason for transferring the racing meet and to take necessary action in preventing a repetition of the action in the future.

Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Infirmary, advised the board of commissioners of the resignation of Mrs. Hannah E. Blubaugh and asked that another dishwasher be named.

Commissioner Wilson pointed out that any replacement must be made on a temporary basis since there was no Civil Service list available.

The board, on motion of Commissioner J. Tucker Mason, voted to increase the salary of Aubrey Webb, an employe in the County Assessing Department. Mason explained that the increase, amounting to $200 a year, was recommended by the Civil Service Board after that group had placed his position in a higher classification.

The commissioners also instructed the clerk to the board to advise all department heads to turn their bills in by the end of each month so that prompt action can be taken on them in the future.

Commissioner Asks Inspection Of Site

Commissioner William A. Wilson yesterday asked the county roads department to investigate the need of fill dirt in a parking area in Midland.

Residents of the area said the area has become worn that sharp rocks are exposed, thus endangering the tires of automobiles.

City Sells $300,000 Thruway Bond Issue At Four Per Cent Interest Rate

The City of Cumberland sold a $300,000 Cumberland Thruway of 1959 bond issue yesterday for an interest rate of 4 per cent.

Successful bidder was Alex Brown and Son and John C. Legg Company of Baltimore, one of two submitting bids.

The actual average interest rate over the 14½ years of the issue will be 3.996 with a premium of approximately $300. Total interest cost for all bond years will amount to $168,400 until maturity.

The other bid was submitted by a combination of Mercantile Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Baker-Watts and Stein Brothers and Boyce. This combination bid an interest rate of 4⅛ per cent which would have cost $173,662.50. The successful bid was $5,262.50 below this figure.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson in commenting on the bond sale said he was pleased with the 4 per cent figure in view of market conditions. As it happened, the figure was exactly what had been figured by the city auditor.

Edward O. Clark Jr., of the Baltimore law firm of Clark, Smith and Prendergast, attended the meeting. The firm was hired by the city to certify the issue.

A. B. Collmus of the Alex Brown firm was present at the session and told the Mayor and Council that the issue came at a time when stocks are in a bad money market and at a bad time for municipalities to sell.

However, he said the city, which he termed a good investment, got a good price and said if council knew of any one wanting to invest in the tax-free issue, the Alex Brown Company would be interested in hearing from them.

Inquiries concerning the purchase of the City of Cumberland coupon bonds should be directed to Collmus or Dwight Collmus, representing Alex Brown and Sons, Frederick.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said following the meeting that he reserved some of the bonds for investment purposes and added they were a good buy.

Proceeds from the sale of the bond issue will be used to pay $280,000 the city owes the State Roads Commission on the construction contract for the Cumberland Thruway. This releases state gas and auto revenues which have been withheld by the state and applied toward the city's share of the project. The city expects $90,000 from that source.

The interest rate for this 1959 issue is the highest paid by the city since March 1, 1936 when the $100,000 Allegany Hospital issue was sold to the W. W. Lanahan Company at 4 per cent.

The last issue sold was September 25, 1956 and the rate was 3.25 per cent. That was $150,000 in Memorial Hospital bonds and $150,000 in Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection bonds.

County Getting New Trucks

The Board of Commissioners of Allegany County yesterday voted to take the recommendation of Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic, on the purchase of three new trucks for the roads department.

Skelly and Robinette were questioned as to why they each preferred the bid of Light and Decker Company for three International trucks when two other bids, by the St. George Motor Company and Frostburg Auto Company, were lower.

The men explained that the vehicles would have to be converted for use with snow plows, and that in their opinion the International vehicles would be the easiest to convert and maintain.

The Light and Decker Company bid was for $17,825, while the lower bids were $17,323.50 by the St. George firm and $17,700 by Frostburg Auto. The other bid, $20,308.15, was made by Heiskell Motors.

The motion for purchase was seconded by Commissioner William A Wilson with the reservation that he felt representatives of the auto firms should have been present. Commissioners John J. Rowan, board president, and J. Tucker Mason each stated they had confidence in Skelly's and Robinette's opinions that the International vehicles would be most economical in the long run.

Dougherty Appeals Move To Lift Building Permit

E. A. Dougherty, the city's new garbage collector, has appealed a move to revoke a permit for construction of a warehouse-garage in the Wempe Drive-Fourth Street vicinity.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said Dougherty filed the action with the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday.

The Mayor and Council moved Monday to revoke the permit on the basis of health and fire protection.

It acted after a petition signed by 98 residents of the area was submitted. Complainants said the structure would adjoin a residential "A" area, will stop development, be a nuisance and create an unhealthy condition.

It was pointed out that the side of the street where the Dougherty structure would be is zoned business while the side across the street is residential.

Construction has not been started but City Attorney William R. Carscaden told council if Dougherty purchased the property for business purposes and since it is a business zone, the city has very little chance of offsetting it.

Dougherty has been awarded the city's garbage collection contract effective October 1 at $74,945 with options to renew for three years.

Will Air Car Travel Replace Railroads?

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A revolutionary new car that skims with ease over water, mud, ice and dry ground on a cushion of air may someday make today's railroads as obsolete as mule trains.

The car, which is neither an airplane nor an automobile, might even turn superhighways into country roads and ground many short-haul airplanes.

If developed far enough, it could conceivably replace some ocean liners, buses and trucks and turn land-bound cities such as Indianapolis into world ports.

These are some of the possibilities offered by one of the nation's leading transportation experts on the basis of information now available about an assortment of flat-bottomed cars that zip through the air no more than a foot from the surface of the earth and sometimes only a hair's-breadth away.

William L. Grossman, professor of transportation at New York University, is enthusiastic over the possibility of a truly amphibious mode of transportation.

But he carefully pointed out the dangers of predictions of things to come from the development of vehicles such as the Ford Motor Co.'s "Levacar," the Curtiss-Wright Company's "air-car," and the British "Hovercraft."

"A lot of things that are sensational technically seem to have less impact on society than you would think," Grossman said in an interview. "The helicopter was going to change suburban life entirely. There were predictions that people would build houses with special roofs for landing. It hasn't happened yet and isn't an immediate prospect."

All three cars described by Grossman operate on a system of levitation involving the ejection of streams of air that provide cushions between the cars and the earth's surface. The air is a lubricant that greases the way for the flat-bottomed vehicles, which have no wheels, no gears to shift, no clutches and no foot pedals.

Curtiss-Wright is putting a four-passenger, 60-mile-per-hour model of its "air-car" into production this fall. It hopes to sell these cars to ranchers, oil explorers, pipeline developers and similar users. Later, it hopes to turn out "air-car" trucks and buses.

The Ford model still is in an experimental stage. It is being developed to go at speeds high enough to put it into competition with buses and airplanes on intercity routes.

Britain's "Hovercraft" has been developed mainly to skim over water. Present plans call for putting it into service across the English Channel.

The "air-car" travels from 6 to 12 inches above the earth's surface. The "Hovercraft" maintains about the same distance. But the "Levacar" barely skims the surface, staying only a fraction of an inch in the air.

Need No Bridges

A rail only a few inches wide might serve as the "way" for the "Levacar," Ford officials said. Extensive development of these and the other types of "ways" would slash road-building costs, according to Grossman. All the vehicles require is a smooth surface under them, which could be provided with a bulldozer, and they need no bridges. Rivers could become highways and thoroughfares might be established across lakes and deserts, Grossman said.

"The possibilities offered public transportation provide the most intriguing aspect," Grossman said. "The vehicles might realize very high speeds through a system of automatic traffic control. Buses might travel 300 to 400 miles per hour between cities without danger. It would be like a flying railway line."

In the freight field, Grossman said, one of the most important problems today is the high cost of shifting cargoes from one vehicle to another.

Keyser Council Acts To Curb Water Shortage

Certain Uses Now Prohibited

KEYSER — An emergency ordinance was enacted by the Mayor and City Council here yesterday afternoon to deal with the wate shortage, now prevalent in the city.

The ordinance will prohibit the use of city water for air-conditioning with non-circulating water systems, as well as for watering lawns, washing automobiles and any other non-essential use.

A fine of from $5 to $10 will be imposed on violators of the ordinance. Paul Peters, finance commissioner, as well as Raymond Murray, water commissioner, expressed the hope that no fines will have to be imposed. "I feel that when the people of Keyser realize the seriousness of the situation they will cooperate with us along these lines," Mr. Peters said.

Commissioner Murray said that the condition has been brought about by the lack of rain throughout the spring and summer and that continued use of water for lawns and washing cars will not help the situation. He said that the City Reservoir in the Limestone section is 12 feet below the spillway. "We can only pump water for about two hours at a time and then have to wait for twelve hours for the supply of water to build up so that the pumping can continue," Mr. Murray continued.

Mayor Romig pointed out that the New Creek Dam will help alleviate the situation in the future but that at present there is only one foot of water behind the dam.

The Council also made plans for an ordinance to permanently prohibit the use of the non-circulatin water system for air conditioning. This ordinance will be drawn up by Charles W. Smith, city attorney, for consideration of the council at a future date. Mr. Peters said the ordinance is necessary because people have refused to comply with a request published several days ago to curtail further usage.

Barber, Salesman Disagree Over Khrushchev Visit

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to this country touched off a flurry of words around the country and a flurry of fists in a Huntington barbershop.

Huntington barber Harry F. Harless, 55, and Leroy K. Parker, 43, a traveling salesman from Chicago, exchanged blows after Parker said the visit was a good thing and Harless disagreed. Both were booked Monday as a result of the fight.

Crews Return To Work At Sugar Grove

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (AP)—The full work force was on the job Tuesday at the U. S. Navy's 79 million dollar radio telescope project at Sugar Grove, Pendleton County.

Lt. Cmdr. E. S. Nuss, assistant resident project officer for the Navy, said "everyone has returned to work, as far as I know."

Nuss explained that 58 iron workers union members and 28 unionized carpenters quit work Sept. 2 in a dispute with the several contracting firms on the project. He said some employes went back to work last Thursday and others returned Monday.

The union employes who staged the short walkout were members of the Cumberland, Md. Local 568, Iron Workers Union, and Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

Nuss said there are at least three companies employing iron workers and two firms employing carpenters on the giant project. The prime contract for the Navy project is a joint venture for three companies — Tidewater Construction Co. of Norfolk, Va., Peter Kiewit & Sons of Omaha, Neb., and Patterson, Emerson and Comstock Construction Co. of Pittsburgh.

Nuss said he did not know the specific issue in the recent walkout, or whether the union and company have agreed to terms.

Union officials in Cumberland said the unauthorized walkout resulted from a dispute involving $5-a-day subsistence pay. At least one firm has agreed to pay and negotiations are continuing with the other firms.

PSC Water Rules Apply To W.Va. County Boards

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The state attorney general's office said Tuesday that a county court supplying water to customers would be subject to regulation by the Public Service Commission.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Clement Bassett told Harrison County Prosecutor Robert B. Ziegler it would be up to the PSC to make final determination in the matter.

Bassett said it would be up to the commission to determine whether the water system operated by the county court of Harrison County would be subject to regulation by the PSC.

92 Per Cent Of County Taxes Obtained

In the first three months after the Allegany County tax bills were distributed to taxpayers, County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff and his assistants had collected more than 92 per cent of the anticipated annual income from county taxes.

Mr. Orndorff reported yesterday that he has turned over to Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, the county auditor, $3,194,724.26, representing county tax collections for the three discount months of June, July and August. There was $2,901,604.23 collected in June at five per cent discount, $153,768.53 in July when the discount was four per cent and $139,351.10 in August at three per cent interest.

The total of $3,194,724.26 represented 92.7 per cent of the $3,446,400 the county commissioners estimated they would receive when the tax rate was set April 21. Collections for sanitary districts by Mr. Orndorff, also turned over to Mrs. Sills, included $609.85 for LaVale, $339.89 for Cresaptown, $41.58 for Potomac Park and $41.49 for Mt. Savage.

This month, one-half per cent interest is being charged on county real estate taxes. Interest on state real estate taxes, also collected by Mr. Orndorff, will start October 1.

Soil Bank Deadline Extended

Farmers interested in the 1960 Conservation Reserve are being reminded that two changes in Soil Bank regulations should make more farmers eligible to participate.

Bradye H. Dolly, chairman of the Allegany Agricultural and Stabilization committee, said yesterday that any farmer ineligible under former rules but now eligible for a 1960 contract has until September 30 to request his county ASC office to set a basic annual rate for his farm. The deadline had been September 10, he said.

One change affects situations where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily and the owner takes over the operation. The other covers situations where land has been lost for public use under eminent domain procedures.

Under the program as originally announced for 1960, a farm which was operated wholly or partially by a tenant or sharecropper in 1958 or 1959 could not be placed in the Conservation Reserve next year unless a tenant or sharecropper was designated to share in the annual rental payment. The purpose of this provision was to protect tenants against being forced off Soil Bank farms.

The new provision permits a contract with a land owner where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily and the owner finds it necessary to take over the operation. In such a case, a Conservation Reserve contract for nontenant operation may be entered into for 1960 provided it can be established definitely that the tenant left the farm of his own accord. This may be proved either through a statement signed by the tenant or sharecropper or, if he is not available, through statements signed by three disinterested persons who know the situation.

The other newly announced change provides an exception to the general rule that land purchased since December 31, 1956 is not eligible for the Conservation Reserve. Under the new rule, a farmer who has lost land through eminent domain since 1956 and has bought replacement land can place this new land in the 1960 Conservation Reserve, subject to certain limitations.

Troopers To Ask Courts To Fine Speeders Heavily

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police Superintendent Hazen Fair said Tuesday he had told all State Troopers to ask justices of the peace and all traffic courts to assess heavier fines for speeding in order to reduce highway accidents.

Fair said the troopers had been asked to suggest a penalty of $2 a mile for every mile over the posted limit of 55.

"The standard penalty now is $10 and costs and that is not sufficient, especially in the cases of repeated violators," Fair said.

Fair said he would be willing to take any action to cut down on the traffic fatality toll.

Back Home To Which Korea?

Stubborn President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of South Korea threatens to use force, if necessary, to prevent the voluntary repatriation to Communist North Korea of the Koreans in Japan. How far Rhee will actually go should be disclosed soon after the Japanese Red Cross Society processes applications—beginning Sunday—of those who opt to go to North Korea.

Japan, for its part, says the 600,000 Korean nationals, taken to Japan for industrial jobs in World War II, are free to go to either North or South Korea—or to remain in Japan. And even such a staunch friend of the Rhee regime as Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) told his colleagues, September 1, that he had been assured by the U. S. State Department that "any repatriation that is undertaken . . . will be on a strictly voluntary basis."

Even so, Bridges recommended vigilant caution. "If there is any evidence whatever that the Communist North Koreans are attempting to deny basic rights to those Koreans who wish to return to South Korea, or are attempting to make a mockery of the good offices of the International Red Cross," Bridges declared, "then, as the allies of the Japanese and the South Korean people, it is our duty to expose their activities."

Meantime, Rhee in June broke off trade relations with Japan over the repatriation squabble. Inasmuch as any Japanese-Korean rift is inimical to U. S. interests in the Pacific, Walter C. Dowling, U. S. Ambassador to Korea, is quietly trying to get representatives of the two countries to resume discussions.

The British Election

The British Prime Minister having served notice on Her Majesty the Queen that his Government is resigning and that a general election should be held, the date of October 8 has been set. The campaign will last exactly one month and is very carefully scrutinized as to expenses and proprieties.

A British election is different from ours. No one votes for a Prime Minister, although everyone knows who it could be, either Harold Macmillan, the Conservative, or Hugh Gaitskell, the Socialist. No one votes for a Cabinet Minister, as such, although every Cabinet Minister is elected as a Member of Parliament and it is pretty well known which of them will be members of the Cabinet.

No person commands all the authority under the British system that the President of the United States does. He is elected as President; the Prime Minister of Great Britain is elected as a Member of Parliament from a constituency. Although now that commercial television exists in Great Britain, it will be possible for the Prime Minister to appeal to the entire nation on behalf of his party, he will, nevertheless, run only in one constituency. It is generally a safe one—that is, one that is sure to return the Prime Minister. However, should an accident occur and should he be defeated, a Member of Parliament from a sure constituency would resign and a bye-election would be held so that the Prime Minister can be returned to Parliament. This is not likely ever to happen.

A candidate for Parliament need not live in the constituency for which he stands. He can live anywhere and it is the Executive of his party which decides who is to run and where. In a word, a British political party is a membership organization and those who direct it are responsible to the members and have organizational authority.

The Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Paul Butler, has attempted to introduce a modification of this system this year. He asserted the authority of the Democratic National Committee as to matters of policy and was sharply put down by Senate leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. They disregard his Policy Committee. Some Republicans, headed by Charles Percy, have attempted to organize a similar body but it has come to nothing because when a party is in office, its policy is made by the incumbent President and the leadership of the party in Congress. While outside committees may influence public opinion, it is in Congress that the votes count.

In Great Britain, it is very different. The party is important and it is the party which sets policy, often through its own experts in its own conclaves outside of Parliament.

In the United States, being a member of the House of Representatives is no great shucks. In Great Britain, being a member of the House of Commons is the highest elective office to which any man can aspire. A member of the House of Commons is a distinguished person and is respected for his status. Only members of Parliament can serve in the Cabinet and most of them are likely to be members of the House of Commons.

A British campaign is very different from American campaigns. The speeches are more serious, less flamboyant, less personal. The meetings are smaller and the constituents ask questions, even from so distinguished a candidate as Sir Winston Churchill. And it is expected that he will answer the questions. He might be witty and try to side-step but the British electorate talks up. There is an intimacy between the candidate and the electorate which is not known in the United States.

The probability is that the Conservatives will win this election and Macmillan will continue as Prime Minister. This is largely due to the desire of the British to liquidate the Cold War. They now believe that the cooperation of Macmillan and Eisenhower is essential to the success of the project of liquidating the Cold War which is to be done by a series of Summit Conferences. At any rate, the election is set for October 8 which is so near at hand that the chances of total failure of the Eisenhower program are not likely in the interval.

A British election is a great time for arguments and much truth somehow makes itself known.

Khrush Should Talk With Truman, See Big And Little U. S. Industry

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev's see-the-USA tour has been arranged after various huddles with the State Department, to take in approximately six big cities, one farm, one factory, various upper-crust dinners, plus the necessary conferences with President Eisenhower.

If I were arranging this tour—and Nikita can be grateful I'm not — I would include a session with Harry Truman, a down-to-earth guy who's skeptical about Russia but who actually is the same kind of whistle-stopper as Comrade Khrushchev. I would also include the most diverse establishments and elements in American life, some of them a credit to the USA, some of them a discredit, as follows:

REBUILDING A BLEMISH—The school in Clinton, Tenn., which was dynamited, a blot on American tolerance but at the same time a great credit to the little community that continued schooling without losing a single day; also a credit to thousands of school children all over the USA, and to organized labor and many others who contributed their time and money to rebuild it. . . . also the Charles Pfizer experimental farm at Terre Haute, Ind., where heifers and hogs are made to grow twice as fast by the use of certain hormones and vitamins. This would be a great thing for the farmers of Russia. . . . the Florida Citrus Mutual at Lakeland, Fla., one of the most successful and amazing farm cooperatives in the world, which has been able to save citrus growers millions without sacrificing private enterprise and initiative. . . . the B. B. Walker Shoe Co., in Asheboro, N. C., where 90 per cent of the workers own the stock of the company. . . .

The Vernon Co., of Newton, Iowa, which makes all sorts of advertising gadgets that would delight Russian consumers — from rain gauges to litter bags to two-way salt and pepper shakers.

TRAVELING AMERICANS — And to let Mr. K see how business can be built up overnight, I would show him the Rembrandt mobile homes plant at Chambersburg, Pa., with its sister plant at Bonham, Texas, where Speaker Sam Rayburn comes round in his shirtsleeves to chin with the workers. Robert De Rose and his brother built trailers for the U.S. Army in Italy during the war, then established their own factories after the war. . . . . or there's Champion home builders at Dryden, Mich., which turn out thousands of portable homes at an amazing low cost, complete with almost everything except TV sets. They would make most Russians goggle-eyed with envy. . . . or Airstream trailers in Jackson Center, Ohio — it not only builds trailers but Wally Byam, its chairman, has organized people-to-people trailer caravans to Europe, Canada, and Latin America. He's now taking a group of trailer-minded Americans from Capetown, Africa, to Cairo. No Russians have ever done anything like this. . . . or there's Tappan ranges in Mansfield, Ohio, which have been making cooking stoves for over 75 years and have now developed an electronic stove which can cook a six-pound roast in 30 minutes and fry bacon in 90 seconds. . . . down in Jackson, Tenn., is the independent Aluminum Foils, Inc. which is able to compete with the greats of the aluminum industry —Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, Anaconda—and make a profit. . . in Bluffton, Ohio, William R. Triplett and his company have developed electrical instruments so delicate that they can measure the smoke coming out of a chimney or the amount of static build up by a surgeon's shoes before he goes into the operating room.

SHOES AND HI-FI—Then there is Lenoard Rae, a native of Poland, whose Utrilon Co. has become the biggest manufacturers of plastic shoes in the world. He has a factory in Puerto Rico with a new one being build in Hazelton, Pa., which will make plastic shoes and sandals so cheap that they will be within the price range of the barefoot people of Africa and Asia. . . . in White Plains, N. Y., Arthur Blumenfeld is the father of hi-fi and manufacturer of more loud-speakers than any other company in the world. . . . in Barrington, N. J., Paul Weathers has developed a hi-fi stylus so light that it weighs only one gram. With it, a record can be played many thousands of times. They don't have much hi-fi in Moscow yet, but among Russian youngsters it's coming. . . . and Nikita would also be interested in the fact that 40,000,000 Americans move every year and how they do it. An average of one family out of every four pack up and change their homes every year. The best expert I know on this is Bill Kutschbach, president of United Van Lines in St. Louis, whose company makes a specialty not only of packing every article in the house, loading it, and delivering it, but also of advising the housewife how to get her children registered in school in the new town.

These are just a few of the intriguing industries, big and little, which make America — industries which Khrushchev's inquiring mind probably would delight in seeing.

Khrushchev Go-Round

It used to be that invitations to the British Embassy were the most prized cardboards in Washington. This week it was tickets to the Khrushchev luncheon at the National Press Club. Members had to call personally to pick them up. No secretary, assistant, or messenger or even the mail was entrusted with them. . . . . Carlos Denegri, Mexico's top columnist and commentator (Excelsior) took a long shot by writing Nikita Khrushchev a letter asking him various questions about Russian-Latin American relations. Believe it or not, he got an answer. It'll be published tomorrow. . . . . the once secretive Russian Embassy has really lifted the iron news curtain. Previously it was difficult to get press data regarding Russian personalities. But under the new look, the embassy carefully sent to the Press Club biographical sketches of every Russian personality accompanying Khrushchev.

New Aggression In Laos Of Great Significance

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Dear Henry Luce:

Although I rather doubt its being wholly welcome, I feel impelled to write you this letter after returning from a short but fairly intensive on-the-spot look at the trouble in Laos.

The idea of the letter originated in Hong Kong, on my way home, when I belatedly discovered that last-but-one issue of "Time." The contrast was so remarkable, between your dismissal of the new Communist aggression in the Far East in a few patronizing paragraphs, and your ikon-portrait of President Eisenhower and close to six pages of paean about his European trip. Your implied order of priorities is cheerfully accepted by a large section of public opinion; and you are both the symbol and quite largely the creator of this public opinion.

Having been in Sammeua and Vientiane when the President was in London and Paris, I cannot judge the solid results achieved by his trip. His purposes, certainly, were as high as his purposes always are. But after the closest, more prolonged study of your report on it, I can find no more evidence of solid political achievement than you would expect from any personal appearance tour designed to instill confidence and to spread good will.

In Laos, on the other hand, one saw a wholly new—even terrifying new—stage of a vast political process. It is a process that used to interest you in the past.

You surely recall your loud denunciation of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson for their failure to prevent the loss of China. What is happening now in Laos grows out of that failure and the peace President Eisenhower made in Korea, and the subsequent partition of Indochina. But even though Laos is small and obscure the success of the Communist aggression there will still be a new stage in this process. It will resemble the stage when a spreading cancer ceases to be operable.

If you have any doubt about this, you only have to look at the map and the record. As a nation, Laos may be small, obscure, disordered and primitive, but its geography is intensely significent. Like a long potential trouble-maker's finger, it pokes south from the border of Communist China, past Communist North Vietnam on the east, into the middle of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand. All these three nations will be immediately imperilled by a Communist triumph in Laos.

Cambodia's Prince-Premier Sihanouk must now bitterly regret his recent visit to Saigon, to patch up his differences with the West's friend, President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam. By the same token, Indonesia's President Sukarno has now gone off on one of these sudden trips he always takes when he is in doubt about the way the wind is blowing. The outlook in Indonesia has been improving lately: but a disaster in Laos will greatly strengthen the Communists there, and in Malaya, Singapore and Burma too. In short, the fate of Laos is only too likely to determine the fate of all Southeast Asia.

This might not be the result, if the record did not strongly reinforce the map. The record shows that the Eisenhower administration's influence was used to create the existing anti-Communist government in Laos. The record further shows that the Laotians warned the American government that their anti-Communist government and policy would provoke an attack from North Vietnam. The record finally shows that the President's accredited representatives replied by telling the unfortunate Laotians they could have entire confidence in the support of the United States and the military protection of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

In these circumstances, failure to safeguard Laos against the new Communist aggression will leave the United States with the reputation all over Asia that the old Hebrew prophet first gave to Pharaoh—we shall be regarded as a broken reed, that pierces any hand that leans upon it.

The Communist arrogance and contempt for American power that is revealed by the new aggression in Laos has of course been predictable for some time. It is a natural result of our persistent neglect of the military power balance, which has long disquited people like General Gavin—the people you therefore sneeringly accused of suffering from "Sputniksyndrome."

But now the challenge is not just predictable. It confronts us squarely, with just as much functional menace as the challenge in Korea that President Truman first invited by disarmament, and then responded to so admirably. Don't you think that in these circumstances the challenge deserves to be taken as seriously as a personal appearance tour, even a Presidential personal appearance tour?

And don't you think it may be time to do something drastic about the defense problem as well?

Sincerely,

JOSEPH ALSOP.

UNCLE SAM'S MEAT SALE—The government's annual meat sale was announced recently. Each year, the Interior department conducts a sale of big game animals from Wild Life refuges in the west in order to keep the herds within manageable proportions.

This year's sale will consist of 303 buffaloes, 110 longhorn cattle and 91 elk. The buffalo and elk can be bought alive or butchered. The longhorn cattle will be sold at public auction.

Prices are higher this year because of increased demands from sportsmen desiring roasts and steaks for club dinners and banquets.

Butchered buffalo carcass will cost from $160 to $200, depending on weight. Half carcasses can be bought for $80 to $100. Elk will cost from $100 to $130, with half carcasses available.

Live buffalo and elk also may be purchased at a cost of $100 to $140. Purchasers must provide their own truck or crate.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

On West 40th Street in New York, there is a window that proclaims The Artists and Writers Restaurant. Newspaper reporters and comic strip artists sit at the tables indulging the weaknesses of the trade: conversation laced with Scotch. The big man who moves between the tables, beckoning, bowing, snapping snide little wisecracks to old friends is Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, one of the owners.

A fat man is sensitive to the cruel jests and once, when I talked of reducing my weight, Fitzpatrick asked me how much I came to. I said 175. "You puny blob of putty," he snarled, "I weighed more than that when I was christened." He is a wit, a raconteur, a man with a heart about the size of a sports car. He is a lifter of low moods, a morale booster, a man whose eyes laugh in merry silence.

And yet, he too has old sorrows, old regrets. Once, we sat talking about pain, and Tom said that the worst one he remembered hit him one afternoon when he stepped out of the bathtub. He slipped on a bathmat and went down. He was there a moment, on hands and knees, when he noticed a budding pain in the small of his back.

It grew rapdly, radiating off to the side and, in a short time, it had the impact of a dozen aching teeth immersed in ice water. At the same time, Mr. Fitzpatrick found that he had no locomotion. His legs would not work.

The pain slowed his thinking and muddied his mind. He recalled that his wife Alice was out shopping. That left the housekeeper. He could not call her for help because he had no clothes on. Tom Fitzpatrick braced himself, opened the bathroom door a bit, and waited until the housekeeper was in another room. Then, by the power of his big arms and hands, he dragged his body through the door and inched his way to the bedroom. It was almost impossible for him to lift his weight onto the bed, but it was done at last and he lay there trying to catch his breath and trying not to moan.

He called the maid. "Get me an osteopath," he said. "Tell him it's an emergency." The girl made the call. The doctor showed up quickly. He had a small portable table. "You're too big for this," he said. "I'll have to do what I can for you in bed, then go back to my office for heavier equipment."

A sedative was given. The doctor, by sheer strength, rolled Tom Fitzpatrick over on his stomach. The pain was bad. Fitzpatrick groaned. The doctor smiled. He placed some broad vertical strips of tape over the spine, and found a heating pad. "Don't move until I get back," he said.

Tom lapsed into semi-consciousness. He was still comatose when Alice came in. She awakened her husband. The pain was worse. Much worse. The heating pad had been on high for two hours. The heat had burned the skin under the tape. Fitzpatrick tried to explain to his wife.

"Where the hell is the doctor?" he yelled. "What happened to that bum? He promised to come right back."

"I don't know, dear," Alice said. "I'll call another one right away." Tom shook his head. "I can't wait that long," he said. "Call the police. Tell them it's an emergency. They know how to get a doctor." He ground his teeth. "I hope that other guy drops dead."

Alice made the call. In a few minutes, she heard a siren. The squad car pulled to a stop. The policeman came in. Alice explained. The man listened, nodding. "Okay," he said. "Okay. The desk will get a doctor here right away." He looked at Tom and shook his head.

He made the phone call. In a minute, he was back. "A doctor will be here in ten minutes," he said.

Tom Fitzpatrick turned his face sidewards on the pillow. "I'm going to prefer charges against that other one," he said.

The policeman fidgeted. "I thought you knew," he said.

"Knew what?" Tom said.

"That doctor had his car parked across the street. When he left here, he was killed as he stepped out of your driveway." . . .

Wasps, Stamp Collections, And Enough Sleep

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Nashville, Ind., reader eliminated red and black wasps from his home by using moth balls. He lives in an old house in the hills, and for 12 years has battled wasps with all the insecticides on the market. In desperation he threw a few moth balls into the attic. The insects disappeared and have not returned.

A stamp dealer objected to the health hint in this column which said, "A stamp collection won't satisfy your interests during retirement." He writes: "Me-thinks thou dost protest too much. There is a little note of envy and jealousy in all this advice. You are just a little put out by the glorious fun we are having, so you want us to believe some medical mumbo jumbo that will get us back into the ranks of you working stiffs."

Stamp collecting is an excellent hobby but a retired person can't spend all his time thumbing thru or studying a stamp book. In addition, many cannot afford to buy the stamps they need to keep them busy. It is for this reason that several hobbies are better than one but be sure to select those that fit the pocketbook.

There is nothing as frustrating as being denied the things a person has looked forward to in retirement. The exception is to go into the stamp business or spend time lecturing about or trying to interest other in stamp collecting. I can understand my critic's point of view because he sells stamps and is so sensitive about the hobby, the slightest criticism is magnified.

Normal sleep patterns were mentioned in a recent article. Most of us have acquired little tricks to help relax before retiring but there is no better sedative than a clear conscience.

Mr. J. S., of our nation's capital, made the following comment: "It might have been a good idea to add a night prayer to thank God for all the good things you have received during the day, sorrow for any wrong you have done, and to ask God to guard and protect you during the night."

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

ARTHRITIC FINGERS

Mrs. W writes: A few years ago I developed painful bumps on my fingers. I still have the bumps but they no longer are sore. However, my wrists and ankles are swollen and painful. Do you think these pains will pass?

REPLY

This has all the earmarks of arthritis. There is a 50 per cent chance that these pains will disappear spontaneously but other joints may become affected. The best defense against arthritis is healthy living, including exercise, rest, and a well balanced diet.

UNWANTED HAIR

Mrs. D. writes: Since I started giving vitamins to my 11-year-old daughter, hair has grown on her face. Could the vitamins be responsible?

REPLY

No. This girl is at an age when excess hair may appear on the face regardless of whether vitamins are taken. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on superfluous hair.

INTESTINE AND APOPLEXY

R. F. writes: Is the colon paralyzed when a person has a stroke?

REPLY

No. The intestine is under the control of the sympathetic nervous system, which is not affected by a stroke. The abdominal muscles may be paralyzed.

SEVERE FROM THE START

H. T. writes: At what point does anemia become pernicious?

REPLY

It doesn't. Pernicious anemia is pernicious anemia from the start and the laboratory findings differ from those of other types of anemia. In addition, these individuals have no free hydrochloric acid in their stomach. When treated, improvement is noted in the reticulocytic system.

AGE AND EAR SURGERY

P. T. writes: Is 70 too old for an ear operation for otosclerosis that developed many years ago?

REPLY

You are too old but ear tests would be needed to determine whether there is a chance that surgery will improve hearing.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Miami Seaquarium attendants have become used to some oddball questions. One tourist wanted to know if the sea cows could be milked; another actually asked if jelly fish come in assorted flavors.

For a publicity "gag" picture, the Seaquarium and the Florida Citrus commission "planted" an orange tree — complete with tied-on fruit — smack in the middle of the Seaquarium's main tank. Within one hour, five visitors demanded to know the secret for growing oranges under water!

"What kind of a dog is it, Cyril?" asked the teacher indulgently.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

A huge radio telescope being built in West Virginia will peer into space 19 times farther than does the 200-inch Mount Palomar 'scope. That should give astronomers quite an eyeful.

A Federal Reserve Bank spokesman denies rumors that there is a flaw or a mistake in the new-type Lincoln pennies. Zadok Dumkopf says he believes him—there just couldn't be anything faulty about old Honest Abe.

That famous epic poem "Hiawatha," we learn, has newly been translated into Russian. Somehow, we just can't visualize the noble redskin paddling his canoe in the disguise of just another Volga boatman!

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Wildly Beautiful

HONOLULU

Gardner McKay, a muscled and wildly beautiful young man, has been selected by "Life" magazine as the successor to Tyrone Power in the dreams of the nation's women, an accolade something like that handed to Paris by Helen of Troy, only more lucrative of course. Paris couldn't do anything with that apple but eat it. Now if he'd had a modern press agent he could have parlayed it into a TV film series with residuals and goodness knows what else.

McKay has got a press agent (or rather ABC has) who writes prose almost as wildly beautiful as McKay's storied countenance. "McKay," wrote this latter day Homer, "leader of Hollywood's hearty young men, a new and fast growing group of outdoor-minded actors who lead the rugged active life . . . In addition to being an active, physical giant (six-foot-five) McKay is a man of deep inner dimensions. His intellectual curiosities run full range. For every hour he spends in physical action, he devotes two to mental stimulation. Among his intellectual diversions are chess, voracious reading, and conversation in four languages. His mountain cottage is stacked with books (Chekhov to D. H. Lawrence)..." and so on.

McKay is the hero of an ABC-TV series "Adventures in Paradise," (a title Milton was groping for but missed) which is "by James Michener," the Homer of the Pacific islands, and produced "by Martin Manulis," one of TV's best producers. In case you want to know why I put those two things in quotes it's because "by" in television doesn't mean written by, or produced by in the sense you and I are accustomed to the word.

Mr. Michener, who has more or less appropriated the Pacific Ocean as his special literary possession, originated a word that has very elastic connotations in this business—this series. (The actual scripting is done by some 75 other writers.) "I drafted the original outline in quite extensive detail — biographies of the principal characters, various settings, what we are after, and so forth," said Mr. Michener, who lives in Hawaii. "I have done two of the stories—not the actual shooting scripts, of course—and I have two more in process."

"What exactly are you after," I inquired.

"The South Pacific," said the author of "South Pacific," "is one of the great romantic adventure spots left to us. The picture of a young man with his own boat against the vastness of the Pacific carries a strong romantic appeal. The emotional thing we are after is that in an increasingly mechanized world, a guy in a schooner in the Pacific is very appealing. I don't think of it as escape fiction because there's a pretty heavy burden of responsibility on the hero."

Mr. Manulis, a realist, cleared his throat: "I think the audience will think of it as escape," he said.

Mr. Michner said: "I'd been approached by quite a few television people to do a television series. One of the principles I laid down was that the series was not to be shot on location by enthusiastic amateurs."

Representatives of the press have been flown out here to witness the unveiling of "Adventures in Paradise," which is expected to be a heavyweight hour-long contender on Monday nights (9:30 p. m. EST) following "Cheyenne," a Western, and "Bourbon Street Beat," a private eye slugfest with a New Orleans setting. Actually, though, Hawaii has only a slender connection with the series which is being shot in a tank in Hollywood. "For a weekly TV series," said Manulis, "it's a great improvement to shoot it in a studio rather than on location."

Mr. McKay, the beauteous young giant who will pilot the eighty-foot schooner through thirty-six weeks of storm-tossed television, through the thunder and lightning of Neilsen and Trendex, is already finding it a strenuous life. "Thirteen hours a day, seven days a week, for four months," he said morosely in one of his four languages. "Who else in television is doing this? I'm in four out of five shots. I get the whey beaten out of me in a warehouse. The guy renders me unconscious. I tell you it's rough."

McKay, who has not been seen on the world's screens (except for a bit part in one picture) already gets astronomical fan mail on the basis of the cover story in "Life." Or to sum it all up, the author of "Adventure in Paradise" doesn't actually write it. The islands of the Pacific are the setting except you never see them. The star gets fan mail from a lot of people who have never seen him act. Like the man said, there's no business like show business.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: Will you settle something for us? Is it more dangerous for a boy of 15 to be out from 9:00 until 4:00 at night than between 9:00 and 4:00 in the daytime?

I say it makes no difference. I contend a boy can get into just as much trouble in the daytime as at night.

My husband thinks differently and we're having some heated arguments. When our son is out very late he naturally has to sleep most of the next day to rest up. This makes my husband furious and then the arguments begin. Can you settle this?

TWO AGAINST ONE

DEAR TWO AGAINST ONE: The odds just changed. I'm with your husband. Sounds as if that 15-year-old hoot owl really put the sell on you, Mom.

Police records prove that most crimes are committed at night. The reason is obvious. Darkness is a promising ally of evil.

And what kind of companions do you think Junior is running with at dawn? Respectable boys are asleep because they're headed for school the next day—or they go to work. They aren't out prowling at these hours, that's for sure, Mother. Listen to your husband before the next voice you hear is that of the Police Sergeant.

DEAR ANN: Why is it that people in certain professions are expected to donate their services?

I'm an organist by profession. It took years of training and a great deal of money to become a recognized artist. Yet my friends and relatives think nothing of asking me to play for their church affairs, style-shows, weddings and what have you — for free.

No one would expect a florist to grow flowers and bring them to the church for nothing. They'd never dream of asking a cateress to prepare food for nothing. A clergyman would not be expected to perform the ceremony for nothing. Why then, do they ask the organist to provide the music for nothing?

I hope you print this letter. It may be a great eye-opener.

NO DO RE MI

DEAR NO DO RE MI: I suggest you learn the tune called "Gladys isn't gratis anymore." Part of your problem is that you've been a schnook.

DEAR ANN: I was sure relieved to see the letter from the girl who went next door to confide in the neighbor because her own mother wasn't the kind she could talk to. I thought I was the only girl who had such a mother.

I'm 16 and Mom is like a stranger. I've tried to talk to her but gave up. When I was 13 I was real sweet on a boy in school and I told Mom how I felt. She said, "Get those nasty thoughts out of your mind and don't let me hear such talk again." That just about did it.

A year later I let a boy kiss me and felt very guilty about it. I confessed to my mother, hoping she'd make me feel better. Instead she washed my mouth out with soap and when the boy phoned she called him a "dirty little snake."

I'm not as fortunate as the girl who wrote to you. She had a friendly neighbor. I have to keep everything inside. I hope all mothers of teen-age girls who read this will take inventory and see if perhaps something isn't missing in their home.

THE SILENT ONE

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Secrets Of Charm

Fall Fragrance

Let Old Man Weather do his work of getting you out of your hot weather ruts. He's just the man to give you a boost that will color and freshen your thoughts at the beginning of each new season. Right now, if you are listening, Mr. Weather is telling you plain that it's time to stow your summer gear, accelerate your pace to match what's ahead, and to complete your winter wardrobe, pronto!

After a few deep breaths of fall's special fragrance, you'll want a new bottle of perfume to give an equally fresh fillup to your own personality.

The summery scents seem out of key with the aroma that's in the air today. Use up the last of your bottle in your bath or in your hair and lingerie rinses. Then, set out to find the just-right scent that will say about you what you want it to.

Perfumes tell a lot about their wearer. If you choose yours knowingly, it will express the most charming things about your personality. It will suggest your discrimination and fastidiousness, of course. And it will also give a clue to whether you are light-hearted, vivacious or fragile — sophisticated, patrician or a femme fatale.

Perhaps, in the past you have been hesitant in your choice. In the future you need not be. It's as simple as this: Select the perfume you like! Ten to one it will be right for you!

Such a selection is an emotional one, probably caused by some pleasant memory, association or unconscious thought. And anything so deeply ingrained as your own sense of smell can hardly lead you astray in choosing a scent that reflects your individuality. Not unless your entire personality needs an overhauling — and that's something which only you can judge, too!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — If you'll pardon my quoting the song of several years ago "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries" — that's exactly what life is like these days for red-haired Rhonda Fleming, who has many jobs looming in the future. One of the most important is the femme lead in "The Crowded Sky" for Warner Bros.

In the script by Charles Schnee, based on Michael Frost's novel, Rhonda plays the dramatic role of Cheryl, the sort of part she's always wanted. She'll have Michael Garrison for her producer and Joe Pevney for her director.

"I go to Houston the 29th of this month for the City Of Hope. When I come back I do a Red Skelton spectacular, and then 'Crowded Sky" is on my crowded schedule," said Rhonda.

It almost took a Philadelphia lawyer to get Victoria Shaw pried loose from her family for the Wernher Von Braun story, "I Aim At The Stars," the movie which takes her to Europe. She'll play opposite Curt Jurgens who has a home in Munich, Germany, where the film will be made in early October.

Victoria will leave the two small children with her husband Roger Smith. Fortunately Roger is well now after a serious head operation and back on his own TV show "77 Sunset Strip."

Maria Callas, who made the headlines this past week when she separated from her husband, Italian industrialist Giovan Battista Meneghini, has always wanted to make a motion picture, and it looks now as if her fondest wish will be realized.

One thing, Miss Callas has a great personality. She not only sings like a lark, but projects sex and beauty. Although Onassis says he's not going to get a divorce and that his feelings for the operatic belle are completely platonic, everyone who knows the situation says he doesn't seem to be able to live without her.

The younger set, plus a few of Mervyn Leroy's older friends, turned out to greet young Nick Adams who's suddenly become a person of importance in our town. Nick wrote and helped get together "The Rebel," which has been sold to one of the big cosmetic companies and will be seen Oct. 4.

Mervyn has always had faith in young Nick, even in the days when he played bit parts in Leroy's pictures, and Nick listens to him as if he were his father. He makes no move without Mervyn's advice, who's never too busy to talk to young Nick, whose talent as a writer is something new. With Nick was his young wife who is epxecting a baby.

One of the most prized possessions of Marjorie and Michael St. Angel is the original DElmonico 1834 bill of fare, the first ever printed in America. Of course this wasn't the later day swank Delmonico, but the first one on Pearl Street. I was intrigued with this original menu which offered a regular dinner for 13 cents! Roast beef was 5 cents, pork chops 4 cents, tea or coffee 1 cent, and the most expensive items — ham and eggs, and roast chicken—were 10 cents.

The Freeman Gosden party was just right — only 60 people and everyone who was there was able to circulate around and talk. Nedda Logan told me that everyone wanted to see the Indian necklace that belonged to Lady Mendl, after I described it. Nedda looked lovely in her ivory colored satin. Kitty Leroy just got in in time from New York to join Mervyn.

Dinah Shore, who had a ball in Europe, had on one of her Dior dresses. She said she's having a good time and doesn't have to go to work until October. William and Edie Goetz, who leave for Philadelphia where Bill accepts an award, were circulating around. Frances Goldwyn had on a stunning flowered gown. She and Sam were having such a good time, they were still there when I went home. They are usually the first ones to leave a party.

Giants Blast Cincy, 13-6; Dodgers Edge Braves, 8-7

'Frisco Gets Five Runs In First Inning

Spencer, McCovey Hit Homers; Mike McCormick Victor

By SCOTT BAILLIE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants clung to their lead in the National League Tuesday by blasting two rookie pitchers for a 13-6 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

A three-run homer by Daryl Spencer in the second inning which followed a five-run outburst in the opening frame was more than enough to assure Mike McCormick of his first win of the year against Cincinnati. The boyish portsider also won his 12th game and halted a losing streak which had reached four in a row.

McCovey Hits 12th

Willie McCovey, San Francisco's willowy rookie, also snapped out of a slump by collecting three hits which included his 12th home run and a double.

McCormick did not have any breeze and staggered badly in spots as the Reds got to him for 12 hits.

12 Passes Issued

Osteen, who gave up seven of 12 bases on balls to the Giants, was clubbed for Spencer's 12th home run in the second inning after passing Orlando Cepeda and giving up a single to Alou.

Ed Bailey and Frank Thomas swung the heftiest bats for the losers by cracking bases-empty homers off McCormick. Bailey hit his in the fourth and Thomas followed with another in the eighth.

A pair of errors by shortstop Eddie Kasko in the fourth inning made two more San Francisco runs possible.

Senators Split With Athletics

KC Takes 2nd, 6-2, After 1-0 Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The battle for the American League cellar produced no change Tuesday night when the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Washington Senators, 6-2, after being shut out in the twi-light portion of a double header, 1-0 on Camilo Pascual's three-hitter.

Pascual was superb in the opener. He allowed only one man to get as far as second base and only one man reached first in the last five innings.

The Cuban right-hander pitched his 16th complete game and struck out nine to bring his season's total to 167 — the best for a Washington pitcher since the incomparable Walter Johnson fanned 188 in 1917.

John Tsitouris matched ciphers with Pascual until the seventh when Steve Korcheck and Pascual singled, and rookie Dan Dobbek doubled Korchek home with the lone run of the game.

Pedro Ramos retired nine in a row in the second game and the Senators jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning but the A's tied it in the fourth and chased Ramos with two runs in the fifth.

Ray Jablonski hit his first American League homer off reliever Russ Kemmerer in the ninth. Johnny Kucks went all the way on a five-hitter to pick up his eighth victory of the year.

Robby Registers For Senior Year

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson, the University of Cincinnati's two-time All-America basketball player, registered at the school Tuesday for his senior year. Robertson's registration put at rest, at least for the time being, recurring rumors that he would withdraw from school and sign a professional contract with the Harlem Globetrotters.

Brewer Cops Duel On Malzone's Hit

BOSTON (UPI)—Frank Malzone broke up a frigid pitching duel between Jim (Mudcat) Grant and Tommy Brewer with a ninth inning single that scored Pete Runnels from second base, gave the Boston Red Sox a 1-0 victory on Tuesday night and just about eased the Cleveland Indians out of the American League pennant picture.

Malzone slashed a one-out pitch from Grant into left field for his second hit of the cold and rainy evening after both teams had failed to produce any serious scoring threat over the first eight frames.

Both Brewer and Grant allowed six hits. Russ Nixon of Cleveland getting the only extra base hit of the game, a wasted double in the fourth when Malzone retired the side on ground balls.

A hardy gathering of 8,456 sat through 45 degree temperatures and intermittant drizzle as Brewer won his 10th game against 11 defeats. Grant's record is now 9-7.

Runnels led off the last of the ninth with the fifth hit off Grant, a sharp single into center field. He went to second on Gene Stephens' sacrifice and Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon ordered Grant to pass Jackie Jensen intentionally. It was Grant's only walk of the game compared with three by Brewer and set the stage for Malzone's clutch hit.

Cleveland's best chance of the night came in the eighth when Brewer walked Grant and then booted Ray Webster's bunt. But Chuck Tanner grounded into Boston's third double play and Minnie Minoso flied out.

Lions Ask Waivers On Gene Gedman

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Lions Tuesday asked waivers on veteran halfback Gene Gedman and three rookies in order to cut down to the 38-player limit.

Coach George Wilson said waiver were also asked on defensive back Jim Wagstaff of Idaho State, tackle Dick Gusman of West Virginia, and halfback George Gillar of Texas A&M.

Gedman injured his knee last year and underwent surgery to have the condition corrected. But his doctors advised him Tuesday to stay on the sidelines at least for this season to give the knee more time to heal.

Colts Place Lyles, Call On Waivers

Baltimore Club's Roster Cut To 37

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Call and Lenny Lyles, offensive halfbacks on the Baltimore Colt squad which won the National Football League championship last year, were placed on waivers Tuesday.

The cuts, announced by Coach Weeb Ewbank after he failed to swing a trade earlier in the day, reduced the club roster to 37—one above the new league limit.

Call, a two-year veteran from Colgate, and Lyles, former Louisville flash who joined the team last year, were the first 1958 Colts who failed outright to make the grade this season. Another has been placed on the retired roster and two were traded.

Call had been given a shot at fullback to expand his versatility and improve his chance of keeping a berth. Lyles, who scored two touchdowns last year on kickoff returns from his own end zone, was found wanting as a pass receiver but showed signs of improvement in this department in training camp this year.

The departure of Call and Lyles appeared to cinch a halfback post for Hal Lewis of Houston, one of five rookies who have survived pre-season cuts. The others are guard Hanson Churchwell of Mississippi, linebacker Tommy Addison of South Carolina, and ends Jerry Richardson of Wofford and Dave Sherer of Southern Methodist.

Cards Defeat Phillies, 6-4

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Ernie Broglio limited the Philadelphia Phillies to five hits Tuesday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-4 victory.

Tim McCarver, a prize 17-year-old rookie catcher, came up with a pair of singles and scored two runs to make Broglio's seventh victory an easy one. He has lost 12.

The Cards jumped off to a 3-1 lead in the first inning and never were in trouble. The Phillies scored in the first inning on a tainted run, on two errors by second baseman Wally Shannon.

The Cards' first inning outburst was led off by McCarver, who scored on Joe Cunningham's triple. A walk, Gene Oliver's single and a double steal accounted for the other runs.

Alex Grammas and Cunningham had two hits apiece to share hitting honors for the Cards with McCarver.

Grand Jury Calls Four Ring Figures

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four figures from the boxing world were called to testify Tuesday before a special federal grand jury probing syndicated crime. Scheduled to appear were Mrs. Aileen Eaton and George Parnassus, local promotors; boxing publicist Donald Fraser; and William Daly, a New Jersey boxing executive. They were to be asked for any evidence they might have of gangster influence in ring circles.

Winning Run Is Forced In By McMahon

Loses Ten Inning Game; Los Angeles Ties For 2nd Spot

By ALEX KAHN

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Pitcher Don McMahon walked in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning Tuesday to give the Los Angeles Dodgers an 8-7 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and put the clubs into a second-place tie in the pennant race.

With the Dodgers trailing 7-6 in the 10th, Dodger shortstop Maury Wills got his fifth with one away and pinch hitter Chuck Essegian singled him to third. Jim Gilliam hit a sacrifice fly to score Wills with the tying run. Second baseman Charlie Neal followed with a single and Wally Moon walked to load the bases.

Fairly Breaks Tie

Ron Fairly walked with the count 3-1 to score the winning run.

Fairly had gotten the Dodgers off to a running start in the fourth inning with a double that touched off a five-run rally and left the Dodgers in possession of a 5 - 2 lead. Both teams added runs in the sixth inning, but the Braves closed the gap to 6-5 in the eighth when Hank Aaron doubled in two runs.

The Braves tied it in the top of the ninth and went ahead in the 10th when Johnny Logan brought Joe Adcock home from third with a sacrifice fly.

As 17,347 fans sat rooted to their seats after nearly four hours of baseball, the Dodgers came back to push over their two runs in the bottom half of the inning for the victory.

The Braves go off to a two-run lead in the first on Adcock's homer over the screen with Eddie Mathews on base.

Mont Takes Over Post At DePauw

Hopes To Escape "Unfair Pressure"

GREENCASTLE, Ind. — Maryland's loss, in the matter of football coaches, is DePauw's gain and a mutual admiration society is developing rapidly between this Methodist school and Tommy Mont who takes over as grid chief with the opening of fall practice.

Tommy Mont

DePauw and Mont got together a few months ago after Bob Hicks moved to Detroit University and Tommy got fed up with pressure of big-time coaching.

A sort of combination guest of honor and principal speaker at a luncheon with news and radio men on the campus, Mont explained "for the millionth time" why he left Maryland and came to DePauw.

The answer? He wanted "a job where the cards are on the table and an impossible job (of coaching) is not asked."

Mont said big-time football today is a case of "who gets there with the mostest" (meaning players, players and more players). And he said any big-time coach rated at the top "by public opinion" has an ideal situation (meaning he's getting players, players and more players).

It followed then that Maryland, wanting a winner as bad as the next one but failing to enroll the necessary talent, turned on its coach after losing 18 of 30 games over a three-year period.

So Mont is at DePauw where there is no "unfair pressure" and where he declares he'll field a fundamentally sound, strictly-conditioned football team.

Mont, who started his football at Allegany High School in Cumberland, Md., doesn't know exactly what to expect from his club which has 18 lettermen but numbers only 38. However, the boys appear in excellent physical shape and Tommy said he's going to have more overall backfield speed than he ever had at Maryland.

Redskins Drop Four Players

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins Tuesday dropped four players, two of them injured, in order to reach the 38-man limit prescribed for this stage of the season.

Waivers were asked on defensive halfback Gene Cichowski, formerly of Indiana and the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Stan Flowers, who played at Georgia Tech.

Jack Davis, er-Maryland guard, was placed on the injured list. He will undergo a knee operation later this week. Joe Nicely, a guard from West Virginia, was put on the club's reserve list. He hurt a shoulder in preseason training. Both Davis and Nicely may try out again next year.

Bow To Replogle, Wysong; Coe, Ward And Patton Score

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — Dee Replogle, a balding 40-year-old oil man from Oklahoma City, and Dudley Wyson, a 20-year-old golf rookie from McKinney, Tex., knocked out two of the big name players in the second round of the 59th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship Tuesday.

Replogle, who describes himself as a "light producer of heavy crude oil," outplayed 21-year-old Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., the 1959 British Amateur champion, 4 and 3. Wysong, playing in his second national championship, eliminated former Walker Cup captain Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 2 and 1.

These were the two big surprises half way through the second day's play over the 7,010-yard, par 71 Broadmoor course.

Coe Is Victor

The defending champion, Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, his Walker Cup teammates Bill Hyndman and Billy Joe Patton, and former amateur champions Harvie Ward and Jack Westland were among the early winners.

Coe, improving with each round after having been away from competition since the British Amateur last spring, routed young James Mallory of Spokane, Wash., 6 and 5 and held his place as the player to beat in the top quarter of the draw.

Chick Evans Loses

There wasn't a real surprise showing on the scoreboard until Replogle came in, although such players as Don Albert, a former Walker Cupper, Marty Stanovich, a rugged competitor from Chicago, and 69-year-old Chick Evans, the oldest player in the tournament, were among the losers.

Replogle, playing in his eighth National Amateur and about his 20th tournament on the Broadmoor course, shot a scrambling par round for 16 holes against Beman.

Game And Fish Commission Sets Hearing Oct. 3

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Game and Inland Fish Commission will hold a public hearing in Hagerstown Oct. 3 on proposed new fishing regulations for 1960.

It will also air a proposal to outlaw the luring of migratory game birds and wild turkeys by the use of recorded bird calls and sounds. The Federal government now has such a regulation for migratory birds but it does not apply to turkeys.

Other matters to be taken up at the meeting (9 a. m. in Alexander Hotel) include the setting of season and creel limits for inland fish, the designation of trout streams and the outlawing of fishing from bridges at Deep Creek Lake during the summer season.

Vic Schwartz Will Lead Terp Gridders

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Maryland stressed its passing offense and defense Tuesday in preparation for the opener against West Virginia Saturday.

The Terrapins also worked on goal line defense and, during the last half hour of the practice session, on kickoff and kickoff returns.

Steelers Get Luna

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bobby Luna, kicking specialist with the San Francisco 49ers, was traded Tuesday to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a draft choice. Luna, a University of Alabama football product, was San Francisco's first line punter in the 1955 National League season. He was in military service the next two years and last year was an assistant on the Alabama coaching staff.

Potomac State Opens Season At Wesleyan Saturday

Lough Begins 25th Year As Cats' Mentor

Sophomore Lineup Will Face Bobcats In Buckhannon Tilt

By TED TROXELL

The Catamounts of Potomac State College journey to Buckhannon Saturday for their 1959 football opener with West Virginia Wesleyan. Kickoff time will be 8 p. m. (EST).

Dana G. "Horse" Lough, athletic director and head football coach at the Keyser institution, is beginning his 25th year at the helm of the Catamounts.

To Play Nine Games

Potomac State will play a nine-game schedule in 1959, with five West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference foes to be met, and teams from the recently-formed Tri-State Athletic Conference providing the opposition in four of the contests.

This marks the first time in three years that the Catamounts have played Wesleyan. The Loughmen rolled up a 40-0 victory over the Upshur Countians in their last meeting in 1956.

Last year's PSC eleven compiled a record of five wins, three defeats, and one tie. Waynesburg (Pa.) College and Newport News (Va.) Apprentice School have been dropped from the schedule this year to make room for conference members.

Saturday, October 24, has been designated as Homecoming Day. Montgomery Junior College, of Takoma Park, Md., will invade Stayman Field that afternoon.

Orioles Edge Detroit, 2-1

Error Decides Battle In 11th

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Lou Berberet's error allowed Albie Pearson to score the winning run in the last of the 11th inning Tuesday night and give the Baltimore Orioles a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Pearson raced home from third base and appeared to be an easy out at the plate on Gus Triandos' grounder to shortstop Ted Lepcio. Lepcio's throw beat Pearson, but Berberet lost the ball after making the tag on the sliding Pearson.

The miscue broke up a pitching duel between winner Hoyt Wilhelm (15-11) and Paul Foytack (13-14). Each pitcher allowed one run in the first inning and then settled down to match scoreless frames.

Billy Klaus opened the Oriole 11th with a walk. Pearson went in to run for him. Gene Woodling, who earlier in the evening received an automobile, boat, heifer, and other gifts from Baltimore fans, singled to right as Pearson took second.

Bob Nieman sacrificed the two runners and the Tigers elected to pitch to Triandos with first base open.

Gail Harris' infield hit, a passed ball and Al Kaline's single to left gave the Tigers their only run which was unearned off Wilhelm. Wilhelm's earned run average is now 2.17. The Orioles tied it 1-1 on Klaus' double and two infield outs.

Wilhelm fanned seven, walked six batters and hit one. Foytack walked only two and struck out three. The victory moved Baltimore into a tie for fourth place with Detroit in the American League.

Outgiving Wins Aqueduct Race, Returns $29.60

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP) — Georgiana Foster's Outgiving, longest shot in the field of seven, led all the way to win the Summer Festival Handicap at Aqueduct Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Better Self-Tiny Request, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, scored by a neck over the favored Mail Order from the Alamode Farm. Pin Oak Farm's Derrick was a close third another neck behind.

The time of 1:23 4/5 for the seven furlongs set a track mark for the spanking new track which opened yesterday.

Virtually ignored by the crowd of 24,567, Outgiving returned the across the board mutuels of $29.60, $8.00 and $4.80. Mail Order paid $4.10 and $3.10 and Derrick was $4.00 to show.

Shoemaker Will Ride On Friday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Shoemaker, the riding star who escaped serious injury in a spill Monday at the new Aqueduct track, was released from the Physicians Hospital Tuesday morning.

Shoemaker is scheduled to ride Round Table, the top money-winning thoroughbred, in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City Saturday. A hospital spokesman said Willie would be "pretty sore and stiff for a couple of days."

Tuesday morning Dr. Alexander Kaye, medical officer for the jockeys' guild, said Shoemaker will be able to ride again Friday.

Chicago Beats Yankees, 4-3, For 34th One-Run Decision

Freak Double Play Climaxes New York Tilt

Shaw Helps Pierce Win 14th; Mantle Belts Two Homers

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Chicago White Sox staged a typical late-inning rally and then came up with a sensational game - ending freak double play Tuesday to beat the New York Yankees, 4-3, and score their 34th one-run decision of the season.

The White Sox unveiled the sacrifice fly as their latest secret weapon to score three of their four runs and overcome two booming homers by Mickey Mantle, who drove in all three New York tallies.

But it took the freak double play in the last of the ninth before Billy Pierce, aided by Bob Shaw's relief, chalked up his 14th win of the year.

Mantle Hits Pair

Mantle had led off the ninth with his second homer of the game—a tremendous shot into the right field bleachers that cut the White Sox' lead to one run. Elston Howard then doubled with one out and Bobby Shantz ran for him. Hector Lopez then looped a sinking liner into short right field which appeared certain to drop in for a hit. Right fielder Jim Rivera made a shoetop catch of the ball, however, and threw to second in an attempt to double Shantz. The ball bounced away from Luis Aparicio but third baseman Bubba Phillips came up behind him to pick up the ball and beat Shantz back to second base to end the game.

Ralph Terry carried a 2-1 lead into the top of the eighth inning for the Yankees but retired in favor of Whitey Ford when he developed a kink in his right side. That apparently was the signal for the White Sox to stage another of their late-inning rallies.

Ford Is Kayoed

Nelson Fox greeted Ford with a single and Ted Kluszewski walked with one out. Sherman Lollar, whose sacrifice fly in the fourth inning drove in the first Chicago run, singled up the middle to bring in Fox and kayo Ford. Bob Turley hit Al Smith in the back to fill the bases and Rivera followed with a sacrifice fly that put the White Sox in front, 3-2.

The White Sox added what proved to be the decisive run in the ninth when Aparicio tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Norman Cash.

Rec League Title Series Opens At Stitcher Field

Ridgeley Legion Old Germans Meet Today At 6 P. M.

Ridgeley American Legion and the Old Germans, who wound up the regular schedule in a tie for first place in the American Division of the Men's Rec Softball League with 21-5 records meet today at 6 p. m., at Stitcher Field in the opener of a best-of-three series for the league championship.

Post Playground and the Sports Shoppe finished the regular season in the National Division tied for first place with 19-7 records but they were eliminated in the playoff semi-finals. The Old Germans ushered out Post's while the Ridgeley Legion knocked out the Sports Shoppe. Both series went the limit of three games.

Ridgeley and the Old Gee's have met twice this season and have split even. The Old Germans won the first game, 5-3, and the Legion copped the second, 2-1. "Pickles" Doolan of the Old Gees and Bill Kenney of Ridgeley were the hurlers in both games and they'll likely face each other for the third time today.

Kenney's overall record is 22-5, including 2-1 in the playoffs. Doolan is 1-1 in the playoffs and his overall mark to date is 18 wins and five losses.

The second game of the series is set for tomorrow at Stitcher Field and the third, if necessary, will be staged Friday on the same field.

Eddie Machen And Besmanoff Clash Tonight

Heavies To Tangle In Bout At Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Eddie Machen, seeking to regain some of the lustre he knew when a top-flight heavyweight contender, is favored to defeat Willie Besmanoff Wednesday night when they square off in a 10-round, nationally televised bout.

The fight goes on at 10 p.m., e.d.t. A.B.C.

It will be the sixth of the year for Machen since World Champion Ingemar Johansson flattened him in less than one round last September with that well-known right. Eddie has won all of the bouts in his comeback drive against opponents who are not too well known.

Eddie Metrie, Willie's manager, said that he passed up a $20,000 payday elsewhere for the Machen fight.

"A win over Machen could mean a shot at the title," Metrie said.

He added that Willie's backers in Milwaukee "will beat any offer from anywhere" for a title fight involving their Munich import.

Besmanoff has won three out of five fights this year. He lost to Zora Folley and Don Fleeman and beat Alvin Williams, Mike DeJohn and Ben Marshall. The Johansson drubbing is Machen's lone defeat in 31 fights.

SUSPEND TRAINER-DRIVER—Trainer-driver Charles Fitzpatrick, Jr., has been suspended by the New York State Harness Racing commission after a test showed Speedy Pick, upset winner of the $50,000 National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Raceway last week had been drugged prior to that race. The commission sought for questioning a groom who was fired by Fitzpatrick last Monday. Fitzpatrick, who denies administering anything to the horse is shown with Speedy Pick right after that horse's Derby win.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Neale Fraser of Australia, the new United States tennis champion, played the game for nearly 15 years before he discovered the "secret" of winning.

And that was only two months ago!

"I was slow to wake up, wasn't I?" said the good-natured Aussie southpaw with a characteristic gibe at himself. "But it finally occurred to me that I was beating myself with errors so I concentrated on knocking the ball back to let the other fellow beat himself for a change."

Best Known Secret

"That's about the best - known "secret" in the game of tennis, a gospel preached not only by Fraser's own coach, Harry Hopman, but top hands in both American amateur and pro ranks.

It's a lesson our kid players had better learn fast if they hope to stay ahead of the current crop of Australian juniors. Certainly Hopman won't neglect to remind his young players that Fraser was just another big slugger until he learned to keep the ball in play.

"Seixas didn't become a fine player until he learned to play out every point," according to Col. Jim Bishop, former president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association. "Up to that time, he tried to hit winners with every shot but that's not the way this game is played."

Ron Is A Blaster

Now there's Brooklyn's Ron Holmberg, who can hit every power shot in the books and handles a racquet as well as any player in the game. But Ron is a blaster. He'd like to make every shot he hits the last shot of the rally.

"The pros don't play it that way," says Don Budge. "You never see a professional hit a hard shot when an easy one will do the job. For one thing the margin for error is too great when you're smashing the ball. For another, why wear yourself out if you don't have to?"

Maria Bueno of Brazil, the new U.S. women's champ, follows much the same philosophy now that she's on a winning streak. She has the power shots to force a foe out of position but once that takes place she'll powder - puff a placement into a wide open court with can't-miss confidence.

Cold Weather Stops Pirates And Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—The game between the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed Tuesday because of cold weather.

At the time of the postponement the temperature was 59 degrees. The Cubs and Pirates will play a double-header Wednesday.

BATTERING RAM

Swift Plant Is Still Picketed

A spokesman for the company reported that although the picket line is being manned, some departments are operating on a normal basis.

Approximately 35 employes of the local plant went on strike Monday after pickets from the Pittsburgh Meat Cutters union appeared at the plant.

A number of other Swift plants in the area have not been affected, the company said.

The overflowing of the Hoang-Ho river in China in 1887 cost up to seven million lives.

The remains of Julius Caesar lie in the tomb of the Caesars in the Campus Martius in the city of Rome.

Get Extra Time

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Thousands of government workers got an extra 51 minutes for lunch Tuesday, all because of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. When it was learned that the Russian leader's plane would be late in arriving, employes of the agencies along the parade route were told they could extend their lunch break to watch the procession.

Forty per cent of the land in the United States and about 35 per cent of its natural resources are in the west, yet only about 14 per cent of the people live in this region.

Proposes Peace Ship

MOSCOW (UPI)— Rep. Victor Anfuso, (D-N.Y.) Tuesday proposed that the United States and Russia together build a "world peace ship" that would fly men to the moon. Anfuso, now visiting Moscow, said he would make the proposal in a meeting with space scientist Leonid Sedov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and president of the International Federation of Astronautics.

Japan had its first known contact with the West when a Portugese ship off course arrived in Japanese waters about the year 1542.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going steady with this fellow for five months. I am 16 and he is 17. We get along very well—except for one thing. About three weeks ago he got fresh with me in a Drive-in. I immediately put a stop to it and bawled him out. He behaved himself for a while, but a little later on he started the same thing again. I stopped him once more and told him he had the wrong girl. I like this boy, Abby, and don't want to lose him. What do I do if he tries it again?
GOOD GIRL

DEAR GOOD: (and if you want to stay that way, listen carefully): If he tries it again—you've got the wrong fellow. Three strikes and he deserves to be OUT! And I mean OUT of your life.

Market Declines But Late Rally Reduces Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally in stocks was not sufficient enough to overcome early sharp losses, and the list in general finished on the downside Tuesday.

Trading was heavier than Monday's on both the downside and upside, and the total for the session came to 2,830,000 shares, as against 2,590,000 shares Monday.

Losses in many key issues were sharply reduced by the rally, and some early losers even managed to finish on higher ground.

Uncertainties over the steel strike, tight money and the Khrushchev visit were blamed for the early weakness. Support came into the market, however, after the Russian premier's generally friendly arrival speech.

The lingering steel strike continued to keep steel shares off balance. U. S. Steel and Youngstown both rose more than a point while Republic lost 1¾ and Granite City Steel dropped 1⅜.

Oils were not helped too much by the late rally. Shell finished off 2. Honolulu Oil and Gulf off 1¾ each and Texaco off 1⅜.

Motors were erratic. Ford moved up nearly a point as the Ford Foundation denied rumors that it was planning to sell more of its Ford stock, while American Motors lost ½ despite an optimistic report by its president. Chrysler rose ⅞, but General Motors eased ½.

IBM stood out in a generally easier electronics group with a 4½ point loss. Drugs featured losses of more than 2 points in Vick and Warner & Lambert.

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

South's opening bid of two no trump does not meet with our approval inasmuch as it is based on only 20 high card points, two under the textbook requirements. If partner is unable to respond voluntarily to a one diamond opening, it is very unlikely that a game will have been lost.

Against the three no trump contract West led the five of clubs and East's queen was taken by South's king. The king of diamonds followed by the ace brought home to declarer the sad news that East had four of the suit. Spades appeared now to be the only hope, and declarer offered up the king. West won the trick and realizing the necessity for killing the dummy, returned the king of hearts. Had declarer taken this trick, his cause would have been lost, but he held up and West continued with the nine. This trick was taken in the closed hand and the spade suit cleared while the ace of hearts still remained in dummy. In this manner declarer scored 10 tricks.

West was guilty of a miscue. When the king of spades was led he should have refused it. His subsequent defense was a noble effort to correct his initial error, but it came too late. If declarer happens to have three spades there is nothing that West can do to defeat the contract, for the ace of hearts cannot be driven out of dummy in time to prevent the establishment of the spades. If West refuses the first spade South can continue the suit, but he will have only one entry in dummy. This will permit the establishment of the suit, but there will be no way to get in to cash it.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans were firm and other grains were mostly steady Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅛; corn was off ⅛ to 1¼; oats were up ⅛; new oats were off ½ to up ⅛; rye was off 1⅝ to 3⅛, and soybeans were up ½ to 1.

Wheat prices receded from early highs but they were higher than Monday's close. Exporters were early buyers. Commission houses bought March wheat and elevators sold it.

Corn was easier. September came close to reaching the old seasonal low. Other contracts established new lows. There was resting demand for December corn at $1.10. Commercial houses were on both sides of the market. Northwest brokers sold May corn. Subsidy bids were again rejected.

Oats were under considerable liquidating pressure early. However, there was some recovery later in the session. Cash houses bought September and sold December oats. September longs sold early to avoid taking tenders.

Hedging pressure was absent in the soybean market and offerings were light. Shorts bought because of the threat of frost in central Minnesota. A crop survey by an Iowa firm, indicating a 500 million bushel production, also was an influence. A steady tone in the meal market seemed to help.

European shippers were reported to have bought soybeans and Formosa was said to be in the market for wheat.

Hearing Is Scheduled On September 23

A retired railroader posted $500 bond on a charge of malicious wounding in the shooting of two Ridgeley area men yesterday.

James Smith, RD 1, Ridgeley, will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday, September 23, before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle in Keyser, W. Va. on the charge of wounding Preston Miller, 21, and Louis Llewellyn, 26, both of RD 1, Ridgeley.

The shooting, West Virginia State Police said, apparently is the outgrowth of a long-standing feud between Smith and several of his neighbors.

Cpl. Evan Moody, who investigated, said Smith apparently fired a single blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at the two men who were at the gate of his property.

Treated At Hospital

The former railroader claimed the two men were jumping up and down on the gate and attempting to tear down the gate and his fence.

Both the wounded men, who were treated at Memorial Hospital here, denied that they were tearing down the gate, but said they were climbing over it to take a short cut across Smith's property on their way to work. The two men are employed by the L.M.Y. Plumbing Company of Pinto. They were shot about 7 a. m.

Smith fired on the two men from the porch of his house, a distance of about 50 yards, the officer said.

Hospital attendants said neither of the men was wounded seriously. Miller had numerous pellet wounds of the face and neck, while Llewellyn received much of the shotgun charge in his back, hips and left hand.

Cpl. Moody said police have received numerous complaints and have made several arrests in the quarrel over a period of months.

Equity Suit Filed

Recently, he stated, Llewellyn and Arthur Moreland, another neighbor, had been accused of destroying a gate which Smith had placed across a small road leading over the Smith property from the Moreland, Llewellyn, and Miller homes to Route 28.

During the quarrel over the right of way Smith blocked the road with his gate, the officer said, and Llewellyn and Moreland filed an injunction suit in Keyser against the man to force him to open the road again.

The suit is scheduled to come before Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral County Circuit Court, on Monday.

Double Bar Mitzvah Set Saturday At Beth Jacob

A double Bar Mitzvah, the first in the history of the Beth Jacob congregation, will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. in the synagogue, Rabbi Bertram Cohen, spiritual leader, said last night.

The two confirmants are Harold L. Yankelevitz, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz, 317 Holland Street, who is employed by McCarty and Hicks, beverages distributor, and Lawrence H. Hohing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hohing, of Frostburg, a student at Beall High School.

There will be no cantor at the service since the two confirmants will chant the entire service in addition to reading the portion from the Scripture and the Prophets.

Rabbi Cohen, who will lead the service, will preach a sermon entitled, "For A Day Or A Lifetime." Lawrence Hohing will chant the Shaharis (morning) service and Harold Yankelevitz will chant the Musaf (additional) service.

On Friday at 8 p. m., there will be a pre-Bar Mitzvah service to honor the celebrants. Rabbi Cohen will lead the service, assisted by Benjamin Marx, grandfather of Harold Yankelevitz, who will chant the Kiddush (sanctification of Sabbath wine) and Lawrence Hohing will lead in the singing of the closing hymn.

Rabbi Cohen will speak on "The Torah Is Ever New." He will place the Tallis (Jewish prayer shawl) on the shoulders of the two confirmants.

Bar Mitzvah is the ceremony in the Jewish religion whereby a Jewish lad, aged 13, is initiated into the Jewish religion with all the obligations and duties of an adult.

Local Man Hurt When Car Wrecks

Harry Smith Taken To Garrett Hospital

A 36-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad carman was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when his automobile swerved off a Garrett County road, struck a fence and overturned.

Harry Paul Smith, 708 Brookfield Avenue, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland shortly after the accident, which occurred at 4 p. m. His condition is listed as "critical" from possible internal injuries, deep cuts of the forehead and multiple bruises over his body.

Trooper R. D. Henline of the Maryland State Police investigated and said Smith was traveling alone headed north on Turkey Neck Road toward Deep Creek Lake from State Route 135.

He lost control of his car while rounding a curve in the county road, ran through a fence along the roadway and overturned. The car was badly damaged in the crash, the trooper said. The accident occurred about 2½ miles east of Deer Park.

Forest Radio Equipment Is To Be Added

Two Fire Towers Will Get Units

The radio network of the district forester's office here is going to be enlarged in the near future when radios are installed in two forest fire towers in Western Maryland.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said radios will be installed at the Town Hill tower and at the Foxville tower, which is located in Frederick County.

The electricity to the Town Hill tower in Allegany County will be furnished by the Potomac Light and Power Company of Berkeley Springs, W. Va. The Foxville tower has had electricity.

Mr. Johnson pointed out that at the present time telephone service is maintained at the two towers.

The addition of the radio equipment will facilitate the dispatch of radio-equipped forestry department cars to areas where fires have to be investigated.

Five towers in the district are now equipped with radios, according to Mr. Johnson, who said there are now 28 mobile units in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties which compose his district.

The first radio was installed about 1946 at the Court House here and two cars were equipped at that time.

Shortly afterwards a radio was installed at the Dan's Rock tower. Telephone lines were used with the remote set at the Court House.

In 1952 microwave equipment was installed at Johnson's office and it relays messages to and from the office through the Dan's Rock tower throughout the district.

Regulation Of Hospitals Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglas Sears suggested Tuesday that formation of a state authority with supervisory powers might be one way to help Maryland's hospitals operate more economically.

Sears, testifying before a Legislative Committee studying Blue Cross costs, said such an agency could examine the hospitals' operation "from the standpoint of efficiency with a view to determining the most economical methods and procedures."

However, Sears emphasized that most hospitals weren't "formed for the purpose of making the greatest possible profit" but existed "primarily for the idealist purpose of healing the sick."

Sears also recommended that Blue Cross afford the general public more representatives on its board of directors, adding it "would be well if a majority . . . were not connected with hospitals."

The public representatives should be "laymen chosen from civic minded persons who are willing to devote the time and effort necessary to do the important work of Blue Cross."

He said Blue Cross' recently announced plan for an advisory board "does not go far enough."

Charter Change On Street Work Becomes Law

Rate Setting Ordinance Slated

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 9, which changes the rules for street construction and resurfacing, became effective yesterday.

The resolution became a part of the city charter when Mayor J. Edwin Keech signed the resolution passed by the Mayor and Council 50 days before, on July 27.

A copy of the charter change will be forwarded to state officials to be incorporated into the state code.

A petition containing some 155 signatures was filed with the Mayor and Council last week but had no effect upon the resolution as 2,328 voter signatures would have been needed to force a referendum.

The charter change is expected to have a profound effect on street construction in Cumberland, as it will allow the city to file liens on areas improved with light surface treatment.

The adoption of the charter amendment, and bids for several street projects opened here Monday, will pave the way for an ordinance furthering the street work plan.

The amendment includes a clause that the Mayor and Council may adopt a schedule of fees for paving, repaving, grading, regrading, surfacing, resurfacing, guttering, reguttering and otherwise improving with charges be uniform throughout the city.

The schedule adopted may be changed at any time by ordinance.

Before the charter plan was passed, city officials were supplied with a suggested rate schedule for all types of work, based on average current construction costs and shared about 75 per cent by the property owner and 25 per cent by the city.

This ordinance, it is understood, will have to be adopted before the contract is awarded for the new street projects.

South End Bar Loses License For 30 Days

Following an unusual afternoon hearing yesterday, the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners suspended the beer and wine license of Mrs. Ruth G. Metz, trading as Clark's Bar, 315 Springdale Street, for 30 days beginning Sunday, September 20.

The unanimous decision of Edward J. Ryan, Howard Vandegrift and Melvin Sloan, the three board members, was that the conduct of the establishment was detrimental to the public welfare.

Most of the nine witnesses heard yesterday by the liquor board were neighbors who complained about vulgar language and fights on the premises.

Those who testified were Edward R. Willison, inspector for the board; George O. Hollar, Police Officer Royce Clayton, Mrs. Grace Hollar, Esther N. Shannon, Dorothy Dawson, Josephine Moyer, Helen McKinley and Mrs. Metz.

Mrs. Metz has held the license only since the new liquor year started May 1. The complainants said that the noise and other bad conduct had developed in the past several months.

Mrs. Metz was given a stern warning that any recurrence would result in the loss of her license. She was represented at the hearing by Attorney Simon F. Reilly. He argued that his client should have received only a warning on the grounds that no liquor laws had been violated.

Mrs. Erickson Teaches Art At Fort Hill

She received her B.S. in art in 1940 from the University of Minnesota and her master's degree from Columbia University in 1945. She did additional work at Chicago Art Institute in 1958.

She has had 20 years teaching experience in the field of art. Ten were spent in Minnesota, one in Iowa, four in Michigan and five in New York.

Ike, Khrush Arrange Talks

Soviet Chief Given Polite But Cool Welcome

Poker-Faced Crowds Line Parade Route

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans in Washington watched in cool silence Tuesday as Nikita Khrushchev arrived for his historic visit to the United States.

People for the most part looked at him in curiosity, with apathy, or with blank, brooding expressions impossible to decipher.

There was a spatter of applause when he finished speaking at Andrews Air Force Base where President Eisenhower met him. Two signs, brought by three young men, bore words of welcome for Khrushchev.

Apart from this, there was no evidence that the crowds lining the streets felt any friendliness toward him, or found in his visit any hope of easing the anxieties of the world.

In a doorway, sitting in the shade, two workmen remained seated as Khrushchev, Eisenhower, Mrs. Khrushchev and an interpreter passed on the drive into the city.

Soviet Chief Steals Show

A cluster of Negro children stood in silence in a schoolyard on the outskirts. At other spots, though, there were loud greetings. On Pennsylvania Ave., the bands played and the guards marched. But on both sides of them, there was silence.

It was somehow like a dress rehearsal in an empty theater.

The story at the air base had been different. Khrushchev stepped down from the big Soviet transport wearing his familiar grin.

The performance by Khrushchev seemed to catch Eisenhower somewhat by surprise. But the President gave no outward sign that he was annoyed, presumably because much of Khrushchev's clowning came while Eisenhower was reading a formal welcoming speech before the microphones.

Hat Used As Sunshade

When it came time to swap welcoming speeches with Eisenhower, the two men mounted a 10x12-foot speakers platform.

While Eisenhower spoke Khrushchev began playing with his black homburg hat, gently waving it back and forth. Then he used it as a sunshade for his bald head. He held it a few inches above his head like an umbrella, raising it, then lowering it.

At one point while Eisenhower talked in English — a language Khrushchev doesn't understand—the Soviet Premier intently followed the flight of a butterfly that fluttered nearby.

Afterward as the two men rode side by side in an open limousine, Khrushchev repeatedly waved his homburg with a big flourish and grinned at the crowds. Eisenhower nodded and waved.

Little by little, the grin faded and the waving grew more mechanical. By the time he reached Blair House, he merely looked thoughtful and businesslike.

Camp David Conferences Sept. 25-27

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and President Eisenhower met Tuesday, exchanged assurances of a yearning for peace and agreed to attack the full range of cold war issues in three days of secluded conferences.

This effort at defrosting the cold war a bit will take place Sept. 25, 26 and 27 at Camp David, Eisenhower's hideaway in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, as the climax of the Russian leader's first visit to America.

The decision on this type of finale was reached at their first formal 1¾-hour session at the White House. It took place three hours after the world's top Communist flew in from Moscow, to a reception that wasn't exactly enthusiastic but did conform strictly to the diplomatic rule book and all it requires.

With the welcoming rites and the first official business session out of the way, Eisenhower marked up a small personal victory over the man who came here bragging that Russia has thrust a rocket to the moon.

He got his visitor into a helicopter out in the backyard of the White House and took him on a half-hour 40-mile circuit of Washington and its suburbs. Eisenhower had wanted to do just that, but the chopper ride wasn't on the program Khrushchev had approved.

Views Exchanged

The assurances and reassurances about peace and friendship began with arrival ceremonies at Andrews Air Force Base. Khrushchev also carried them into the White House conference in the late afternoon.

Out of the meeting, attended by a few other top officials on both the U. S. and Russian sides, came a brief communique saying the two chiefs of state had "reviewed the relationship between the two countries and exchanged views in general terms on international problems."

These weren't listed specifically. Probably they included such items as the East - West dispute over the future of Berlin and the unification of Germany, U.S.bases abroad, efforts of tiny Laos to avoid being gulped down by Reds, India's difficulties with Red China and prospects of agreeing on disarmament and a halt to nuclear weapons tests.

In any event, the discussions will continue at Camp David at the end of Khrushchev's swift swing around the country — to New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Pittsburgh.

"Friendly, Frank" Talks

The joint statement by Eisenhower and Khrushchev put the meeting in this setting:

"The atmosphere of the talks was friendly and frank with agreement that the discussions should continue in this spirit to seek ways to achieve a better understanding."

Khrushchev was up in the air for the second time during the day. He had spent most of the night and all morning winging in from his homeland.

At first chance to say something publicly, at the official welcome at the air field, he offered words of peace and friendship, plus gloating over Russia's moon missile.

Then the two most powerful figures in the world piled into Eisenhower's open-top auto and rode side by side from Andrews Air Force Base 15 miles into the heart of Washington.

They parted briefly, but soon got together again at the White House for the first of a series of conferences that may have a momentous bearing on the history of mankind.

Battle-Weary Congress Ends Long Session

By adjourning its eight-month session, Congress avoided a possibly embarrassing dilemma over whether to invite the Soviet leader to address it.

The end of this longest session in eight years came at 6:24 a.m. At that time, the Senate had been working for nearly 21½ hours and the House had been sitting off and on for almost 18½ hours.

1. Voted to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years beyond Nov. 8 and to provide $500,000 in funds to carry on its work for the rest of this fiscal year ending next June 30.

2. Appropriated $3,225,815,000 for foreign aid during this fiscal year—$704,182,000 less than President Eisenhower originally asked. In reaching a compromise, conferees cut 56 million dollars from the original Senate total and increased the House figure by 39 millions.

In the final hours, the Senate planted the seeds of what promises to be a searing battle over broad civil rights legislation at the next session starting Jan. 6.

Senators seeking such legislation won an understanding from Democratic and Republican party leaders that a showdown fight on the issue will be waged starting about mid-February.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said he now could see no way to sidestep the showdown, which could split the Democratic party in a year when it will be battling the Republicans for control of Congress and the White House.

Russell was a leader of the Dixie forces which made a hopeless last stand against continuing the Civil Rights Commission.

Car Explosives Report Proves Apparent Hoax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report that a car carrying explosives was seen along Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's route into Washington touched off a wide but fruitless search Tuesday.

Law enforcement officials later agreed the report was probably a hoax.

Maryland State Police, acting on a tip from an undisclosed source, broadcast an alarm to be on the lookout for the car a few minutes before Khrushchev's plane landed at Andrews Air Force Base.

Local police and the Secret Service joined the state troopers in a search of the area between the air base and downtown Washington.

Several hours later Michael Torina, chief inspector of the Secret Service, said, "from our inquiries, the report appears to have been groundless."

Plucky Girl, 19, Has Operation

The operation to which her parents once objected took nearly four hours and she emerged in satisfactory condition, the University of Kansas Medical Center reported. It said the tumor was benign.

The tumor had impaired her eyesight and endangered her life, doctors said. They reported her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butts of Oswego, Kan., finally were convinced of the seriousness of her condition and gave written permission Monday for the surgery.

Earlier in the case the girl petitioned a court to give her majority rights or to have a guardian appointed for her so she could go ahead with the surgery despite the parental objections.

Bomb Tossed In Schoolyard Kills 6 Persons

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man tossed a suitcase of explosives on a school playground Tuesday and killed three children, himself and two other adults. One of the dead was the bomber's son.

The explosion sent at least 19 children and the school principal to hospitals.

Police Chief Carl Shuptrine said positive identification of Orgeron as the bomber was established through fingerprints taken from a hand found a block from the school.

The Poe Elementary School explosion rocked a three-acre area in a fashionable residential section near Rice Institute, a university.

The principal, Mrs. R. E. Doty, 64, said a man with a suitcase and a 7-year-old boy came to her office Tuesday morning.

The man sought to enroll the boy in the second grade.

"I told him he would have to register him first," the principal said. "He walked out and a few minutes later I got a report of a suspicious man on the school grounds."

In the meantime, the man registered the boy in the school as Dusty Orgeron.

The principal said she and school custodian James Montgomery, 56, talked with the man.

"There were three groups of children on the playground at the time, with their teachers," said Mrs. Doty. "I tried to tell him he would have to leave, but he told me: 'The police can't do anything to me.'"

The next moment, she said, the explosion erupted.

"All I could see was the children," she said. "They were crying."

The dead:

Dusty Orgeron, 7.

William S. Hawes Jr., 7.

John Cecil Fitch Jr., 8.

Mrs. Jennie Kolter, 54, a teacher.

Orgeron.

Police said Orgeron was convicted twice in Louisiana and once in Texas of burglary and theft.

Near the blast area investigators found a .351 rifle and a .32 pistol. Police presumed the bomber triggered the blast with the pistol.

Bits of wire and pieces of explosive detonators and wrappings were found over a 75-yard area.

A tattered sales ticket indicated 50 pounds of 60 per cent gelex had been purchased last year at Grant, N.M. The ticket did not carry the name of the purchaser. Explosives experts said gelex is more powerful than dynamite and is used in such commercial work as oil well perforations.

The all-white school has never had any integration troubles.

Found in the blast area was a penciled note addressed to Betty Jean Orgeron. The note threatened to "blow her and the children up."

Mrs. Orgeron said she and her husband had been separated about a year.

In a station wagon found near the school were six explosives detonators and a plastic sack that apparently once held explosives.

Another note scrawled in pencil on four pieces of paper also was found. Investigators theorized the note had been handed to Mrs. Doty seconds before the blast.

"Please do not get excited over this order I am giving you," the note said. "This suitcase you see in my hand is filled to the top with high explosives. This will make them do their job. Please do not make me push this button. That's all I have to do.

"I also have two more cases of dynamite set to go off at a certain time at three different places, so it will do more harm to kill me, so do as I say and no one will get hurt. I'd like to talk about God while I'm waiting for my wife."

Paintings Worth $650,000 Stolen

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — Art masterpieces valued at about $650,000 were stolen from the Toronto Art Gallery Monday night.

The stolen paintings included two Rembrandts, two Hals, a Renoir and a Rubens.

The thieves also damaged two paintings with a razor blade. They were the Harvest Wagon by Gainsborough and Daedalus Andicarius by Vandyke. Gallery officials said the paintings could be repaired.

Police said the burglars apparently were hiding in the gallery when it closed. They escaped by breaking two second floor windows, which tripped the burglar alarm.

Assistant Defense Secretary Resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday reluctantly accepted the resignation of Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil, the Pentagon's financial chief who has supervised the spending of billions upon billions in defense outlays over the past 12 years.

McNeil, 58, often characterized as a canny Scot who knows the value of a dollar, is quitting Nov. 1.

Long Won't Seek Reelection; Files For Lt. Governor

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long Tuesday abandoned his previous plans to run for re-election and instead qualified to run for lieutenant governor on the ticket of former Gov. James A. Noe.

Noe, 68, who was a legislative leader for the late Sen. Huey P. Long, was one of 12 to file with the Democratic State Central Committee as a candidate for governor in the Dec. 5 primary.

The 64-year-old Long, after weeks of keeping the state guessing, dropped his plans to run for another term and instead filed for lieutenant governor.

"Honestly and truly," Long said, "I'd rather be lieutenant governor with the right man than be governor."

U.N. Assembly Session Opens

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly opened its 14th session Tuesday, hopeful that East-West tensions may cease. But bitter debate loomed on such explosive issues as Communist aggression in Asia and nationalist demands for an independent Algeria.

Completely overshadowing the first day's proceedings was the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Washington for his visit with President Eisenhower. Many delegates came into the big modernistic blue-and-gold Assembly hall after watching the event on their TV sets.

Belaunde made no direct reference to the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks in his inauguration speech.

He called on the big powers, in cooperation with the United Nations, to start the world down the road to agreement on disarmament.

United Nations Fact-Finders Arrive In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Four United Nations fact finders arrived in Laos Tuesday and began investigating the royal government's charges that it was the victim of Communist aggression from North Viet Nam.

The arrival touched off a spate of Communist charges that the commission was here illegally, that it was a tool of Western imperialism and that the United States and its allies were preparing a new war in Indochina.

Russia's Moscow radio and North Viet Nam's radio Hanoi denounced the mission and demanded the Laos problem be turned over to the East-West powers that worked out the agreement ending the Indochina War in Geneva in 1954.

Before the arrival of the U.N. team, Laos government officials said their forces appeared to have turned the tide against the Communists in the north.

Chief of Staff Gen. Ouane Sananikone said government troops were in a position to trap withdrawing Communist forces in two areas.

"Generally speaking the military situation is very good," he said.

Tripped By Teeth

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, England (AP)—Safeblower James Davidson's false teeth gave him away. They did not fit well and Davidson took them out while preparing to blast open an office. Davidson departed with the money, but forgot his teeth. They traced through dental records. He was given a five-year prison sentence.

Vanguard Satellite Launching Postponed

Early Tuesday morning, the countdown reached zero on the last rocket in the Vanguard satellite series but nothing happened because of a faulty ignition system.

Mrs. Khrushchev Poised, Smiling After Long Flight

Mrs. Khrushchev was poised and smiling as she walked with her husband from the giant Russian TU-114 plane which brought them to this country.

President Eisenhower greeted the Russian first lady with the words "I am delighted to meet you." But Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand to greet her.

No slight was intended. Mrs. Eisenhower was merely following her practice, observed even when Queen Elizabeth made her state visit two years ago, of first greeting foreign dignitaries at the White House.

The grandmotherly wife of Russia's premier broke into a wide smile when one of the Russian Embassy children, following the Russian custom, handed her a big bunch of red roses at the airport.

Mrs. Khrushchev sat to the President's left in the rear of an open limousine for the drive into town. She smiled and waved continually to the crowds.

Mrs. Khrushchev and her family apparently did not expect the Indian summer weather which greeted them on their first visit to this country. They were dressed in fall attire.

Mrs. Khrushchev was wearing a heavy blue - gray suit, sober black hat and black shoes.

"Mr. K" Goes To State Dinner In Business Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made no concession to American standards of formal dress at turkey and more than the usual trimmings Tuesday night at a White House state dinner.

Although the affair was as formal as formal Washington can get, Khrushchev arrived wearing a black business suit and a gray silk four-in-hand tie.

He appeared to be wearing the same suit, shirt and tie that he had on earlier in the day. At least they looked alike.

The premier entered the White House at about 7:40 p.m., 20 minutes before the dinner was scheduled to begin. As is customary, he and Mrs. Khrushchev and other members of the family went upstairs to visit briefly with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower before joining the other guests.

After the chat upstairs, the Eisenhowers and the Khrushchevs took an elevator to the main floor to have their pictures made.

The Russian visitors mingled with a group of dinner guests as varied as the White House could make it—from the mayor of Des Moines, Iowa, to the president of the New York Stock Exchange.

The elaborate dinner on the White House gold service was followed by a musicale featuring more Americana for the Russian leader—a performance by Fred Waring and his "Pennsylvanians" singing old - time and familiar American songs.

U.S. Spurns Soviet Plan For Settling Laos Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States rejected as "disruptive and unnecessary" Tuesday a Soviet proposal for settling the Laos crisis without American participation.

In a move reported Monday the Russian news agency Tass, the Soviet government advocated that the Laos situation be considered by the nations which attended the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

This conference, in which the United States did not participate, brought an end to the fighting in Indo-China but left the Communists with a foothold in the area. The Reds now are trying to expand their power into Laos.

The State Department said that "since the United Nations has already taken action on the Laos issue, the proposal for a second Geneva conference would seem to be unnecessary and disruptive."

Moreoever, it added, the Soviet plan "would ignore the authority of the United States." The solution to the Laos problem "is not to be found in international conferences but in the cessation of intervention and subversion" in the tiny kingdom, it said.

Typhoon Hits Islands

No reports of damage to the islands were immediately available.

7,300 To Guard Khrush

NEW YORK (AP)—A total of 7,300 policemen—about a third of New York's force—has been assigned to guard Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev when he visits here.

New Governor-General Takes Over In Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada got a new governor-general Tuesday. He is Maj. Gen. George P. Vanier, the first French-speaking Canadian to hold the post. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker hailed his installation as a milestone in Canadian unity. Vanier, 71, a retired lawyer, scholar, soldier and diplomat, succeeds Vincent Massey as the personal representative of Queen Elizabeth II in Canada. Massey, 72, retired after 7½ years as the first Canadian in the largely ceremonial job.

Tammany Hall Leader Fights To Quell Revolt

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmine G. De Sapio fought Tuesday to retain his leadership of Tammany Hall in a bitter primary elections dispute with big-name Democratic insurgents.

The challenge to the 50-year-old De Sapio in his Greenwich Village district highlighted an otherwise drab state primary. Three contests for state legislative seats also were being decided.

De Sapio's leadership of the Manhattan Democratic organization rests on his control of his home district—the 1st Assembly District South—and his ability to win support of a majority of Manhattan leaders. A defeat in his own district also would probably end De Sapio's tenure as Democratic national committeeman from New York.

De Sapio's ouster after a decade as Tammany's chieftain was sought by a group led by former Sen. Herbert Lehman, former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

When the insurgents launched their anti-De Sapio drive last January, Lehman accused the Tammany leader of "boss rule." The former senator said this gave the Republicans a ready-made issue last year and led to Gov. Averell Harriman's defeat by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

De Sapio replied that he was a true liberal Democrat and that his critics were phony liberals, political housewreckers and were asking to be read out of the Democratic party.

Slain Widow's Estate Valued At $54,767

WASHINGTON (AP) — The estate of Mrs. Pearl Putney, part of whose skeleton was found in Sierra County, Calif., on Aug. 16, has been valued at $54,767.

Larry Lord Motherwell, a one-time Washington carpenter, is scheduled to be arraigned in Downieville, Calif., Wednesday on a charge that he murdered the Washington widow.

The petition lists Mrs. Putney's personal property at $54,767. About $50,000 of that amount is in securities which have been missing since Mrs. Putney left on a trip to California with Motherwell last summer.

Since no will has been found and none is believed to exist, the estate would go to Mrs. Putney's sole surviving heir, her half-brother, Castro M. Dabrohua, Chicago, attorneys said.

SCHOOL BOMB SCENE—This was the scene at Poe Elementary School, Houston, Tex., yesterday after a man threw a powerful suitcase bomb into the school playground. Camp David an hour by headwinds, was lacking entirely in major incidents—no tossing of eggs, rocks or insults. A smattering of boos was heard. A few skull and crossbones flags and black armbands were on display.

For the most part, the thousands of people who turned out to see the first Soviet Communist chief of government ever to visit this country obviously did so more out of curiosity than tribute.

Yet many of them did wave and smile back when Khrushchev waved his black homburg hat and grinned jovially.

The chunky Premier was a scene-stealer right from the start, at the air base in nearby Maryland and on the drive to the President's guest house, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

He kept putting his hat on and taking it off, or holding it up to keep the sun from his eyes, all the time Eisenhower was delivering his brief speech of welcome at the airport.

During the motorcade trip into town, the Premier partly blocked the crowd's view of Eisenhower. He rode much of the way with his left arm on top of the back seat, almost around the President's shoulders. On the other side of Eisenhower was Mrs. Khrushchev and a huge spray of red roses.

Right from the start, too, there was a sparring and jockeying for position in the eyes of the world—the beginning of what may be a duel lasting through Khrushchev's entire 13-day stay in the United States.

There was an emphasis on friendship, peace and understanding. But there also was an underscoring of differences and points of abrasion.

It sounded a bit patronizing when Khrushchev predicted that U.S. scientists will get a rocket to the moon, too, as the Russians claim to have done over the weekend.

"The Soviet pennant, as an old resident of the moon," he said, "will welcome your pennant and they will live there together in peace and friendship as we both should live together on the earth in peace and friendship, as should live in peace and friendship all peoples who inhabit our common mother earth who so generously gives us her gifts."

Russians Hail Premier's Visit As Quest For Peace

There was little doubt that the people here felt this was a chance to end the cold war.

(In Washington, George V. Allen, director of the U. S. Information Agency (USIA), said that for the first time in 10 years broadcasts from the Voice of America reached behind the Iron Curtain free of Communist jamming. The Voice of America, an official agency of the USIA with a transmitter in Europe, beamed factual accounts into the Soviet Union of Khrushchev's arrival in Washington.

The radio and newspapers were filled with details of the flight and Radio Moscow reported on the "solemn reception ceremony" at which President Eisenhower formally received his guest.

The Russian newspapers linked the trip with the successful rocket moon shot and the launching of the atomic-powered icebreaker Lenin, which sailed into the Baltic Tuesday for sea trials.

The front page of Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, featured a drawing of a plane headed for Washington against a backdrop of the Dove of Peace, the Lunik rocket and the icebreaker.

The general attitude was that Russia had scored not only impressive scientific victories but also a major feat of diplomacy.

Two special correspondents for the government newspaper Izvestia reported that millions of Americans were "literally holding their breaths" in expectation of Khrushchev's visit.

One Injured In Crash Of Two Buses, Truck

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — A school bus, a truck and a Greyhound bus were involved in a collision near here Tuesday. Police said the only person injured was a passenger on the Greyhound bus.

The Prince Georges County school bus had just started after picking up some pupils and then halted again to pick up some latecomers.

Police said the bus pulled beside the school bus and then stopped. When it halted, the Greyhound was struck in the rear by a truck carrying 5½ tons of glass. The truck, police said, then bounced into the school bus. Some glass fell to the highway. Several windows in the school bus were broken.

The number of children on the bus at the time was not learned. They were en route to O. W. Phair Elementary and Laurel High School in Laurel.

Girl Must Stand Trial

HST Would Meet Khrush If Red Boss Asked Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said Tuesday that, while he won't see Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev if he can avoid it, he'd meet the Soviet leader if asked by Khrushchev.

"That would be the courteous thing to do," Truman explained.

Truman recalled that when he was president he invited the late Premier Joseph Stalin to visit this country "but he was afraid to come." Truman didn't amplify.

Casey Planned Wife's Slaying, State Charges

Casey pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity. His attorney, Bernard M. Goldstein, told the jury of seven men and five women that Casey did not deny the act but that he was not legally responsible at the time.

"Sgt. Casey knew his wife was running around," the prosecutor told the jury, "and the evidence will show that she was. But the law makes no distinction as to the morals of the victim.

The state asked a first degree murder conviction, which could carry death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

Attorneys for both sides agreed that Casey gave police a written statement after the slaying on May 11, 1958 at the Casey home. However, the statement asserted that Casey "blacked out" and had no recollection of the fatal stabbing.

Milk Control Plan Urged For Greater Part Of State

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department Tuesday recommended establishment of a federal program to regulate basic milk prices in practically all of Maryland except the west.

Under this program, the department would set the minimum prices which handlers would be required to pay dairymen. It would not, however, set retail prices.

The program has been recommended by the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Assn., Inc., said to represent a majority of producers in the market.

The association said in Baltimore it had learned the order proposed setting a price of $5.55 per hundredweight of Class 1, drinking milk, for eight months of the year. From March through June the price would be $5.10.

The prices proposed are the same as those put into effect last July 1 for the Washington marketing area, it said.

The principal purpose of the program would be to stabilize prices and supplies of fluid milk in the market. Similar programs are operating in about 75 other urban marketing areas of the country.

The marketing area would include the City of Baltimore and surrounding portions of Maryland including the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford, Howard, Kent, Queen Annes, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester; the town of Laurel in Prince Georges County; and that portion of Calvert County not now included in a Washington milk marketing area.

Interested persons were given until Oct. 3 to file comments or exceptions to the proposed program.

Approval by two-thirds or more of the producers supplying the area is required before the order can be put into effect.

Warm Weather Delays Apple Crop Coloring

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Hot weather has delayed the coloring of the Hancock area apple crop, but the advent of cooler temperatures is expected to speed the process, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

In its weekly summary, the service said harvest of Grimes and Jonathans apples was progressing rapidly and some Delicious were expected to move to mark early this week and in Allegany County about Oct. 1.

Stayman, Rome Beauty and Yorks were expected to be ready in both areas around Oct. 1-5, the service said.

The weekly report noted that continued high temperatures and lack of rain last week rushed maturity of the corn crop. At the week's end, more than half of the crop was mature, compared with less than 25 per cent a year ago.

Soil moisture was generally adequate over most of north central Maryland and the Eastern Shore, but in Southern Maryland and some sections of Western Maryland it was dry. Early fall seedings of hay, pasture and cover crops needed rain.

About 95 per cent of the state's tobacco crop was harvested and in the barns.

The service said soybeans had suffered serious damage from corn earworms in parts of the lower Peninsula, but elsewhere prospects were considered generally excellent.

Take Coins, Miss Bills

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Thieves broke into the Town Tavern in Hagerstown Monday night and carried away a heavy load of small change — nickels, dimes and quarters — totaling about $2,000 but missed 500 $1 bills stacked nearby, police reported.

Friendship Airport Ready, Just In Case

But if something had happened to prevent the big Russian plane from landing there, Friendship Airport was ready in all respects to receive the Soviet aircraft.

Hundreds of specially trained troops from Ft. Meade arrived at Friendship Airport early Tuesday. Others were kept in a state of readiness on the base nearby if needed.

Lt. Col. William H. Weber and 75 state troopers were on hand to guard roads, bridges and all approach areas to the airport. Other troopers stood by to escort President Eisenhower to Friendship from Washington.

Three Deaths Boost State's '59 Traffic Toll To 361

By The Associated Press

Maryland added three more deaths to the list of those killed in highway accidents during 1959.

The worst accident occurred Tuesday when two were killed and four injured on Maryland 6 at its intersection with U.S. 301 at La Plata.

State Police said Mrs. Agnes Yvonne Proctor, 21, of Pisgah, Md., was killed when she drove through a red traffic light and hit another vehicle. A passenger in the other car, Mrs. Frances Rosen, 45, of Seaford, N.Y., died from her injuries.

Mrs. Rosen's husband, Benjamin, 46, who was driving, suffered a possible fractured pelvis and ribs. Their daughter Alice, 12, suffered chest injuries. Mrs. Nellie Bowman, 44, of Pisgah, and Helen Bowman, 17, of Pisgah, passengers in Mrs. Proctor's car, also were injured.

Early Tuesday, Eino Pehkonen, 24, a sailor on a Danish freighter taking on cargo in Baltimore, was killed when struck by a truck on U.S. 40 east of Baltimore while helping five sailor companions push a disabled automobile.

Police said the truck driven by William D. Brown of Baltimore came over a slight rise in the road, swerved to avoid the men and car, but Pehkonen apparently ran toward the center grass strip and was hit.

Wilson Sr., Mrs. Melvin Wharton, Mrs. Donald Pentoney, Mrs. Edgar See, Mrs. R. L. Gold Star Mothers To Meet

A discussion of National Gold Star Mothers Day will feature the first meeting of the fall season of the Tri-State Chapter, Gold Star Mothers, which will be held tonight at 7:30 in the American Legion home.

The national observance will be held September 27, with a ceremony at Arlington, and the annual dinner in Washington on the 26th.

Following the regular business session tonight a social hour will be held, games will be played and refreshments served.

Association Reports On Varicosities

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association reports that one of the most common afflictions of mankind is a condition known as "varicose" (swollen) veins. As a disorder related to the circulatory system, varicose veins has been a concern of the association and its medical specialists.

The true cause of varicose veins is unknown. However, an important aspect seems to be hereditary, since most of the women and men who suffer from the condition have parents or grandparents who were similarly disabled.

It has been observed that women suffer from varicose veins more often than men, and that they occur more frequently in people whose occupations keep them on their feet for long hours at a time. Waitresses, elevator operators, store clerks and like workers are apt to have them—and so are those who do very heavy lifting. Pregnant women are particularly susceptible to varicose veins.

Surface veins which carry blood from the ankle to the upper leg are the ones that balloon out into the varicosities (swellings) that make legs unsightly and give pain. They are connected by communicating veins to inner or deep veins, and are enveloped in muscle so are much less apt to swell. The muscles help support the heavy column of blood that flows the long distance from the ankle to the heart.

Attached to the inside walls of all main veins are valves—an irregularly spaced series of cup-like structures that open as blood flows upward toward the heart and close to prevent its dropping back toward the feet. Doctors have found that when the valves are weak or damaged, trouble begins.

Obedience Class Is Organized

A fall Obedience Class, sponsored by the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, was organized Sunday under the direction of Miss Laura Nickel. Several more dogs will be accepted if they are entered for the next lesson, which will be at 2 p. m. September 20 at the North End playground.

As obedience training has become an important phase of canine activities in the kennel club, graduation exercises were held recently, concluding the summer course. Mrs. Donald Prichard served as judge.

The highest score was awarded to Isolde O'Page's Hill, a Shetland sheepdog, owned and handled by Mrs. Earl Smith; second in the advanced class was the boxer Tammaro of Cumberland, owned and handled by Mrs. Frank Urbas.

In the beginner's class top honors were awarded to the toy poodle, Pompey's Lord Peter, owned and handled by William Wag'y; second to the pug, owned and handled by Carl Showers and third to the German shepherd, owned and handled by Dr. G. O. Himmelwright.

Enrolled in the fall class are two bassett hounds entered by Sally Stern and Mary Kuehn; three cocker spaniels entered by Mr. and Mrs. Homer Higgins and Karen Holbrook; two poodles, by Mrs. Roger Holbein and Mrs. Charles Nuzum; a Dalmatian entered by Karen Ort; a boxer by Stanley Klein; and a Pomeranian handled by Mrs. Floyd Myers. Four of the dogs entered will be given an advanced course and the others, the beginners course.

Each course will consist of 10 hour periods, with the final class being an examination. Information concerning the classes can be obtained by calling Miss Nickel, telephone PA 4-4608, or coming to the next session on Sunday.

County Gets Bids For Purchase Of Lots

Bids on a number of lots in Cumberland that are owned by the county were received at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

The lots had been advertised for sale and the bids were turned over to the county attorney for recommendation. The Cumberland Real Estate Corporation submitted bids of $75 for three lots in the Cumberland Park Addition, $300 for a lot in the Braddock Heights Addition and $100 for another lot in that section.

Thomas L. Popp offered the county $165 for each of three lots in Reed's Addition, while Charles R. Nuzum bid $40 for eight lots in the Ridgedale Addition.

The commissioners indicated they would attend a number of meetings during the next few weeks. The group plans to attend a Dutch treat dinner of the Chamber of Commerce for the Legislative Council next Thursday at the Cumberland Country Club.

The board will attend a meeting of the Council the following day at 10 a. m. during which possible legislation will be discussed. The meeting will be held in the City Hall. The group agreed to meet next Thursday morning, instead of Friday, so that all members can attend the meeting with the Legislative Council.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, asked the commissioners to attend a meeting in Mt. Savage Thursday at 2 p. m. when sanitation problems of the community will be discussed.

Dowling also invited the board to attend a meeting next Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Ellerslie when a water problem for that region will be discussed with a delegation of residents.

The board indicated it would attend a meeting of the Upper Potomac River Commission next Thursday and Friday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel when water quality in the North Branch will be discussed.

Writer Lumbers Through Sylvan Dells With Nudists

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

PALMERTON, Pa. (AP)—"Be sure to get here in time for the square dance," Zelda Suplee urged. "And please don't write all that tired old stuff about pot bellied men."

Square dance in a nudist camp?

I was willing to promise anything not in violation of the Geneva convention. As for that pot bellied men routine, one look at me and Zelda knew only the most penetrating autobiographical profile would dishonor my pledge.

She was seated at her desk in the office of Sunny Rest Lodge here in the Poconos when I arrived. The office was rather starkly decorated. So was Zelda. She wore a sunny disposition with imitation coral accessories: Necklace, earrings, sunglasses. And, oh yes, shoes.

I was going to spend a weekend at a nudist camp. Depth reporting, the journalism textbooks call it. Zelda's letter, signed "naturally yours," gained me admission to her camp, one of the largest in the East.

"You'll wear the uniform, of course?" She looked me straight in the eye, which was something of a feat since my eyes were busy counting pine knots in the floor boards.

"When in Rome..." I bandied bravely.

The uniform, I knew in advance, was no uniform at all. But I repaired to my cabin to get into uniform. On the way I passed the recreation hall. It was called "Bare Belly Inn."

I felt the least I should do, upon removing my clothes, was to go gamboling down the garden path. Somehow, I just couldn't. Being a newspaperman, I clutched a newspaper strategically and edged onto the sun lawn where a dozen people were luxuriating.

It was like a YMCA locker room moved outdoors and suddenly gone coed. My strategy was to be as unobtrusive as possible for as long as possible. But a monstrous bumble bee had other ideas. Jumping to my feet, I executed a neat valencia with the newspaper and waved away both the bee and my modesty.

"They won't hurt you," said a pretty young thing, laughing. "Mind if I look at the sports section" In my embarrassment I gave her the whole paper. My break with conventions was now complete. For the next three days I was a child of nature, a Botticelli angel flitting—well, lumbering—through the sylvan glades of eastern Pennsylvania.

I swam, I sunned, I burned, I played table tennis, shuffleboard and scrabble, but pleaded a fictitious war wound when it came to volley ball, the nudist national pastime.

The nudists turned out to be a friendly, informal crowd—not the weird health fadists I had expected. When introduced they shook hands, the only bodily contact allowed, and gave first names or "nudes de plume," as Zelda termed it.

No one dressed for dinner. Or for breakfast or any other meal.

The group included a Wall Street broker, a structural engineer, an insurance agent, a legal secretary and two small plane owners who had landed at the camp's private field with their wives. The camp admits single men and women over 21, whole families of all ages and married men if accompanied by their wives. Liquor and gambling are prohibited.

Contrary to popular belief, nudists seldom trot around nude. Most wore hats, sandals, jewelry, wristwatches, sunglasses and, as needed, wedding rings, cosmetics and dentures. When the sun went down, they got completely dressed, except for those using the pool.

As advertised, the square dance turned out to be the highlight of my visit. Everyone wore clothes. But not the bright shirts and blue jeans currently in vogue among the folk lore set. When nudists dress they go whole hog in the opposite direction: Jackets, ties, boutonnieres, high heels, cocktail dresses, perfume.

Mann Road Work Sought

A delegation of residents of Mann Road in the eastern end of the county yesterday filed a petition with the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County asking that the road be hard-surfaced.

Dale Mann, spokesman for the group, was informed that the road had recently been inspected by Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, and John J. Rowan, president of the board of commissioners.

Rowan said the improvement is to be included in next year's roads program and explained to the delegation that the only money used for such improvements comes from the county's share of the state gasoline tax.

Commissioner William A. Wilson also pointed out that the most heavily traveled highways get the preference for any road improvements. It was brought out that school buses and rural mail carriers have great difficulty in negotiating the road during winter months.

The petition stated that residents along the road had deeded rights of way for road improvement in 1936 and 11 families reside on the road which is heavily traveled by residents of nearby Pennsylvania.

Board Airs Lonaconing School Safety

The matter of safety for school children was brought to the attention of the Board of Commissioners of Allegany County yesterday by Commissioner William A. Wilson.

The commissioner made a formal request for another investigation of a condition in Lonaconing where students attending Valley High School must walk along the roadway along the western approaches of town.

Wilson said he felt a pathway of some sort should be provided for the safety of students, and also stated a traffic light should be installed as a safety measure.

The board asked Wilson to head the investigation and report back on any possible recommendations.

The commissioners in a letter to Gov. J. Millard Tawes formally protested the transfer of the Cumberland racing program to Hagerstown and asked the governor to investigate the action of the State Racing Commission.

The letter stated Allegany County had suffered a severe economic blow as a result of the incident and requested Gov. Tawes to determine the reason for transferring the racing meet and to take necessary action in preventing a repetition of the action in the future.

Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Infirmary, advised the board of commissioners of the resignation of Mrs. Hannah E. Blubaugh and asked that another dishwasher be named.

Commissioner Wilson pointed out that any replacement must be made on a temporary basis since there was no Civil Service list available.

The board, on motion of Commissioner J. Tucker Mason, voted to increase the salary of Aubrey Webb, an employe in the County Assessing Department. Mason explained that the increase, amounting to $200 a year, was recommended by the Civil Service Board after that group had placed his position in a higher classification.

The commissioners also instructed the clerk to the board to advise all department heads to turn their bills in by the end of each month so that prompt action can be taken on them in the future.

Commissioner Asks Inspection Of Site

Commissioner William A. Wilson yesterday asked the county roads department to investigate the need of fill dirt in a parking area in Midland.

Residents of the area said the area has become worn that sharp rocks are exposed, thus endangering the tires of automobiles.

City Sells $300,000 Thruway Bond Issue At Four Per Cent Interest Rate

The City of Cumberland sold a $300,000 Cumberland Thruway of 1959 bond issue yesterday for an interest rate of 4 per cent.

Successful bidder was Alex Brown and Son and John C. Legg Company of Baltimore, one of two submitting bids.

The actual average interest rate over the 14½ years of the issue will be 3.996 with a premium of approximately $300. Total interest cost for all bond years will amount to $168,400 until maturity.

The other bid was submitted by a combination of Mercantile Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Baker-Watts and Stein Brothers and Boyce. This combination bid an interest rate of 4⅛ per cent which would have cost $173,662.50. The successful bid was $5,262.50 below this figure.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson in commenting on the bond sale said he was pleased with the 4 per cent figure in view of market conditions. As it happened, the figure was exactly what had been figured by the city auditor.

Edward O. Clark Jr., of the Baltimore law firm of Clark, Smith and Prendergast, attended the meeting. The firm was hired by the city to certify the issue.

A. B. Collmus of the Alex Brown firm was present at the session and told the Mayor and Council that the issue came at a time when stocks are in a bad money market and at a bad time for municipalities to sell.

However, he said the city, which he termed a good investment, got a good price and said if council knew of any one wanting to invest in the tax-free issue, the Alex Brown Company would be interested in hearing from them.

Inquiries concerning the purchase of the City of Cumberland coupon bonds should be directed to Collmus or Dwight Collmus, representing Alex Brown and Sons, Frederick.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said following the meeting that he reserved some of the bonds for investment purposes and added they were a good buy.

Proceeds from the sale of the bond issue will be used to pay $280,000 the city owes the State Roads Commission on the construction contract for the Cumberland Thruway. This releases state gas and auto revenues which have been withheld by the state and applied toward the city's share of the project. The city expects $90,000 from that source.

The interest rate for this 1959 issue is the highest paid by the city since March 1, 1936 when the $100,000 Allegany Hospital issue was sold to the W. W. Lanahan Company at 4 per cent.

The last issue sold was September 25, 1956 and the rate was 3.25 per cent. That was $150,000 in Memorial Hospital bonds and $150,000 in Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection bonds.

County Getting New Trucks

The Board of Commissioners of Allegany County yesterday voted to take the recommendation of Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic, on the purchase of three new trucks for the roads department.

Skelly and Robinette were questioned as to why they each preferred the bid of Light and Decker Company for three International trucks when two other bids, by the St. George Motor Company and Frostburg Auto Company, were lower.

The men explained that the vehicles would have to be converted for use with snow plows, and that in their opinion the International vehicles would be the easiest to convert and maintain.

The Light and Decker Company bid was for $17,825, while the lower bids were $17,323.50 by the St. George firm and $17,700 by Frostburg Auto. The other bid, $20,308.15, was made by Heiskell Motors.

The motion for purchase was seconded by Commissioner William A Wilson with the reservation that he felt representatives of the auto firms should have been present. Commissioners John J. Rowan, board president, and J. Tucker Mason each stated they had confidence in Skelly's and Robinette's opinions that the International vehicles would be most economical in the long run.

Dougherty Appeals Move To Lift Building Permit

E. A. Dougherty, the city's new garbage collector, has appealed a move to revoke a permit for construction of a warehouse-garage in the Wempe Drive-Fourth Street vicinity.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said Dougherty filed the action with the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday.

The Mayor and Council moved Monday to revoke the permit on the basis of health and fire protection.

It acted after a petition signed by 98 residents of the area was submitted. Complainants said the structure would adjoin a residential "A" area, will stop development, be a nuisance and create an unhealthy condition.

It was pointed out that the side of the street where the Dougherty structure would be is zoned business while the side across the street is residential.

Construction has not been started but City Attorney William R. Carscaden told council if Dougherty purchased the property for business purposes and since it is a business zone, the city has very little chance of offsetting it.

Dougherty has been awarded the city's garbage collection contract effective October 1 at $74,945 with options to renew for three years.

Will Air Car Travel Replace Railroads?

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A revolutionary new car that skims with ease over water, mud, ice and dry ground on a cushion of air may someday make today's railroads as obsolete as mule trains.

The car, which is neither an airplane nor an automobile, might even turn superhighways into country roads and ground many short-haul airplanes.

If developed far enough, it could conceivably replace some ocean liners, buses and trucks and turn land-bound cities such as Indianapolis into world ports.

These are some of the possibilities offered by one of the nation's leading transportation experts on the basis of information now available about an assortment of flat-bottomed cars that zip through the air no more than a foot from the surface of the earth and sometimes only a hair's-breadth away.

William L. Grossman, professor of transportation at New York University, is enthusiastic over the possibility of a truly amphibious mode of transportation.

But he carefully pointed out the dangers of predictions of things to come from the development of vehicles such as the Ford Motor Co.'s "Levacar," the Curtiss-Wright Company's "air-car," and the British "Hovercraft."

"A lot of things that are sensational technically seem to have less impact on society than you would think," Grossman said in an interview. "The helicopter was going to change suburban life entirely. There were predictions that people would build houses with special roofs for landing. It hasn't happened yet and isn't an immediate prospect."

All three cars described by Grossman operate on a system of levitation involving the ejection of streams of air that provide cushions between the cars and the earth's surface. The air is a lubricant that greases the way for the flat-bottomed vehicles, which have no wheels, no gears to shift, no clutches and no foot pedals.

Curtiss-Wright is putting a four-passenger, 60-mile-per-hour model of its "air-car" into production this fall. It hopes to sell these cars to ranchers, oil explorers, pipeline developers and similar users. Later, it hopes to turn out "air-car" trucks and buses.

The Ford model still is in an experimental stage. It is being developed to go at speeds high enough to put it into competition with buses and airplanes on intercity routes.

Britain's "Hovercraft" has been developed mainly to skim over water. Present plans call for putting it into service across the English Channel.

The "air-car" travels from 6 to 12 inches above the earth's surface. The "Hovercraft" maintains about the same distance. But the "Levacar" barely skims the surface, staying only a fraction of an inch in the air.

Need No Bridges

A rail only a few inches wide might serve as the "way" for the "Levacar," Ford officials said. Extensive development of these and the other types of "ways" would slash road-building costs, according to Grossman. All the vehicles require is a smooth surface under them, which could be provided with a bulldozer, and they need no bridges. Rivers could become highways and thoroughfares might be established across lakes and deserts, Grossman said.

"The possibilities offered public transportation provide the most intriguing aspect," Grossman said. "The vehicles might realize very high speeds through a system of automatic traffic control. Buses might travel 300 to 400 miles per hour between cities without danger. It would be like a flying railway line."

In the freight field, Grossman said, one of the most important problems today is the high cost of shifting cargoes from one vehicle to another.

A student with at least junior standing in a recognized American college or university may become eligible for one of the scholarships awarded annually under the will of Cecil John Rhodes at Oxford university in England.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Insurance Board said Tuesday West Virginia agents will collect $485,398 worth of premiums this fiscal year from all types of insurance on state properties.

The board said Lee C. Paull Inc., Wheeling, was $25,910 over the limit on a $50,180 premium on a policy for the West Virginia Turnpike Commission.

Kanawha County has the highest number of agents with 28, Ohio County has 23 and Cabell 13.

Keyser Council Acts To Curb Water Shortage

Certain Uses Now Prohibited

KEYSER — An emergency ordinance was enacted by the Mayor and City Council here yesterday afternoon to deal with the water shortage, now prevalent in the city.

The ordinance will prohibit the use of city water for air-conditioning with non-circulating water systems, as well as for watering lawns, washing automobiles and any other non-essential use.

A fine of from $5 to $10 will be imposed on violators of the ordinance. Paul Peters, finance commissioner, as well as Raymond Murray, water commissioner, expressed the hope that no fines will have to be imposed. "I feel that when the people of Keyser realize the seriousness of the situation they will cooperate with us along these lines," Mr. Peters said.

Commissioner Murray said that the condition has been brought about by the lack of rain throughout the spring and summer and that continued use of water for lawns and washing cars will not help the situation. He said that the City Reservoir in the Limestone section is 12 feet below the spillway. "We can only pump water for about two hours at a time and then have to wait for twelve hours for the supply of water to build up so that the pumping can continue," Mr. Murray continued.

Mayor Romig pointed out that the New Creek Dam will help alleviate the situation in the future but that at present there is only one foot of water behind the dam.

The Council also made plans for an ordinance to permanently prohibit the use of the non-circulatin water system for air conditioning. This ordinance will be drawn up by Charles W. Smith, city attorney, for consideration of the council at a future date. Mr. Peters said the ordinance is necessary because people have refused to comply with a request published several days ago to curtail further usage.

Crews Return To Work At Sugar Grove

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (AP)—The full work force was on the job Tuesday at the U. S. Navy's 79 million dollar radio telescope project at Sugar Grove, Pendleton County.

Lt. Cmdr. E. S. Nuss, assistant resident project officer for the Navy, said "everyone has returned to work, as far as I know."

Nuss explained that 58 iron workers union members and 28 unionized carpenters quit work Sept. 2 in a dispute with the several contracting firms on the project. He said some employes went back to work last Thursday and others returned Monday.

The union employes who staged the short walkout were members of the Cumberland, Md. Local 568, Iron Workers Union, and Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

Nuss said there are at least three companies employing iron workers and two firms employing carpenters on the giant project. The prime contract for the Navy project is a joint venture for three companies — Tidewater Construction Co. of Norfolk, Va., Peter Kiewit & Sons of Omaha, Neb., and Patterson, Emerson and Comstock Construction Co. of Pittsburgh.

Nuss said he did not know the specific issue in the recent walkout, or whether the union and company have agreed to terms.

Union officials in Cumberland said the unauthorized walkout resulted from a dispute involving $5-a-day subsistence pay. At least one firm has agreed to pay and negotiations are continuing with the other firms.

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—A motorcycle collided with a horse wandering along a county road early Tuesday, killing the bike rider. Robert Brunthaver, 25, was on his way home from work shortly after midnight when the accident occurred.

PSC Water Rules Apply To W.Va. County Boards

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The state attorney general's office said Tuesday that a county court supplying water to customers would be subject to regulation by the Public Service Commission.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Clement Bassett told Harrison County Prosecutor Robert B. Ziegler it would be up to the PSC to make final determination in the matter.

Bassett said it would be up to the commission to determine whether the water system operated by the county court of Harrison County would be subject to regulation by the PSC.

92 Per Cent Of County Taxes Obtained

In the first three months after the Allegany County tax bills were distributed to taxpayers, County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff and his assistants had collected more than 92 per cent of the anticipated annual income from county taxes.

Mr. Orndorff reported yesterday that he has turned over to Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, the county auditor, $3,194,724.26, representing county tax collections for the three discount months of June, July and August. There was $2,901,604.23 collected in June at five per cent discount, $153,768.53 in July when the discount was four per cent and $139,351.10 in August at three per cent interest.

The total of $3,194,724.26 represented 92.7 per cent of the $3,446,400 the county commissioners estimated they would receive when the tax rate was set April 21. Collections for sanitary districts by Mr. Orndorff, also turned over to Mrs. Sills, included $609.85 for LaVale, $339.89 for Cresaptown, $41.58 for Potomac Park and $41.49 for Mt. Savage.

This month, one-half per cent interest is being charged on county real estate taxes. Interest on state real estate taxes, also collected by Mr. Orndorff, will start October 1.

Soil Bank Deadline Extended

Farmers interested in the 1960 Conservation Reserve are being reminded that two changes in Soil Bank regulations should make more farmers eligible to participate.

Bradye H. Dolly, chairman of the Allegany Agricultural and Stabilization committee, said yesterday that any farmer ineligible under former rules but now eligible for a 1960 contract has until September 30 to request his county ASC office to set a basic annual rate for his farm. The deadline had been September 10, he said.

One change affects situations where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily and the owner takes over the operation. The other covers situations where land has been lost for public use under eminent domain procedures.

Under the program as originally announced for 1960, a farm which was operated wholly or partially by a tenant or sharecropper in 1958 or 1959 could not be placed in the Conservation Reserve next year unless a tenant or sharecropper was designated to share in the annual rental payment. The purpose of this provision was to protect tenants against being forced off Soil Bank farms.

The new provision permits a contract with a land owner where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily and the owner finds it necessary to take over the operation. In such a case, a Conservation Reserve contract for nontenant operation may be entered into for 1960 provided it can be established definitely that the tenant left the farm of his own accord. This may be proved either through a statement signed by the tenant or sharecropper or, if he is not available, through statements signed by three disinterested persons who know the situation.

The other newly announced change provides an exception to the general rule that land purchased since December 31, 1956 is not eligible for the Conservation Reserve. Under the new rule, a farmer who has lost land through eminent domain since 1956 and has bought replacement land can place this new land in the 1960 Conservation Reserve, subject to certain limitations.

McDaniel, described by his father as a "boy who keeps things inside himself," gave no reason for the slaying.

Mrs. Monice Larson, 25, wife of a graduate student at the university, and her adopted daughter, Kimary Ann, 4 months, were found dead in their apartment.

Troopers To Ask Courts To Fine Speeders Heavily

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police Superintendent Hazen Fair said Tuesday he had told all State Troopers to ask justices of the peace and all traffic courts to assess heavier fines for speeding in order to reduce highway accidents.

Fair said the troopers had been asked to suggest a penalty of $2 a mile for every mile over the posted limit of 55.

"The standard penalty now is $10 and costs and that is not sufficient, especially in the cases of repeated violators," Fair said.

Fair said he would be willing to take any action to cut down on the traffic fatality toll.

Back Home To Which Korea?

Stubborn President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of South Korea threatens to use force, if necessary, to prevent the voluntary repatriation to Communist North Korea of the Koreans in Japan. How far Rhee will actually go should be disclosed soon after the Japanese Red Cross Society processes applications—beginning Sunday—of those who opt to go to North Korea.

Japan, for its part, says the 600,000 Korean nationals, taken to Japan for industrial jobs in World War II, are free to go to either North or South Korea—or to remain in Japan. And even such a staunch friend of the Rhee regime as Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) told his colleagues, September 1, that he had been assured by the U. S. State Department that "any repatriation that is undertaken . . . will be on a strictly voluntary basis."

Even so, Bridges recommended vigilant caution. "If there is any evidence whatever that the Communist North Koreans are attempting to deny basic rights to those Koreans who wish to return to South Korea, or are attempting to make a mockery of the good offices of the International Red Cross," Bridges declared, "then, as the allies of the Japanese and the South Korean people, it is our duty to expose their activities."

Meantime, Rhee in June broke off trade relations with Japan over the repatriation squabble. Inasmuch as any Japanese-Korean rift is inimical to U. S. interests in the Pacific, Walter C. Dowling, U. S. Ambassador to Korea, is quietly trying to get representatives of the two countries to resume discussions.

The British Election

The British Prime Minister having served notice on Her Majesty the Queen that his Government is resigning and that a general election should be held, the date of October 8 has been set. The campaign will last exactly one month and is very carefully scrutinized as to expenses and proprieties.

A British election is different from ours. No one votes for a Prime Minister, although everyone knows who it could be, either Harold Macmillan, the Conservative, or Hugh Gaitskell, the Socialist. No one votes for a Cabinet Minister, as such, although every Cabinet Minister is elected as a Member of Parliament and it is pretty well known which of them will be members of the Cabinet.

No person commands all the authority under the British system that the President of the United States does. He is elected as President; the Prime Minister of Great Britain is elected as a Member of Parliament from a constituency. Although now that commercial television exists in Great Britain, it will be possible for the Prime Minister to appeal to the entire nation on behalf of his party, he will, nevertheless, run only in one constituency. It is generally a safe one—that is, one that is sure to return the Prime Minister. However, should an accident occur and should he be defeated, a Member of Parliament from a sure constituency would resign and a bye-election would be held so that the Prime Minister can be returned to Parliament. This is not likely ever to happen.

A candidate for Parliament need not live in the constituency for which he stands. He can live anywhere and it is the Executive of his party which decides who is to run and where. In a word, a British political party is a membership organization and those who direct it are responsible to the members and have organizational authority.

The Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Paul Butler, has attempted to introduce a modification of this system this year. He asserted the authority of the Democratic National Committee as to matters of policy and was sharply put down by Senate leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. They disregard his Policy Committee. Some Republicans, headed by Charles Percy, have attempted to organize a similar body but it has come to nothing because when a party is in office, its policy is made by the incumbent President and the leadership of the party in Congress. While outside committees may influence public opinion, it is in Congress that the votes count.

In Great Britain, it is very different. The party is important and it is the party which sets policy, often through its own experts in its own conclaves outside of Parliament.

In the United States, being a member of the House of Representatives is no great shucks. In Great Britain, being a member of the House of Commons is the highest elective office to which any man can aspire. A member of the House of Commons is a distinguished person and is respected for his status. Only members of Parliament can serve in the Cabinet and most of them are likely to be members of the House of Commons.

A British campaign is very different from American campaigns. The speeches are more serious, less flamboyant, less personal. The meetings are smaller and the constituents ask questions, even from so distinguished a candidate as Sir Winston Churchill. And it is expected that he will answer the questions. He might be witty and try to side-step but the British electorate talks up. There is an intimacy between the candidate and the electorate which is not known in the United States.

The probability is that the Conservatives will win this election and Macmillan will continue as Prime Minister. This is largely due to the desire of the British to liquidate the Cold War. They now believe that the cooperation of Macmillan and Eisenhower is essential to the success of the project of liquidating the Cold War which is to be done by a series of Summit Conferences. At any rate, the election is set for October 8 which is so near at hand that the chances of total failure of the Eisenhower program are not likely in the interval.

A British election is a great time for arguments and much truth somehow makes itself known.

New Aggression In Laos Of Great Significance

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Dear Henry Luce:

Although I rather doubt its being wholly welcome, I feel impelled to write you this letter after returning from a short but fairly intensive on-the-spot look at the trouble in Laos.

The idea of the letter originated in Hong Kong, on my way home, when I belatedly discovered that last-but-one issue of "Time." The contrast was so remarkable, between your dismissal of the new Communist aggression in the Far East in a few patronizing paragraphs, and your ikon-portrait of President Eisenhower and close to six pages of paean about his European trip. Your implied order of priorities is cheerfully accepted by a large section of public opinion; and you are both the symbol and quite largely the creator of this public opinion.

Having been in Sammeua and Vientiane when the President was in London and Paris, I cannot judge the solid results achieved by his trip. His purposes, certainly, were as high as his purposes always are. But after the closest, more prolonged study of your report on it, I can find no more evidence of solid political achievement than you would expect from any personal appearance tour designed to instill confidence and to spread good will.

In Laos, on the other hand, one saw a wholly new—even terrifying new—stage of a vast political process. It is a process that used to interest you in the past.

You surely recall your loud denunciation of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson for their failure to prevent the loss of China. What is happening now in Laos grows out of that failure and the peace President Eisenhower made in Korea, and the subsequent partition of Indochina. But even though Laos is small and obscure the success of the Communist aggression there will still be a new stage in this process. It will resemble the stage when a spreading cancer ceases to be operable.

If you have any doubt about this, you only have to look at the map and the record. As a nation, Laos may be small, obscure, disordered and primitive, but its geography is intensely significent. Like a long potential trouble-maker's finger, it pokes south from the border of Communist China, past Communist North Vietnam on the east, into the middle of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand. All these three nations will be immediately imperilled by a Communist triumph in Laos.

Cambodia's Prince-Premier Sihanouk must now bitterly regret his recent visit to Saigon, to patch up his differences with the West's friend, President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam. By the same token, Indonesia's President Sukarno has now gone off on one of these sudden trips he always takes when he is in doubt about the way the wind is blowing. The outlook in Indonesia has been improving lately: but a disaster in Laos will greatly strengthen the Communists there, and in Malaya, Singapore and Burma too. In short, the fate of Laos is only too likely to determine the fate of all Southeast Asia.

This might not be the result, if the record did not strongly reinforce the map. The record shows that the Eisenhower administration's influence was used to create the existing anti-Communist government in Laos. The record further shows that the Laotians warned the American government that their anti-Communist government and policy would provoke an attack from North Vietnam. The record finally shows that the President's accredited representatives replied by telling the unfortunate Laotians they could have entire confidence in the support of the United States and the military protection of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

In these circumstances, failure to safeguard Laos against the new Communist aggression will leave the United States with the reputation all over Asia that the old Hebrew prophet first gave to Pharaoh—we shall be regarded as a broken reed, that pierces any hand that leans upon it.

The Communist arrogance and contempt for American power that is revealed by the new aggression in Laos has of course been predictable for some time. It is a natural result of our persistent neglect of the military power balance, which has long disquited people like General Gavin—the people you therefore sneeringly accused of suffering from "Sputniksyndrome."

But now the challenge is not just predictable. It confronts us squarely, with just as much functional menace as the challenge in Korea that President Truman first invited by disarmament, and then responded to so admirably. Don't you think that in these circumstances the challenge deserves to be taken as seriously as a personal appearance tour, even a Presidential personal appearance tour?

And don't you think it may be time to do something drastic about the defense problem as well?

Sincerely,

JOSEPH ALSOP.

UNCLE SAM'S MEAT SALE—The government's annual meat sale was announced recently. Each year, the Interior department conducts a sale of big game animals from Wild Life refuges in the west in order to keep the herds within manageable proportions.

This year's sale will consist of 303 buffaloes, 110 longhorn cattle and 91 elk. The buffalo and elk can be bought alive or butchered. The longhorn cattle will be sold at public auction.

Prices are higher this year because of increased demands from sportsmen desiring roasts and steaks for club dinners and banquets.

Butchered buffalo carcass will cost from $160 to $200, depending on weight. Half carcasses can be bought for $80 to $100. Elk will cost from $100 to $130, with half carcasses available.

Live buffalo and elk also may be purchased at a cost of $100 to $140. Purchasers must provide their own truck or crate.

Wasps, Stamp Collections, And Enough Sleep

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Nashville, Ind., reader eliminated red and black wasps from his home by using moth balls. He lives in an old house in the hills, and for 12 years has battled wasps with all the insecticides on the market. In desperation he threw a few moth balls into the attic. The insects disappeared and have not returned.

A stamp dealer objected to the health hint in this column which said, "A stamp collection won't satisfy your interests during retirement." He writes: "Me-thinks thou dost protest too much. There is a little note of envy and jealousy in all this advice. You are just a little put out by the glorious fun we are having, so you want us to believe some medical mumbo jumbo that will get us back into the ranks of you working stiffs."

Stamp collecting is an excellent hobby but a retired person can't spend all his time thumbing thru or studying a stamp book. In addition, many cannot afford to buy the stamps they need to keep them busy. It is for this reason that several hobbies are better than one but be sure to select those that fit the pocketbook.

There is nothing as frustrating as being denied the things a person has looked forward to in retirement. The exception is to go into the stamp business or spend time lecturing about or trying to interest other in stamp collecting. I can understand my critic's point of view because he sells stamps and is so sensitive about the hobby, the slightest criticism is magnified.

Normal sleep patterns were mentioned in a recent article. Most of us have acquired little tricks to help relax before retiring but there is no better sedative than a clear conscience.

Mr. J. S., of our nation's capital, made the following comment: "It might have been a good idea to add a night prayer to thank God for all the good things you have received during the day, sorrow for any wrong you have done, and to ask God to guard and protect you during the night."

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

ARTHRITIC FINGERS

Mrs. W writes: A few years ago I developed painful bumps on my fingers. I still have the bumps but they no longer are sore. However, my wrists and ankles are swollen and painful. Do you think these pains will pass?

REPLY

This has all the earmarks of arthritis. There is a 50 per cent chance that these pains will disappear spontaneously but other joints may become affected. The best defense against arthritis is healthy living, including exercise, rest, and a well balanced diet.

UNWANTED HAIR

Mrs. D. writes: Since I started giving vitamins to my 11-year-old daughter, hair has grown on her face. Could the vitamins be responsible?

REPLY

No. This girl is at an age when excess hair may appear on the face regardless of whether vitamins are taken. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on superfluous hair.

INTESTINE AND APOPLEXY

R. F. writes: Is the colon paralyzed when a person has a stroke?

REPLY

No. The intestine is under the control of the sympathetic nervous system, which is not affected by a stroke. The abdominal muscles may be paralyzed.

SEVERE FROM THE START

H. T. writes: At what point does anemia become pernicious?

REPLY

It doesn't. Pernicious anemia is pernicious anemia from the start and the laboratory findings differ from those of other types of anemia. In addition, these individuals have no free hydrochloric acid in their stomach. When treated, improvement is noted in the reticulocytic system.

AGE AND EAR SURGERY

REPLY

You are too old but ear tests would be needed to determine whether there is a chance that surgery will improve hearing.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Miami Seaquarium attendants have become used to some oddball questions. One tourist wanted to know if the sea cows could be milked; another actually asked if jelly fish come in assorted flavors.

For a publicity "gag" picture, the Seaquarium and the Florida Citrus commission "planted" an orange tree — complete with tied-on fruit — smack in the middle of the Seaquarium's main tank. Within one hour, five visitors demanded to know the secret for growing oranges under water!

"What kind of a dog is it, Cyril?" asked the teacher indulgently.

Khrush Should Talk With Truman, See Big And Little U. S. Industry

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev's see-the-USA tour has been arranged after various huddles with the State Department, to take in approximately six big cities, one farm, one factory, various upper-crust dinners, plus the necessary conferences with President Eisenhower.

If I were arranging this tour—and Nikita can be grateful I'm not — I would include a session with Harry Truman, a down-to-earth guy who's skeptical about Russia but who actually is the same kind of whistle-stopper as Comrade Khrushchev. I would also include the most diverse establishments and elements in American life, some of them a credit to the USA, some of them a discredit, as follows:

REBUILDING A BLEMISH—The school in Clinton, Tenn., which was dynamited, a blot on American tolerance but at the same time a great credit to the little community that continued schooling without losing a single day; also a credit to thousands of school children all over the USA, and to organized labor and many others who contributed their time and money to rebuild it. . . . also the Charles Pfizer experimental farm at Terre Haute, Ind., where heifers and hogs are made to grow twice as fast by the use of certain hormones and vitamins. This would be a great thing for the farmers of Russia. . . . the Florida Citrus Mutual at Lakeland, Fla., one of the most successful and amazing farm cooperatives in the world, which has been able to save citrus growers millions without sacrificing private enterprise and initiative. . . . the B. B. Walker Shoe Co., in Asheboro, N. C., where 90 per cent of the workers own the stock of the company. . . .

The Vernon Co., of Newton, Iowa, which makes all sorts of advertising gadgets that would delight Russian consumers — from rain gauges to litter bags to two-way salt and pepper shakers.

TRAVELING AMERICANS — And to let Mr. K see how business can be built up overnight, I would show him the Rembrandt mobile homes plant at Chambersburg, Pa., with its sister plant at Bonham, Texas, where Speaker Sam Rayburn comes round in his shirtsleeves to chin with the workers. Robert De Rose and his brother built trailers for the U.S. Army in Italy during the war, then established their own factories after the war. . . . . or there's Champion home builders at Dryden, Mich., which turn out thousands of portable homes at an amazing low cost, complete with almost everything except TV sets. They would make most Russians goggle-eyed with envy. . . . or Airstream trailers in Jackson Center, Ohio — it not only builds trailers but Wally Byam, its chairman, has organized people-to-people trailer caravans to Europe, Canada, and Latin America. He's now taking a group of trailer-minded Americans from Capetown, Africa, to Cairo. No Russians have ever done anything like this. . . . or there's Tappan ranges in Mansfield, Ohio, which have been making cooking stoves for over 75 years and have now developed an electronic stove which can cook a six-pound roast in 30 minutes and fry bacon in 90 seconds. . . . down in Jackson, Tenn., is the independent Aluminum Foils, Inc. which is able to compete with the greats of the aluminum industry —Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, Anaconda—and make a profit. . . in Bluffton, Ohio, William R. Triplett and his company have developed electrical instruments so delicate that they can measure the smoke coming out of a chimney or the amount of static build up by a surgeon's shoes before he goes into the operating room.

SHOES AND HI-FI—Then there is Lenoard Rae, a native of Poland, whose Utrilon Co. has become the biggest manufacturers of plastic shoes in the world. He has a factory in Puerto Rico with a new one being build in Hazelton, Pa., which will make plastic shoes and sandals so cheap that they will be within the price range of the barefoot people of Africa and Asia. . . . in White Plains, N. Y., Arthur Blumenfeld is the father of hi-fi and manufacturer of more loud-speakers than any other company in the world. . . . in Barrington, N. J., Paul Weathers has developed a hi-fi stylus so light that it weighs only one gram. With it, a record can be played many thousands of times. They don't have much hi-fi in Moscow yet, but among Russian youngsters it's coming. . . . and Nikita would also be interested in the fact that 40,000,000 Americans move every year and how they do it. An average of one family out of every four pack up and change their homes every year. The best expert I know on this is Bill Kutschbach, president of United Van Lines in St. Louis, whose company makes a specialty not only of packing every article in the house, loading it, and delivering it, but also of advising the housewife how to get her children registered in school in the new town.

These are just a few of the intriguing industries, big and little, which make America — industries which Khrushchev's inquiring mind probably would delight in seeing.

Khrushchev Go-Round

It used to be that invitations to the British Embassy were the most prized cardboards in Washington. This week it was tickets to the Khrushchev luncheon at the National Press Club. Members had to call personally to pick them up. No secretary, assistant, or messenger or even the mail was entrusted with them. . . . . Carlos Denegri, Mexico's top columnist and commentator (Excelsior) took a long shot by writing Nikita Khrushchev a letter asking him various questions about Russian-Latin American relations. Believe it or not, he got an answer. It'll be published tomorrow. . . . . the once secretive Russian Embassy has really lifted the iron news curtain. Previously it was difficult to get press data regarding Russian personalities. But under the new look, the embassy carefully sent to the Press Club biographical sketches of every Russian personality accompanying Khrushchev.

On West 40th Street in New York, there is a window that proclaims The Artists and Writers Restaurant. Newspaper reporters and comic strip artists sit at the tables indulging the weaknesses of the trade: conversation laced with Scotch. The big man who moves between the tables, beckoning, bowing, snapping snide little wisecracks to old friends is Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, one of the owners.

A fat man is sensitive to the cruel jests and once, when I talked of reducing my weight, Fitzpatrick asked me how much I came to. I said 175. "You puny blob of putty," he snarled, "I weighed more than that when I was christened." He is a wit, a raconteur, a man with a heart about the size of a sports car. He is a lifter of low moods, a morale booster, a man whose eyes laugh in merry silence.

And yet, he too has old sorrows, old regrets. Once, we sat talking about pain, and Tom said that the worst one he remembered hit him one afternoon when he stepped out of the bathtub. He slipped on a bathmat and went down. He was there a moment, on hands and knees, when he noticed a budding pain in the small of his back.

It grew rapdly, radiating off to the side and, in a short time, it had the impact of a dozen aching teeth immersed in ice water. At the same time, Mr. Fitzpatrick found that he had no locomotion. His legs would not work.

The pain slowed his thinking and muddied his mind. He recalled that his wife Alice was out shopping. That left the housekeeper. He could not call her for help because he had no clothes on. Tom Fitzpatrick braced himself, opened the bathroom door a bit, and waited until the housekeeper was in another room. Then, by the power of his big arms and hands, he dragged his body through the door and inched his way to the bedroom. It was almost impossible for him to lift his weight onto the bed, but it was done at last and he lay there trying to catch his breath and trying not to moan.

He called the maid. "Get me an osteopath," he said. "Tell him it's an emergency." The girl made the call. The doctor showed up quickly. He had a small portable table. "You're too big for this," he said. "I'll have to do what I can for you in bed, then go back to my office for heavier equipment."

A sedative was given. The doctor, by sheer strength, rolled Tom Fitzpatrick over on his stomach. The pain was bad. Fitzpatrick groaned. The doctor smiled. He placed some broad vertical strips of tape over the spine, and found a heating pad. "Don't move until I get back," he said.

Tom lapsed into semi-consciousness. He was still comatose when Alice came in. She awakened her husband. The pain was worse. Much worse. The heating pad had been on high for two hours. The heat had burned the skin under the tape. Fitzpatrick tried to explain to his wife.

"Where the hell is the doctor?" he yelled. "What happened to that bum? He promised to come right back."

"I don't know, dear," Alice said. "I'll call another one right away," Tom shook his head. "I can't wait that long," he said. "Call the police. Tell them it's an emergency. They know how to get a doctor." He ground his teeth. "I hope that other guy drops dead."

Alice made the call. In a few minutes, she heard a siren. The squad car pulled to a stop. The policeman came in. Alice explained. The man listened, nodding. "Okay," he said. "Okay. The desk will get a doctor here right away." He looked at Tom and shook his head.

He made the phone call. In a minute, he was back. "A doctor will be here in ten minutes," he said.

Tom Fitzpatrick turned his face sidewards on the pillow. "I'm going to prefer charges against that other one," he said.

The policeman fidgeted. "I thought you knew," he said.

"Knew what?" Tom said.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

A huge radio telescope being built in West Virginia will peer into space 19 times farther than does the 200-inch Mount Palomar 'scope. That should give astronomers quite an eyeful.

A Federal Reserve Bank spokesman denies rumors that there is a flaw or a mistake in the new-type Lincoln pennies. Zadok Dumkopf says he believes him—there just couldn't be anything faulty about old Honest Abe.

That famous epic poem "Hiawatha," we learn, has newly been translated into Russian. Somehow, we just can't visualize the noble redskin paddling his canoe in the disguise of just another Volga boatman!

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Wildly Beautiful

HONOLULU

Gardner McKay, a muscled and wildly beautiful young man, has been selected by "Life" magazine as the successor to Tyrone Power in the dreams of the nation's women, an accolade something like that handed to Paris by Helen of Troy, only more lucrative of course. Paris couldn't do anything with that apple but eat it. Now if he'd had a modern press agent he could have parlayed it into a TV film series with residuals and goodness knows what else.

McKay has got a press agent (or rather ABC has) who writes prose almost as wildly beautiful as McKay's storied countenance: "McKay," wrote this latter day Homer, "leader of Hollywood's hearty young men, a new and fast growing group of outdoor-minded actors who lead the rugged active life . . . In addition to being an active, physical man of deep inner dimensions, His intellectual curiosities run full range. For every hour he spends in physical action, he devotes two to mental stimulation. Among his intellectual diversions are chess, voracious reading, and conversation in four languages. His mountain cottage is stacked with books (Chekhov to D. H. Lawrence)..." and so on.

McKay is the hero of an ABC-TV series "Adventures in Paradise," (a title Milton was groping for but missed) which is "by James Michener," the Homer of the Pacific islands, and produced "by Martin Manulis," one of TV's best producers. In case you want to know why I put those two things in quotes it's because "by" in television doesn't mean written by, or produced by in the sense you and I are accustomed to the word.

Mr. Michener, who has more or less appropriated the Pacific Ocean as his special literary possession, originated a word that has very elastic connotations in this business—this series. (The actual scripting is done by giant (six-foot-five) McKay is a some 75 other writers.) "I drafted the original outline in quite extensive detail — biographies of the principal characters, various settings, what we are after, and so forth," said Mr. Michener, who lives in Hawaii. "I have done two of the stories—not the actual shooting scripts, of course—and I have two more in process."

"What exactly are you after," I inquired.

"The South Pacific," said the author of "South Pacific," "is one of the great romantic adventure spots left to us. The picture of a young man with his own boat against the vastness of the Pacific carries a strong romantic appeal. The emotional thing we are after is that in an increasingly mechanized world, a guy in a schooner in the Pacific is very appealing. I don't think of it as escape fiction because there's a pretty heavy burden of responsibility on the hero."

Mr. Manulis, a realist, cleared his throat: "I think the audience will think of it as escape," he said.

Mr. Michner said: "I'd been approached by quite a few television people to do a television series. One of the principles I laid down was that the series was not to be shot on location by enthusiastic amateurs."

Representatives of the press have been flown out here to witness the unveiling of "Adventures in Paradise," which is expected to be a heavyweight hour-long contender on Monday nights (9:30 p. m. EST) following "Cheyenne," a Western, and "Bourbon Street Beat," a private eye slugfest with a New Orleans setting. Actually, though, Hawaii has only a slender connection with the series which is being shot in a tank in Hollywood. "For a weekly TV series," said Manulis, "it's a great improvement to shoot it in a studio rather than on location."

Mr. McKay, the beauteous young giant who will pilot the eighty-foot schooner through thirty-six weeks of storm-tossed television, through the thunder and lightning of Neilsen and Trendex, is already finding it a strenuous life. "Thirteen hours a day, seven days a week, for four months," he said morosely in one of his four languages. "Who else in television is doing this? I'm in four out of five shots. I get the whey beaten out of me in a warehouse. The guy renders me unconscious. I tell you it's rough."

McKay, who has not been seen on the world's screens (except for a bit part in one picture) already gets astronomical fan mail on the basis of the cover story in "Life." Or to sum it all up, the author of "Adventure in Paradise" doesn't actually write it. The islands of the Pacific are the setting except you never see them. The star gets fan mail from a lot of people who have never seen him act. Like the man said, there's no business like show business.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: Will you settle something for us? Is it more dangerous for a boy of 15 to be out from 9:00 until 4:00 at night than between 9:00 and 4:00 in the daytime?

I say it makes no difference. I contend a boy can get into just as much trouble in the daytime as at night.

My husband thinks differently and we're having some heated arguments. When our son is out very late he naturally has to sleep most of the next day to rest up. This makes my husband furious and then the arguments begin. Can you settle this?

TWO AGAINST ONE

DEAR TWO AGAINST ONE: The odds just changed. I'm with your husband. Sounds as if that 15-year-old hoot owl really put the sell on you, Mom.

Police records prove that most crimes are committed at night. The reason is obvious. Darkness is a promising ally of evil.

And what kind of companions do you think Junior is running with at dawn? Respectable boys are asleep because they're headed for school the next day—or they go to work. They aren't out prowling at these hours, that's for sure, Mother. Listen to your husband before the next voice you hear is that of the Police Sergeant.

DEAR ANN: Why is it that people in certain professions are expected to donate their services?

I'm an organist by profession. It took years of training and a great deal of money to become a recognized artist. Yet my friends and relatives think nothing of asking me to play for their church affairs, style-shows, weddings and what have you — for free.

No one would expect a florist to grow flowers and bring them to the church for nothing. They'd never dream of asking a cateress to prepare food for nothing. A clergyman would not be expected to perform the ceremony for nothing. Why then, do they ask the organist to provide the music for nothing?

I hope you print this letter. It may be a great eye-opener.

NO DO RE MI

DEAR NO DO RE MI: I suggest you learn the tune called "Gladys isn't gratis anymore." Part of your problem is that you've been a schnook.

DEAR ANN: I was sure relieved to see the letter from the girl who went next door to confide in the neighbor because her own mother wasn't the kind she could talk to. I thought I was the only girl who had such a mother.

I'm 16 and Mom is like a stranger. I've tried to talk to her but gave up. When I was 13 I was real sweet on a boy in school and I told Mom how I felt. She said, "Get those nasty thoughts out of your mind and don't let me hear such talk again." That just about did it.

A year later I let a boy kiss me and felt very guilty about it. I confessed to my mother, hoping she'd make me feel better. Instead she washed my mouth out with soap and when the boy phoned she called him a "dirty little snake."

I'm not as fortunate as the girl who wrote to you. She had a friendly neighbor. I have to keep everything inside. I hope all mothers of teen-age girls who read this will take inventory and see if perhaps something isn't missing in their home.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — If you'll pardon my quoting the song of several years ago "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries" — that's exactly what life is like these days for red-haired Rhonda Fleming, who has many jobs looming in the future. One of the most important is the femme lead in "The Crowded Sky" for Warner Bros.

In the script by Charles Schnee, based on Michael Frost's novel, Rhonda plays the dramatic role of Cheryl, the sort of part she's always wanted. She'll have Michael Garrison for her producer and Joe Pevney for her director.

"I go to Houston the 29th of this month for the City Of Hope. When I come back I do a Red Skelton spectacular, and then 'Crowded Sky" is on my crowded schedule," said Rhonda.

It almost took a Philadelphia lawyer to get Victoria Shaw pried loose from her family for the Wernher Von Braun story, "I Aim At The Stars," the movie which takes her to Europe. She'll play opposite Curt Jurgens who has a home in Munich, Germany, where the film will be made in early October.

Maria Callas, who made the headlines this past week when she separated from her husband, Italian industrialist Giovan Battista Meneghini, has always wanted to make a motion picture, and it looks now as if her fondest wish will be realized.

One thing, Miss Callas has a great personality. She not only sings like a lark, but projects sex and beauty. Although Onassis says he's not going to get a divorce and that his feelings for the operatic belle are completely platonic, everyone who knows the situation says he doesn't seem to be able to live without her.

The younger set, plus a few of Mervyn Leroy's older friends, turned out to greet young Nick Adams who's suddenly become a person of importance in our town. Nick wrote and helped get together "The Rebel," which has been sold to one of the big cosmetic companies and will be seen Oct. 4.

Mervyn has always had faith in young Nick, even in the days when he played bit parts in Leroy's pictures, and Nick listens to him as if he were his father. He makes no move without Mervyn's advice, who's never too busy to talk to young Nick, whose talent as a writer is something new. With Nick was his young wife who is expecting a baby.

One of the most prized possessions of Marjorie and Michael St. Angel is the original DElmonico 1834 bill of fare, the first ever printed in America. Of course this wasn't the later day swank Delmonico, but the first one on Pearl Street. I was intrigued with this original menu which offered a regular dinner for 13 cents! Roast beef was 5 cents, pork chops 4 cents, tea or coffee 1 cent, and the most expensive items — ham and eggs, and roast chicken—were 10 cents.

The Freeman Gosden party was just right — only 60 people and everyone who was there was able to circulate around and talk. Nedda Logan told me that everyone wanted to see the Indian necklace that belonged to Lady Mendl, after I described it. Nedda looked lovely in her ivory colored satin. Kitty Leroy just got in in time from New York to join Mervyn.

Dinah Shore, who had a ball in Europe, had on one of her Dior dresses. She said she's having a good time and doesn't have to go to work until October. William and Edie Goetz, who leave for Philadelphia where Bill accepts an award, were circulating around. Frances Goldwyn had on a stunning flowered gown. She and Sam were having such a good time, they were still there when I went home. They are usually the first ones to leave a party.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fall Fragrance

Let Old Man Weather do his work of getting you out of your hot weather ruts. He's just the man to give you a boost that will color and freshen your thoughts at the beginning of each new season. Right now, if you are listening, Mr. Weather is telling you plain that it's time to stow your summer gear, accelerate your pace to match what's ahead, and to complete your winter wardrobe, pronto!

After a few deep breaths of fall's special fragrance, you'll want a new bottle of perfume to give an equally fresh fillup to your own personality.

The summery scents seem out of key with the aroma that's in the air today. Use up the last of your bottle in your bath or in your hair and lingerie rinses. Then, set out to find the just-right scent that will say about you what you want it to.

Perfumes tell a lot about their wearer. If you choose yours knowingly, it will express the most charming things about your personality. It will suggest your discrimination and fastidiousness, of course. And it will also give a clue to whether you are light-hearted, vivacious or fragile — sophisticated, patrician or a femme fatale.

Perhaps, in the past you have been hesitant in your choice. In the future you need not be. It's as simple as this: Select the perfume you like! Ten to one it will be right for you!

Such a selection is an emotional one, probably caused by some pleasant memory, association or unconscious thought. And anything so deeply ingrained as your own sense of smell can hardly lead you astray in choosing a scent that reflects your individuality. Not unless your entire personality needs an overhauling — and that's something which only you can judge, too!

TOMORROW: Congratulations American Girls!

'Frisco Gets Five Runs In First Inning

Spencer, McCovey Hit Homers; Mike McCormick Victor

By SCOTT BAILLIE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants clung to their lead in the National League Tuesday by blasting two rookie pitchers for a 13-6 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

A three-run homer by Daryl Spencer in the second inning which followed a five-run outburst in the opening frame was more than enough to assure Mike McCormick of his first win of the year against Cincinnati. The boyish portsider also won his 12th game and halted a losing streak which had reached four in a row.

McCovey Hits 12th

Willie McCovey, San Francisco's willowy rookie, also snapped out of a slump by collecting three hits which included his 12th home run and a double.

McCormick did not have any breeze and staggered badly in spots as the Reds got to him for 12 hits.

12 Passes Issued

Osteen, who gave up seven of 12 bases on balls to the Giants, was clubbed for Spencer's 12th home run in the second inning after passing Orlando Cepeda and giving up a single to Alou.

Ed Bailey and Frank Thomas swung the heftiest bats for the losers by cracking bases-empty homers off McCormick. Bailey hit his in the fourth and Thomas followed with another in the eighth.

Senators Split With Athletics

KC Takes 2nd, 6-2, After 1-0 Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The battle for the American League cellar produced no change Tuesday night when the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Washington Senators, 6-2, after being shut out in the twi-light portion of a double header, 1-0 on Camilo Pascual's three-hitter.

Pascual was superb in the opener. He allowed only one man to get as far as second base and only one man reached first in the last five innings.

The Cuban right-hander pitched his 16th complete game and struck out nine to bring his season's total to 167 — the best for a Washington pitcher since the incomparable Walter Johnson fanned 188 in 1917.

John Tsitouris matched ciphers with Pascual until the seventh when Steve Korcheck and Pascual singled, and rookie Dan Dobbek doubled Korchek home with the lone run of the game.

Pedro Ramos retired nine in a row in the second game and the Senators jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning but the A's tied it in the fourth and chased Ramos with two runs in the fifth.

Ray Jablonski hit his first American League homer off reliever Russ Kemmerer in the ninth. Johnny Kucks went all the way on a five-hitter to pick up his eighth victory of the year.

Robby Registers For Senior Year

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson, the University of Cincinnati's two-time All-America basketball player, registered at the school Tuesday for his senior year. Robertson's registration put at rest, at least for the time being, recurring rumors that he would withdraw from school and sign a professional contract with the Harlem Globetrotters.

Brewer Cops Duel On Malzone's Hit

BOSTON (UPI)—Frank Malzone broke up a frigid pitching duel between Jim (Mudcat) Grant and Tommy Brewer with a ninth inning single that scored Pete Runnels from second base, gave the Boston Red Sox a 1-0 victory on Tuesday night and just about eased the Cleveland Indians out of the American League pennant picture.

Malzone slashed a one-out pitch from Grant into left field for his second hit of the cold and rainy evening after both teams had failed to produce any serious scoring threat over the first eight frames.

Both Brewer and Grant allowed six hits, Russ Nixon of Cleveland getting the only extra base hit of the game, a wasted double in the fourth when Malzone retired the side on ground balls.

A hardy gathering of 8,456 sat through 45 degree temperatures and intermittant drizzle as Brewer won his 10th game against 11 defeats. Grant's record is now 9-7.

Runnels led off the last of the ninth with the fifth hit off Grant, a sharp single into center field. He went to second on Gene Stephens' sacrifice and Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon ordered Grant to pass Jackie Jensen intentionally. It was Grant's only walk of the game compared with three by Brewer and set the stage for Malzone's clutch hit.

Cleveland's best chance of the night came in the eighth when Brewer walked Grant and then booted Ray Webster's bunt. But Chuck Tanner grounded into Boston's third double play and Minnie Minoso flied out.

Lions Ask Waivers On Gene Gedman

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Lions Tuesday asked waivers on veteran halfback Gene Gedman and three rookies in order to cut down to the 38-player limit.

Coach George Wilson said waiver were also asked on defensive back Jim Wagstaff of Idaho State, tackle Dick Gusman of West Virginia, and halfback George Gillar of Texas A&M.

Gedman injured his knee last year and underwent surgery to have the condition corrected. But his doctors advised him Tuesday to stay on the sidelines at least for this season to give the knee more time to heal.

Colts Place Lyles, Call On Waivers

Baltimore Club's Roster Cut To 37

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Call and Lenny Lyles, offensive halfbacks on the Baltimore Colt squad which won the National Football League championship last year, were placed on waivers Tuesday.

The cuts, announced by Coach Weeb Ewbank after he failed to swing a trade earlier in the day, reduced the club roster to 37—one above the new league limit.

Call, a two-year veteran from Colgate, and Lyles, former Louisville flash who joined the team last year, were the first 1958 Colts who failed outright to make the grade this season. Another has been placed on the retired roster and two were traded.

Call had been given a shot at fullback to expand his versatility and improve his chance of keeping a berth. Lyles, who scored two touchdowns last year on kickoff returns from his own end zone, was found wanting as a pass receiver but showed signs of improvement in this department in training camp this year.

The departure of Call and Lyles appeared to cinch a halfback post for Hal Lewis of Houston, one of five rookies who have survived pre-season cuts. The others are guard Hanson Churchwell of Mississippi, linebacker Tommy Addison of South Carolina, and ends Jerry Richardson of Wofford and Dave Sherer of Southern Methodist.

Cards Defeat Phillies, 6-4

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Ernie Broglio limited the Philadelphia Phillies to five hits Tuesday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-4 victory.

Tim McCarver, a prize 17-year-old rookie catcher, came up with a pair of singles and scored two runs to make Broglio's seventh victory an easy one. He has lost 12.

The Cards jumped off to a 3-1 lead in the first inning and never were in trouble. The Phillies scored in the first inning on a tainted run, on two errors by second baseman Wally Shannon.

The Cards' first inning outburst was led off by McCarver, who scored on Joe Cunningham's triple. A walk, Gene Oliver's single and a double steal accounted for the other runs.

Alex Grammas and Cunningham had two hits apiece to share hitting honors for the Cards with McCarver.

Grand Jury Calls Four Ring Figures

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four figures from the boxing world were called to testify Tuesday before a special federal grand jury probing syndicated crime. Scheduled to appear were Mrs. Aileen Eaton and George Parnassus, local promotors; boxing publicist Donald Fraser; and William Daly, a New Jersey boxing executive. They were to be asked for any evidence they might have of gangster influence in ring circles.

Winning Run Is Forced In By McMahon

By ALEX KAHN

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Pitcher Don McMahon walked in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning Tuesday to give the Los Angeles Dodgers an 8-7 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and put the clubs into a second-place tie in the pennant race.

With the Dodgers trailing 7-6 in the 10th, Dodger shortstop Maury Wills got his fifth with one away and pinch hitter Chuck Essegian singled him to third. Jim Gilliam hit a sacrifice fly to score Wills with the tying run. Second baseman Charlie Neal followed with a single and Wally Moon walked to load the bases.

Fairly Breaks Tie

Fairly had gotten the Dodgers off to a running start in the fourth inning with a double that touched off a five-run rally and left the Dodgers in possession of a 5 - 2 lead. Both teams added runs in the sixth inning, but the Braves closed the gap to 6-5 in the eighth when Hank Aaron doubled in two runs.

The Braves tied it in the top of the ninth and went ahead in the 10th when Johnny Logan brought Joe Adcock home from third with a sacrifice fly.

As 17,347 fans sat rooted to their seats after nearly four hours of baseball, the Dodgers came back to push over their two runs in the bottom half of the inning for the victory.

The Braves go off to a two-run lead in the first on Adcock's homer over the screen with Eddie Mathews on base.

Mont Takes Over Post At DePauw

Hopes To Escape "Unfair Pressure"

GREENCASTLE, Ind. — Maryland's loss, in the matter of football coaches, is DePauw's gain and a mutual admiration society is developing rapidly between this Methodist school and Tommy Mont who takes over as grid chief with the opening of fall practice.

Tommy Mont

DePauw and Mont got together a few months ago after Bob Hicks moved to Detroit University and Tommy got fed up with pressure of big-time coaching.

A sort of combination guest of honor and principal speaker at a luncheon with news and radio men on the campus, Mont explained "for the millionth time" why he left Maryland and came to DePauw.

The answer? He wanted "a job where the cards are on the table and an impossible job (of coaching) is not asked."

Mont said big-time football today is a case of "who gets there with the mostest" (meaning players, players and more players). And he said any big-time coach rated at the top "by public opinion" has an ideal situation (meaning he's getting players, players and more players).

It followed then that Maryland, wanting a winner as bad as the next one but failing to enroll the necessary talent, turned on its coach after losing 18 of 30 games over a three-year period.

So Mont is at DePauw where there is no "unfair pressure" and where he declares he'll field a fundamentally sound, strictly-conditioned football team.

Mont, who started his football at Allegany High School in Cumberland, Md., doesn't know exactly what to expect from his club which has 18 lettermen but numbers only 38. However, the boys appear in excellent physical shape and Tommy said he's going to have more overall backfield speed than he ever had at Maryland.

Redskins Drop Four Players

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins Tuesday dropped four players, two of them injured, in order to reach the 38-man limit prescribed for this stage of the season.

Waivers were asked on defensive halfback Gene Cichowski, formerly of Indiana and the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Stan Flowers, who played at Georgia Tech.

Jack Davis, er-Maryland guard, was placed on the injured list. He will undergo a knee operation later this week. Joe Nicely, a guard from West Virginia, was put on the club's reserve list. He hurt a shoulder in preseason training. Both Davis and Nicely may try out again next year.

Bow To Replogle, Wysong; Coe, Ward And Patton Score

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Replogle, who describes himself as a "light producer of heavy crude oil," outplayed 21-year-old Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., the 1959 British Amateur champion, 4 and 3. Wysong, playing in his second national championship, eliminated former Walker Cup captain Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 2 and 1.

These were the two big surprises half way through the second day's play over the 7,010-yard, par 71 Broadmoor course.

Coe Is Victor

The defending champion, Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, his Walker Cup teammates Bill Hyndman and Billy Joe Patton, and former amateur champions Harvie Ward and Jack Westland were among the early winners.

Coe, improving with each round after having been away from competition since the British Amateur last spring, routed young James Mallory of Spokane, Wash., 6 and 5 and held his place as the player to beat in the top quarter of the draw.

Chick Evans Loses

There wasn't a real surprise showing on the scoreboard until Replogle came in, although such players as Don Albert, a former Walker Cupper, Marty Stanovich, a rugged competitor from Chicago, and 69-year-old Chick Evans, the oldest player in the tournament, were among the losers.

Replogle, playing in his eighth National Amateur and about his 20th tournament on the Broadmoor course, shot a scrambling par round for 16 holes against Beman.

Game And Fish Commission Sets Hearing Oct. 3

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Game and Inland Fish Commission will hold a public hearing in Hagerstown Oct. 3 on proposed new fishing regulations for 1960.

It will also air a proposal to outlaw the luring of migratory game birds and wild turkeys by the use of recorded bird calls and sounds. The Federal government now has such a regulation for migratory birds but it does not apply to turkeys.

Other matters to be taken up at the meeting (9 a. m. in Alexander Hotel) include the setting of season and creel limits for inland fish, the designation of trout streams and the outlawing of fishing from bridges at Deep Creek Lake during the summer season.

Vic Schwartz Will Lead Terp Gridders

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Maryland stressed its passing offense and defense Tuesday in preparation for the opener against West Virginia Saturday.

The Terrapins also worked on goal line defense and, during the last half hour of the practice session, on kickoff and kickoff returns.

Steelers Get Luna

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bobby Luna, kicking specialist with the San Francisco 49ers, was traded Tuesday to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a draft choice. Luna, a University of Alabama football product, was San Francisco's first line punter in the 1955 National League season. He was in military service the next two years and last year was an assistant on the Alabama coaching staff.

Potomac State Opens Season At Wesleyan Saturday

Lough Begins 25th Year As Cats' Mentor

Sophomore Lineup Will Face Bobcats In Buckhannon Tilt

By TED TROXELL

The Catamounts of Potomac State College journey to Buckhannon Saturday for their 1959 football opener with West Virginia Wesleyan. Kickoff time will be 8 p. m. (EST).

Dana G. "Horse" Lough, athletic director and head football coach at the Keyser institution, is beginning his 25th year at the helm of the Catamounts.

To Play Nine Games

Potomac State will play a nine-game schedule in 1959, with five West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference foes to be met, and teams from the recently-formed Tri-State Athletic Conference providing the opposition in four of the contests.

This marks the first time in three years that the Catamounts have played Wesleyan. The Loughmen rolled up a 40-0 victory over the Upshur Countians in their last meeting in 1956.

Last year's PSC eleven compiled a record of five wins, three defeats, and one tie. Waynesburg (Pa.) College and Newport News (Va.) Apprentice School have been dropped from the schedule this year to make room for conference members.

Saturday, October 24, has been designated as Homecoming Day. Montgomery Junior College, of Takoma Park, Md., will invade Stayman Field that afternoon.

Coach Lough yesterday announced an all-sophomore tentative starting lineup, which averages 195 pounds along the forward wall, and 180 in the backfield.

Probable Starters

Pete Butler, of Washington, D. C., and Stan Wilamowski, Ambridge, Pa., will get the starting call at the end positions; Tom Harman, Keyser, and Fred Manuel, of West Orange, N. J., at guards; Ed Beams, Freehold, N. J., and John Blake, Cumberland, tackles; and Chuck Magyar, of Lakewood, N. J., is at center.

In the backfield, Petersburg's Dick Huffman will do the quarterbacking; George Malt, of Pittsburgh, and Sam Fernandez, Clarksburg, will start at the halfback slots; and Mark Wenzel, one of three Keyser gridders on the squad, will work from the fullback post.

Sept. 19—At Wesleyan
Sept. 26—Glenville
Oct. 2—Salem
Oct. 10—At Shepherd
Oct. 17—Davis & Elkins
Oct. 24—Montgomery JC
Oct. 31—Wesley JC
Nov. 7—At Concord
Nov. 14—At Baltimore JC

Orioles Edge Detroit, 2-1

Error Decides Battle In 11th

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Lou Berberet's error allowed Albie Pearson to score the winning run in the last of the 11th inning Tuesday night and give the Baltimore Orioles a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Pearson raced home from third base and appeared to be an easy out at the plate on Gus Triandos' grounder to shortstop Ted Lepcio. Lepcio's throw beat Pearson, but Berberet lost the ball after making the tag on the sliding Pearson.

The miscue broke up a pitching duel between winner Hoyt Wilhelm (15-11) and Paul Foytack (13-14). Each pitcher allowed one run in the first inning and then settled down to match scoreless frames.

Billy Klaus opened the Oriole 11th with a walk. Pearson went in to run for him. Gene Woodling, who earlier in the evening received an automobile, boat, heifer, and other gifts from Baltimore fans, singled to right as Pearson took second.

Bob Nieman sacrificed the two runners and the Tigers elected to pitch to Triandos with first base open.

Gail Harris' infield hit, a passed ball and Al Kaline's single to left gave the Tigers their only run which was unearned off Wilhelm. Wilhelm's earned run average is now 2.17. The Orioles tied it 1-1 on Klaus' double and two infield outs.

Wilhelm fanned seven, walked six batters and hit one. Foytack walked only two and struck out three. The victory moved Baltimore into a tie for fourth place with Detroit in the American League.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP) — Georgiana Foster's Outgiving, longest shot in the field of seven, led all the way to win the Summer Festival Handicap at Aqueduct Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Better Self-Tiny Request, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, scored by a neck over the favored Mail Order from the Alamode Farm. Pin Oak Farm's Derrick was a close third another neck behind.

The time of 1:23 4/5 for the seven furlongs set a track mark for the spanking new track which opened yesterday.

Virtually ignored by the crowd of 24,567, Outgiving returned the across the board mutuels of $29.60, $8.00 and $4.80. Mail Order paid $4.10 and $3.10 and Derrick was $4.00 to show.

Shoemaker Will Ride On Friday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Shoemaker, the riding star who escaped serious injury in a spill Monday at the new Aqueduct track, was released from the Physicians Hospital Tuesday morning.

Shoemaker is scheduled to ride Round Table, the top money-winning thoroughbred, in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City Saturday. A hospital spokesman said Willie would be "pretty sore and stiff for a couple of days."

Tuesday morning Dr. Alexander Kaye, medical officer for the jockeys' guild, said Shoemaker will be able to ride again Friday.

Chicago Beats Yankees, 4-3, For 34th One-Run Decision

Freak Double Play Climaxes New York Tilt

Shaw Helps Pierce Win 14th; Mantle Belts Two Homers

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Chicago White Sox staged a typical late-inning rally and then came up with a sensational game - ending freak double play Tuesday to beat the New York Yankees, 4-3, and score their 34th one-run decision of the season.

The White Sox unveiled the sacrifice fly as their latest secret weapon to score three of their four runs and overcome two booming homers by Mickey Mantle, who drove in all three New York tallies.

But it took the freak double play in the last of the ninth before Billy Pierce, aided by Bob Shaw's relief, chalked up his 14th win of the year.

Mantle Hits Pair

Mantle had led off the ninth with his second homer of the game—a tremendous shot into the right field bleachers that cut the White Sox' lead to one run. Elston Howard then doubled with one out and Bobby Shantz ran for him. Hector Lopez then looped a sinking liner into short right field which appeared certain to drop in for a hit. Right fielder Jim Rivera made a shoetop catch of the ball, however, and threw to second in an attempt to double Shantz. The ball bounced away from Luis Aparicio but third baseman Bubba Phillips came up behind him to pick up the ball and beat Shantz back to second base to end the game.

Ralph Terry carried a 2-1 lead into the top of the eighth inning for the Yankees but retired in favor of Whitey Ford when he developed a kink in his right side. That apparently was the signal for the White Sox to stage another of their late-inning rallies.

Ford Is Kayoed

Nelson Fox greeted Ford with a single and Ted Kluszewski walked with one out. Sherman Lollar, whose sacrifice fly in the fourth inning drove in the first Chicago run, singled up the middle to bring in Fox and kayo Ford. Bob Turley hit Al Smith in the back to fill the bases and Rivera followed with a sacrifice fly that put the White Sox in front, 3-2.

The White Sox added what proved to be the decisive run in the ninth when Aparicio tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Norman Cash.

Eddie Machen And Besmanoff Clash Tonight

Heavies To Tangle In Bout At Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Eddie Machen, seeking to regain some of the lustre he knew when a top-flight heavyweight contender, is favored to defeat Willie Besmanoff Wednesday night when they square off in a 10-round, nationally televised bout.

It will be the sixth of the year for Machen since World Champion Ingemar Johansson flattened him in less than one round last September with that well-known right. Eddie has won all of the bouts in his comeback drive against opponents who are not too well known.

Eddie Metrie, Willie's manager, said that he passed up a $20,000 payday elsewhere for the Machen fight.

He added that Willie's backers in Milwaukee "will beat any offer from anywhere" for a title fight involving their Munich import.

Besmanoff has won three out of five fights this year. He lost to Zora Folley and Don Fleeman and beat Alvin Williams, Mike DeJohn and Ben Marshall. The Johansson drubbing is Machen's lone defeat in 31 fights.

SUSPEND TRAINER-DRIVER—Trainer-driver Charles Fitzpatrick, Jr., has been suspended by the New York State Harness Racing commission after a test showed Speedy Pick, upset winner of the $50,000 National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Raceway last week had been drugged prior to that race. The commission sought for questioning a groom who was fired by Fitzpatrick last Monday. Fitzpatrick, who denies administering anything to the horse is shown with Speedy Pick right after that horse's Derby win.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Neale Fraser of Australia, the new United States tennis champion, played the game for nearly 15 years before he discovered the "secret" of winning.

And that was only two months ago!

"I was slow to wake up, wasn't I?" said the good-natured Aussie southpaw with a characteristic gibe at himself. "But it finally occurred to me that I was beating myself with errors so I concentrated on knocking the ball back to let the other fellow beat himself for a change."

Best Known Secret

"That's about the best - known "secret" in the game of tennis, a gospel preached not only by Fraser's own coach, Harry Hopman, but top hands in both American amateur and pro ranks.

It's a lesson our kid players had better learn fast if they hope to stay ahead of the current crop of Australian juniors. Certainly Hopman won't neglect to remind his young players that Fraser was just another big slugger until he learned to keep the ball in play.

"Seixas didn't become a fine player until he learned to play out every point," according to Col. Jim Bishop, former president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association. "Up to that time, he tried to hit winners with every shot but that's not the way this game is played."

Ron Is A Blaster

Now there's Brooklyn's Ron Holmberg, who can hit every power shot in the books and handles a racquet as well as any player in the game. But Ron is a blaster. He'd like to make every shot he hits the last shot of the rally.

"The pros don't play it that way," says Don Budge. "You never see a professional hit a hard shot when an easy one will do the job. For one thing the margin for error is too great when you're smashing the ball. For another, why wear yourself out if you don't have to?"

Maria Bueno of Brazil, the new U.S. women's champ, follows much the same philosophy now that she's on a winning streak. She has the power shots to force a foe out of position but once that takes place she'll powder - puff a placement into a wide open court with can't-miss confidence.

Cold Weather Stops Pirates And Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—The game between the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed Tuesday because of cold weather.

At the time of the postponement the temperature was 59 degrees. The Cubs and Pirates will play a double-header Wednesday.

BATTERING RAM

Swift Plant Is Still Picketed

A spokesman for the company reported that although the picket line is being manned, some departments are operating on a normal basis.

Approximately 35 employes of the local plant went on strike Monday after pickets from the Pittsburgh Meat Cutters union appeared at the plant.

A number of other Swift plants in the area have not been affected, the company said.

The overflowing of the Hoang-Ho river in China in 1887 cost up to seven million lives.

The remains of Julius Caesar lie in the tomb of the Caesars in the Campus Martius in the city of Rome.

Get Extra Time

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Thousands of government workers got an extra 51 minutes for lunch Tuesday, all because of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. When it was learned that the Russian leader's plane would be late in arriving, employes of the agencies along the parade route were told they could extend their lunch break to watch the procession.

Forty per cent of the land in the United States and about 35 per cent of its natural resources are in the west, yet only about 14 per cent of the people live in this region.

Proposes Peace Ship

MOSCOW (UPI)— Rep. Victor Anfuso, (D-N.Y.) Tuesday proposed that the United States and Russia together build a "world peace ship" that would fly men to the moon. Anfuso, now visiting Moscow, said he would make the proposal in a meeting with space scientist Leonid Sedov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and president of the International Federation of Astronautics.

Japan had its first known contact with the West when a Portugese ship off course arrived in Japanese waters about the year 1542.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going steady with this fellow for five months. I am 16 and he is 17. We get along very well—except for one thing. About three weeks ago he got fresh with me in a Drive-in. I immediately put a stop to it and bawled him out. He behaved himself for a while, but a little later on he started the same thing again. I stopped him once more and told him he had the wrong girl. I like this boy, Abby, and don't want to lose him. What do I do if he tries it again?
GOOD GIRL

DEAR GOOD: (and if you want to stay that way, listen carefully): If he tries it again—you've got the wrong fellow. Three strikes and he deserves to be OUT! And I mean OUT of your life.

Market Declines But Late Rally Reduces Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally in stocks was not sufficient enough to overcome early sharp losses, and the list in general finished on the downside Tuesday.

Trading was heavier than Monday's on both the downside and upside, and the total for the session came to 2,830,000 shares, as against 2,590,000 shares Monday.

Losses in many key issues were sharply reduced by the rally, and some early losers even managed to finish on higher ground.

Uncertainties over the steel strike, tight money and the Khrushchev visit were blamed for the early weakness. Support came into the market, however, after the Russian premier's generally friendly arrival speech.

The lingering steel strike continued to keep steel shares off balance. U. S. Steel and Youngstown both rose more than a point while Republic lost 1¾ and Granite City Steel dropped 1⅜.

Oils were not helped too much by the late rally. Shell finished off 2. Honolulu Oil and Gulf off 1¾ each and Texaco off 1⅜.

Motors were erratic. Ford moved up nearly a point as the Ford Foundation denied rumors that it was planning to sell more of its Ford stock, while American Motors lost ½ despite an optimistic report by its president. Chrysler rose ⅞, but General Motors eased ½.

IBM stood out in a generally easier electronics group with a 4½ point loss. Drugs featured losses of more than 2 points in Vick and Warner & Lambert.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

South's opening bid of two no trump does not meet with our approval inasmuch as it is based on only 20 high card points, two under the textbook requirements. If partner is unable to respond voluntarily to a one diamond opening, it is very unlikely that a game will have been lost.

Against the three no trump contract West led the five of clubs and East's queen was taken by South's king. The king of diamonds followed by the ace brought home to declarer the sad news that East had four of the suit. Spades appeared now to be the only hope, and declarer offered up the king. West won the trick and realizing the necessity for killing the dummy, returned the king of hearts. Had declarer taken this trick, his cause would have been lost, but he held up and West continued with the nine. This trick was taken in the closed hand and the spade suit cleared while the ace of hearts still remained in dummy. In this manner declarer scored 10 tricks.

West was guilty of a miscue. When the king of spades was led he should have refused it. His subsequent defense was a noble effort to correct his initial error, but it came too late. If declarer happens to have three spades there is nothing that West can do to defeat the contract, for the ace of hearts cannot be driven out of dummy in time to prevent the establishment of the spades. If West refuses the first spade South can continue the suit, but he will have only one entry in dummy. This will permit the establishment of the suit, but there will be no way to get in to cash it.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans were firm and other grains were mostly steady Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅛; corn was off ⅛ to 1¼; oats were up ¾; new oats were off ½ to up ⅛; rye was off 1⅝ to 2⅛, and soybeans were up ½ to 1.

Wheat prices receded from early highs but they were higher than Monday's close. Exporters were early buyers. Commission houses bought March wheat and elevators sold it.

Corn was easier. September came close to reaching the old seasonal low. Other contracts established new lows. There was resting demand for December corn at $1.10. Commercial houses were on both sides of the market. Northwest brokers sold May corn. Subsidy bids were again rejected.

Oats were under considerable liquidating pressure early. However, there was some recovery later in the session. Cash houses bought September and sold December oats. September longs sold early to avoid taking tenders.

Hedging pressure was absent in the soybean market and offerings were light. Shorts bought because of the threat of frost in central Minnesota. A crop survey by an Iowa firm, indicating a 500 million bushel production, also was an influence. A steady tone in the meal market seemed to help.

European shippers were reported to have bought soybeans and Formosa was said to be in the market for wheat.

STUDIES OUTBREAK

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Dr. James Mason, a member of a poliomyelitis surveillance unit of the U. S. Public Health Center in Atlanta, arrived here Friday to aid in a study of a polio outbreak in Kanawha County. Kanawha has more than half of West Virginia's total of polio cases. Mason has studied similar outbreaks in other parts of the country.

Man Posts $500 Bond On Charge Of Shooting 2

Hearing Is Scheduled On September 23

A retired railroader posted $500 bond on a charge of malicious wounding in the shooting of two Ridgeley area men yesterday.

James Smith, RD 1, Ridgeley, will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday, September 23, before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle in Keyser, W. Va. on the charge of wounding Preston Miller, 21, and Louis Llewellyn, 26, both of RD 1, Ridgeley.

The shooting, West Virginia State Police said, apparently is the outgrowth of a long-standing feud between Smith and several of his neighbors.

Cpl. Evan Moody, who investigated, said Smith apparently fired a single blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at the two men who were at the gate of his property.

Treated At Hospital

The former railroader claimed the two men were jumping up and down on the gate and attempting to tear down the gate and his fence.

Both the wounded men, who were treated at Memorial Hospital here, denied that they were tearing down the gate, but said they were climbing over it to take a short cut across Smith's property on their way to work. The two men are employed by the L.M.Y. Plumbing Company of Pinto. They were shot about 7 a. m.

Smith fired on the two men from the porch of his house, a distance of about 50 yards, the officer said.

Hospital attendants said neither of the men was wounded seriously. Miller had numerous pellet wounds of the face and neck, while Llewellyn received much of the shotgun charge in his back, hips and left hand.

Cpl. Moody said police have received numerous complaints and have made several arrests in the quarrel over a period of months.

Equity Suit Filed

Recently, he stated, Llewellyn and Arthur Moreland, another neighbor, had been accused of destroying a gate which Smith had placed across a small road leading over the Smith property from the Moreland, Llewellyn, and Miller homes to Route 28.

During the quarrel over the right of way Smith blocked the road with his gate, the officer said, and Llewellyn and Moreland filed an injunction suit in Keyser against the man to force him to open the road again.

The suit is scheduled to come before Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral County Circuit Court, on Monday.

Local Man Hurt When Car Wrecks

Harry Smith Taken To Garrett Hospital

A 36-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad carman was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when his automobile swerved off a Garrett County road, struck a fence and overturned.

Harry Paul Smith, 708 Brookfield Avenue, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland shortly after the accident, which occurred at 4 p. m. His condition is listed as "critical" from possible internal injuries, deep cuts of the forehead and multiple bruises over his body.

Trooper R. D. Henline of the Maryland State Police investigated and said Smith was traveling alone headed north on Turkey Neck Road toward Deep Creek Lake from State Route 135.

He lost control of his car while rounding a curve in the county road, ran through a fence along the roadway and overturned. The car was badly damaged in the crash, the trooper said. The accident occurred about 2½ miles east of Deer Park.

Forest Radio Equipment Is To Be Added

Two Fire Towers Will Get Units

The radio network of the district forester's office here is going to be enlarged in the near future when radios are installed in two forest fire towers in Western Maryland.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said radios will be installed at the Town Hill tower and at the Foxville tower, which is located in Frederick County.

The electricity to the Town Hill tower in Allegany County will be furnished by the Potomac Light and Power Company of Berkeley Springs, W. Va. The Foxville tower has had electricity.

The addition of the radio equipment will facilitate the dispatch of radio-equipped forestry department cars to areas where fires have to be investigated.

Five towers in the district are now equipped with radios, according to Mr. Johnson, who said there are now 28 mobile units in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties which compose his district.

The first radio was installed about 1946 at the Court House here and two cars were equipped at that time.

Shortly afterwards a radio was installed at the Dan's Rock tower. Telephone lines were used with the remote set at the Court House.

In 1952 microwave equipment was installed at Johnson's office and it relays messages to and from the office through the Dan's Rock tower throughout the district.

Regulation Of Hospitals Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglas Sears suggested Tuesday that formation of a state authority with supervisory powers might be one way to help Maryland's hospitals operate more economically.

Sears, testifying before a Legislative Committee studying Blue Cross costs, said such an agency could examine the hospitals' operation "from the standpoint of efficiency with a view to determining the most economical methods and procedures."

However, Sears emphasized that most hospitals weren't "formed for the purpose of making the greatest possible profit" but existed "primarily for the idealist purpose of healing the sick."

Sears also recommended that Blue Cross afford the general public more representatives on its board of directors, adding it "would be well if a majority . . . were not connected with hospitals."

The public representatives should be "laymen chosen from civic minded persons who are willing to devote the time and effort necessary to do the important work of Blue Cross."

Charter Change On Street Work Becomes Law

Rate Setting Ordinance Slated

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 9, which changes the rules for street construction and resurfacing, became effective yesterday.

The resolution became a part of the city charter when Mayor J. Edwin Keech signed the resolution passed by the Mayor and Council 50 days before, on July 27.

A copy of the charter change will be forwarded to state officials to be incorporated into the state code.

A petition containing some 155 signatures was filed with the Mayor and Council last week but had no effect upon the resolution as 2,328 voter signatures would have been needed to force a referendum.

The charter change is expected to have a profound effect on street construction in Cumberland, as it will allow the city to file liens on areas improved with light surface treatment.

The adoption of the charter amendment, and bids for several street projects opened here Monday, will pave the way for an ordinance furthering the street work plan.

The amendment includes a clause that the Mayor and Council may adopt a schedule of fees for paving, repaving, grading, regrading, surfacing, resurfacing, guttering, reguttering and otherwise improving with charges be uniform throughout the city.

The schedule adopted may be changed at any time by ordinance.

Before the charter plan was passed, city officials were supplied with a suggested rate schedule for all types of work, based on average current construction costs and shared about 75 per cent by the property owner and 25 per cent by the city.

South End Bar Loses License For 30 Days

Following an unusual afternoon hearing yesterday, the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners suspended the beer and wine license of Mrs. Ruth G. Metz, trading as Clark's Bar, 315 Springdale Street, for 30 days beginning Sunday, September 20.

The unanimous decision of Edward J. Ryan, Howard Vandegrift and Melvin Sloan, the three board members, was that the conduct of the establishment was detrimental to the public welfare.

Most of the nine witnesses heard yesterday by the liquor board were neighbors who complained about vulgar language and fights on the premises.

Mrs. Metz has held the license only since the new liquor year started May 1. The complainants said that the noise and other bad conduct had developed in the past several months.

Mrs. Metz was given a stern warning that any recurrence would result in the loss of her license. She was represented at the hearing by Attorney Simon F. Reilly. He argued that his client should have received only a warning on the grounds that no liquor laws had been violated.
